Hilltop expansion denied

By DONNA HENDRICK

Virginia Beach City Council Monday voted unanimously to deny an application to expand Hilltop North Shopping Center.

After a surprisingly brief hearing on the subject, council denied the application of Su Su Developers for a change of zoning from Residence Suburban District 3 to General Commercial District 1 and a use permit for a proposed Montgomery Ward store to sell tires, batteries and accessories.

The developers had indicated previously they would further expand the shopping center with an enclosed mall to include 29 business firms. The mall was to be developed on 10 acres of land immediately east of the existing shopping center, north of Laskin Road, west of Winwood Drive and along Laurel Lane in Lynnhaven Borough.

Council followed the Planning Commission's recommendation for denial of the application. The Commission heard the application in January during an emotional 90-minute session attended by many residents of the area who opposed the expansion.

After that session, the developers met with members of the Laurel Manor and Linlier Civic Leagues to work out a compromise solution agreeable to both parties.

But attorney H. Calvin Spain, who represented the developers, reported to Council that no compromise was possible. Spain asked to withdraw the application.

"There was a tremendous amount of opposition at the Planning Commission hearing," Spain said. "Since that time, the developer has attempted to work out a solution which could be presented to you today."

"No compromise solution is possible, I therefore move for a withdrawal," Spain said.

Attorney Richard G. Brydges represented the Linlier and Laurel Manor civic leagues in opposing the application. He asked Council to deny the application rather than let it be withdrawn.

He spoke for residents of the area who turned out en masse for the council hearing. They filled the chambers to overflowing, standing along the walls and in the halls when all seats were filled.

"There have been many meetings between the developers and the residents," Brydges said, "but this is a matter upon which we cannot negotiate. Our credo is 'not one inch more.'"

"Although the builders have been fair and honest with us, we want to call for a vote for denial," Brydges said.

Councilman F. Reid Ervin moved for denial of the application. The vote was unanimous in favor of denial with Dr. Clarence Holland absent.

The developers will have to wait one year before again requesting the change of zoning and use permit, although Spain indicated that the developers would now lease the property.

National sports award to Sun

The Virginia Beach Sun has won a national award for Sports Editor Jay Brumbley's coverage last year of the City's championship softball team, the Indian Lakes Piledrivers.

The National Association of Softball Writers and Broadcasters notified the Sun that it had placed second among all other non-daily publications, including magazines, in the United States for "Best Continuous Coverage" of softball events.

In addition to local softball coverage, Brumbley accompanied the Piledrivers when they won the World Series of softball in McAdenville, N.C., and when they unsuccessfully defended their National ASA Open Slow Pitch title in Jacksonville, Fla. Brumbley was also in Chattanooga, Tenn., with the Piledrivers for the Pick-Of-Dixie Tournament.

The combination of game coverage, feature writing, and editorializing by Brumbley won the second-place award for the Sun. Brumbley's stories and photos appeared on page one of the Sun as well as on the sports pages.

C&P expands services

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia has earmarked more than $32.3 million for expanding its communication facilities to meet customer demands for services in various locations of the state.

The allocation by C&P will be used for 129 different projects that include land purchases, new communications centers, building and switching equipment, additions for local and long distance service, cable and other items. Included was a $3.2 million expenditure for statewide use of "plug-in units." These are packaged transistorized components that allow for quick replacement and installation of switching equipment.

Flagmen . . . flagwomen?

Mother-daughter team do man's work

By HELEN CRIST

Let March come in like a lamb, and Mrs. Josephine Curran and her daughter, Mrs. Arlene White will give one big "hurrah."

Not that they'll complain however. But when you're employed as flagmen, as they are, a little sunshine goes a long way.

They're with the Paul N. Howard Construction Co., of Greensboro, N.C. You've seen them, no doubt, directing the flow of traffic on General Booth Blvd. and Oceana Blvd. where the company is laying water pipes. Unusual occupation for a woman?

"Well, yes," Josephine says. "It's proving psychologically sound however. Most men aren't inclined to blow a fuse and yell when they're detained in traffic by two attractive and apparently defenseless young women."

"And the construction workers we work with are very respectful. The company called the men in and told them we were going to work. They said the men would have to watch their language and treat us with respect. And they really do," Josephine says.

It was just by chance that they took the job. "I went to the M&M Grocery Store at Dam Neck to buy my husband, Vernon, a pack of cigarettes."

"The man in the store said that a construction company located in a trailer behind the store was looking for two women to work as flagmen. The pay was $2.25, and men apparently didn't want the job." Josephine considered for a moment. She had obligations at home, where she and her husband, a construction worker, lived on Morris Neck Road. There were four children: Elmer, 14; Wade, 13; Eddie, 10; Richard, 2. A son, Mike is in the Army, stationed at Ft. Benning.

Arlene lives near her mother, with her husband, Larry, and their eight-month-old daughter, Angie.

But Josephine didn't hesitate too long - things could be managed, she knew.

So she contacted Arlene at the department store where she was employed. Arlene readily agreed to go along with her.

POW'S Three of four area returners hold first press conference

By LES LEHIGH

"This war has been very divisive for many years. I feel very strongly that it's about time the American people started pulling together. It's about time we all realized where we're going. It's about time we started raising the flag instead of burning it."

This statement from Capt. James A. Mulligan reflects his deep concern over growing dissension among the American people, and the lack of respect for the United States publicly displayed within the country.

Mulligan issued the statement in a joint press conference Friday with Capt. Jeremian A. Denton, Jr., and Lt. (Cdr.) William M. Tschudy at Portsmouth Naval Hospital. It was the first meeting permitted with the former POWs since their return to the Tidewater area one week earlier.

Mulligan expressed hope the American people would unite again by saying, "I know people have strong feelings, but I think we're all in it, we're all Americans. It's about time to get back to the main theme. Those are my very, very strong feelings, and I hope the return of the POWs, myself and the other guys, is going to help this country achieve its goal."

Capt. Denton also expressed concern over apparent changes in goals of the American people. He said, "Although we are the greatest nation in history and still have the greatest spirit in history, in my opinion, I believe that like other great nations in history, we may be in a period in which human nature is being subjected to a lack of physical duress."

"That long ago, we have achieved the necessities and we have been in the process of attaining a great degree of luxury. . . we are becoming quite sophisticated with respect to non-necessities."

"This has happened to nations in the past," Denton added, "and it is my belief that man can cope with adversity, and that his most difficult problem is coping with prosperity."

The first public reference to any disappointment the former POWs may have witnessed in returning home was from Capt. Denton who said, "Regrettably, there has been, in my opinion, one sour note in our homecoming." He referred to inferences, "That the homecoming statements, and so forth, were all managed by the military marching down to the last God Bless America."

Denton vigorously denied this by saying that only shortly before their plane landed in the Philippines from Hanoi it was suggested that someone say something on arrival, and, since he was the senior man on board, he was selected.

"It took perhaps a quarter-of-an-hour to select what I considered appropriate words. I tried them on my comrades in the aircraft. I asked for a thumbs up or a thumbs down, or suggestions. They gave me a thumbs up. At that time I did not have plans to say the words 'God Bless America.' They were spoken spontaneously, he said.

Mulligan supported Denton by saying he was advised about 15 minutes before landing he would be expected to say something. He said, "What I said was what I had thought is what I think most of the POWs had thought. I wasn't endorsing anyone. I wasn't told to say anything for anyone. I just wanted that point cleared up."

The men were asked how long before their release they knew it was going to happen. Mulligan answered, "I felt that I knew that I was going to be released the night before we came out of Hanoi, when they gave us the clothes."

"Now, we knew it was coming but we didn't know exactly how we were going to go, but we assumed when the clothes were given, in the order they'd been given, we'd be able to pick out who was going for sure. And sure enough, they called us out the night before, and we got clothes and got suited up."

Cdr. Tschudy commented on his feelings about being home after long years of captivity by saying, "Of course, I'm filled with excitement, and I'm just starting. Things are just sort of settling out. Every one in a while you get this real tight feeling inside and say, 'It can't really be true', but sure enough it is."

Denton described his homecoming reception by saying, "It'd just like to thank everyone for the waving hands and open arms, for the words spoken and written, and for the sensitive way that our return has been handled by those who organized it. Thanks most of all for the spirit behind all these things. We received your message, and we return it in kind."

Mulligan described his first visit away from the hospital grounds by saying he and his wife went shopping at the Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base.

He added, "When we went down to Virginia Beach we did then what I considered the most important thing. I dropped into Star of the Sea Parish, paid a visit to my church, went into the school, saw my child who's in that school, and many of his teachers and many of the kids. And dropped into the rectory and paid a sneak call on the pastor."

Mulligan also told of how much the "Eternal Flame of Hope", constructed at the Oceana NAS Jet-Observation Point, means to him. The flame is dedicated to all American POWs and MIAs.

"I wanted to see the flame," he said. "Louise and I got out (of the car chattering them) and saw the flame alone, and it meant a lot to me to see that flame because I know what it stands for."

A not-so-typical day

It shoulda' been Friday the 13th!

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

Last Friday wasn't the 13th. At least the calendar said it wasn't. But you'll never prove it by me: the day had all the characteristics of the traditional hard luck day.

Of course, Friday followed several days that might have qualified for the dubious "13th" title. Wednesday morning there was no heat. One of us - and no one admits guilt - had accidentally hit the heater's emergency "off" switch rather than the light switch immediately under it. Placing the two switches so close together was lousy planning, true, but such features are to be expected in an older house. Right?

A flip of the switch put us back in business. Eventually there was heat.

Then there were such things as the dog scratching all the paint off the bottom panel of a living room door because we slept through his appeals to go out.

And a dropped pop bottle knocked a hole in the bottom of the refrigerator.

And the portable dishwasher wouldn't start because the electrical connections - in an open ceiling socket in the pantry - got temperamental.

And... well, it was an accumulation of little things that spiced the week like Irish whiskey in strong coffee.

But on Friday, boy, everything broke loose.

It started routine enough...stumbling out of bed on time, getting the boys off to school and work, a ridiculously quick "housecleaning", dressing for work.

In a last minute burst of domesticity, I threw a load of dirty clothes in the washer (a week-old replacement, I might note) in the utility room off the kitchen.

Then I noticed it. Water coming from under the freezer, a monstrously gigantic old thing whose warning light has been burned out for at least two years. Sneaking a peek into its interior it was easy to see Old Faithful had fallen down on the job. All of its frozen goodies had quietly thawed and the accumulation of ice hung precariously from its walls.

"I've heard of these things happening," I thought, "but why me? Haven't I already had enough domestic problems for one week?"

A closer look revealed the problem. The freezer was disconnected. A storm window pane, shoved in the narrow space between the freezer and the wall in a utility room clean-up campaign, had pulled the plug out of the wall. An easy solution: reconnect it. The complication: both a dryer and the camp freezer had to be moved to get to the electrical outlet.

A frantic call was made to a friend. "You'll never guess what happened," I said, rather pathetically. I thought,

"No, but knowing you I won't be surprised," was the answer, rather cynically, I thought.

Between the two of us we shifted the dryer and the freezer enough to replace the plug.

All I had to worry about now was the half-thawed food that couldn't be refrozen: packages of leftover Thanksgiving turkey; half the standing rib roast from Christmas Eve; the "Happy Birthday" section of a sentimentally saved cake; fish and crabmeat from last summer's boat trips; containers of foods that had been prepared for unexpected guests; meats and packaged vegetables purchased on week-end specials.

The freezer was emptied and cleaned. I'd been planning to do that disagreeable task for months. But certainly not on a Friday morning when I was on my way to work.

What do you do with such an assortment of half-thawed frozen foods? You salvage as much as possible. And that's what Friday was all about.

Salvaging food.

The fish and crabmeat and prepared shrimp marinara were lost causes. Too risky. And the ice cream was literally poured down the drain.

The salvageable beef was thrown into one pot, the chicken into another. The hamburger was whipped into a spaghetti sauce.

When the beef pot was done all the vegetables, plus a few added attractions, helped make it into a mammoth supply of vegetable soup. The meat now flavorless was discarded. But at least there was soup.

The chicken...well, that was deboned and rationed into many containers of broth which heaven only knows will serve what purpose. The spaghetti sauce held its own quite well.

By late afternoon I had a clean freezer (pitifully bare - some ice, six hamburger patties, one container of baked beans and one small sirloin), a stove laden down with gallons of broth and soup, and a back about to break from hours of "slaving over a hot stove."

Time to clean up the mess. And, oh, what a mess! No hot water.

"This can't be," I tell myself. "It just can't be."

A look at the utility room convinces me it can be. And in. Water is oozing out from under the heater.

Another frantic call. "You won't believe this," I start again. "Just try me...."

Resuscitation training free to the public

The public has been invited to attend a one-night course in Emergency Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation to be held March 14 at General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Interested citizens of the community may learn how to administer mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external heart massage. The 2½-hour training session, sponsored by the hospital and the Tidewater Heart Association, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Since classroom space is limited, the public is encouraged to telephone the hospital at 428-3410 for advance reservations. There is no charge.

Flagwomen

mother. So they were hired as a team on Feb. 7.

A safety specialist taught them a few of the rudiments of traffic directing, and the use of walkie-talkies.

Are they women libbers? "No," they say. "We're out there doing a man's job, but we want to be treated like women."

They report that people have been wonderful to them. "There's one man who goes by three times a day. He tunes into the walkie-talkie, and tells us we're doing a good job, and he says 'good morning, and good night' to us as he drives through," Josephine says.

But there are some who run the flag and it's then that the women pray no accident will happen. It's illegal to ignore the flag, of course, and license numbers can be taken and turned over to the police.

The women have received much attention from other construction companies who have watched them to see the public's reaction.

"We've been observed by the city officials here too," Josephine says.

The company completes about 500 ft. per day. Josephine and Arlene work five days per week, from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. And should any woman rush to take on similar employment, consider the outfit for the day:

Over a pair of "Long Johns", go three pair of pants, four shirts, one sweater, a coat, wind-breaker, orange vest over a yellow raincoat, hard hat and scarf, two pair of gloves, socks and insulated boots. Any takers?

Cyclist killed

The resort city recorded its third traffic fatality of the year Sunday afternoon, the second involving a motorcycle.

Police say Robert L. Haffey, 30, of Great Lakes Drive was fatally injured in an accident on Parliament Drive near the intersection of Princess Anne Road.

According to investigators Haffey apparently lost control of the motorcycle which left the roadway, went into a ditch, and struck a driveway culvert.

Innkeepers to sponsor trade show

The Third Annual Trade Show sponsored by the Innkeepers of Virginia Beach will be held on Saturday, March 3, at the Civic Center (19th and Pacific Avenue). Hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Exhibits at the show will be provided by suppliers of products and services to hotels, motels, restaurants and others in the hospitality industry. Admission is free. Refreshments will be served throughout the day.

Public Safety Building will become a reality

Monday was a milestone in the long-awaited Virginia Beach Public Safety Building as ground was broken at the site of the new facility.

Containing about 58,000 square feet, the nearly $2.4 million structure will be located on Princess Anne Road approximately three-quarters of a mile north of the present police headquarters. The building's total cost includes some $240,000 in site preparations.

City Manager Roger M. Scott, Mayor Robert B. Cromwell Jr., Police Chief Col. W.W. Davis, and Fire Chief E.B. Bayne participated jointly in the ground breaking.

Scott referred to the facility as, "What I think is another step toward a better service to the people of Virginia Beach...a facility of first class for a first class city."

Cromwell echoed his remarks and expressed his pleasure in participating in the ceremony. Davis pointed to necessity for the building. He said, "During the span of my 22-year career in law enforcement, I have never experienced a working environment where the facilities were either functional or sufficient to serve the public or the police personnel."

"Today I am extremely proud and honored to be serving as chief when such a significant event takes place," Commenting on the design of the building, Davis said it "...will provide an atmosphere of warmth and friendliness, so that the citizen may experience a feeling of confidence, pride and comfort when our services are needed."

Bayne remarked, "I'm sure this building is going to increase the proficiency of the police and fire divisions tremendously." The building has been designed and planned for the

Refuge closure will prompt court action

The Concerned Citizens of Virginia Beach Monday night voted to take legal action against the closure of the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge Beach, between Sandbridge and the North Carolina border.

Walter J. Leveridge, Concerned Citizens spokesman, said, "We felt such action is an arbitrary denial of access to their land by property owners."

Of concern is a 4.2 mile strip of beach through the federally owned refuge which property owners have been traveling to reach their property.

Leveridge said the suit will be filed in U.S. District Court as soon as the closure becomes effective, which is expected in about a month.

He also said some 2,000 persons are expected to attend a mass meeting of parties interested in the access route on March 25 at the Little Island park area, in the Sandbridge area. Several area congressmen, according to Leveridge, have been invited as special speakers.

Similar court action is also being planned by the Kabler and Riggs Realty Company, who have sold property in the Carova Beach, Swan Beach, and Whale Head Beach areas of Virginia and North Carolina.

Lynn Good, Kabler and Riggs executive, said, "We're going to enter a class suit in the name of property owners. We think it should be left open to provide owners access to their land." About 2,900 owners are affected.

Fort Story has birthday

Fort Story was 56 years old Monday. It became a military installation Feb. 28, 1917, with the establishment of two artillery companies on the site. Today it is the home of the Army's Amphibians.

The day was commemorated with cake-cutting ceremonies at the Officers Club and NCO Club.

Reassessment program topic

Vice Mayor Reid Ervin, Councilman Charles Gardner and Real Estate Assessor C. N. Merritt will speak to the Lynn-haven-Little Neck Civic League Monday at 8 p.m. in the league's building adjacent to King's Grant School.

The officials will discuss the city's recent reassessment and what use is planned for the increased revenue. The public is invited to attend.

It's March; prepare to Renovate your lawn

By J. R. STIFFLER

The Virginia Beach lawn owner who starts early will have the best looking lawn in June and July. Now's the time to start. Here are a few simple steps to improve your green carpet, so important to a well-groomed home.

1. Rake fallen leaves; oak leaves particularly will smother grass.

2. If you've had trouble growing grass in some areas, perhaps you should get your soil tested. You can take or send a sample to the Diamond Springs Research Station and they'll test it free. However, if you lime every 3 years and fertilize well at least twice a year, you usually don't need a soil test.

3. Raked bare spots; do it early. You really should have done it last fall. Visit your nearest hardware or garden center and get either Kentucky 31 fescue or bermuda seed.

Rake the bare spots both before and after seeding; rake in some peat moss and fertilizer to give the seed a good bed to get started in. Don't expect seed to grow out of a spot as hard as a rock.

In this area, because we're between climatic zones, bluegrass will not grow—so many of the highly advertised mixtures are not recommended. Kentucky 31 will stay green year-around and its sure beats overseeding bermuda with rye grass every fall.

Bermuda seed comes two ways: hulled and unhulled; it takes hot temperatures for bermuda to germinate—so at this time of year, buy the unhulled; it costs less. Later on, when the weather gets warmer, hulled bermuda seed is the better buy.

Unfortunately, in Virginia Beach, you're going to get some bermuda in your lawn whether you want it or not. In the opinion of many, it's a nuisance. My own choice is not to plant it and fight it by spraying or pulling it—and trying to keep it out of your lawn. You can see my choice is Kentucky 31 but in sunny areas, bermuda will sneak in.

In Virginia Beach borough, along the ocean front, bermuda is about the only grass that will grow well—so rather than fight it, it's usually best to seed and fertilize it and try to develop it into a good lawn.

4. Fertilize well. If you have crabgrass problems, use one of the crabgrass-fertilizer mixtures, but be careful if you're seeding. Some products require a six week wait before new seed can be applied. There may be more, but the only one I know about that you can seed with the same day is Nutro's spring seeding special containing DuPont Turfman; with it you can apply seed the same day.

It's important to get these products on early because they prevent the crabgrass seed from germinating. If you don't need to re-seed, any product containing Dacthal is good; it's one of the most efficient crabgrass preventers on the market.

Crabgrass seed germinates when the soil temperature reaches about 60 degrees which is another reason why it's important to get your crabgrass preventer on early.

5. If you don't have crabgrass, fertilize well with a special turf food. Most of the good ones contain long-lasting ureaform nitrogen, which is released slowly, giving your lawn an extended feeding. They're worth the extra cost. If the fertilizer is in a bag that doesn't have directions—avoid it. It may be cheap—but it's not specifically made for lawns. Bermuda requires lots of fertilizer all summer long—so don't forget to feed it regularly.

6. And use enough. Fertilizer and water are the main ingredients most lawns lack. If you'll fertilize and water your lawn sufficiently this summer, you can be the envy of your neighborhood.

7. If you have weeds, either use one of the weed and feed combinations, like the picture above—or spray with a weed killer. Chickweed is one of the major weed pests in Virginia Beach. It can be sprayed—but may take up to 3 sprayings to kill. Ortho makes a special chick-weed killer available at most garden centers. The other method to get rid of weeds is to use one of the fertilizer-weed killer combinations.

Remember however, that the air temperature needs to be above 65 degrees for most of the weed killers to work.

March is a good time to renovate your lawn in Virginia Beach. Using a weed and feed combination product feeds the grass and kills the weeds all in the same operation.

Lawn weeds

A recent investigation provides encouraging news that most retail lawnseed offerings are of good to excellent quality. Almost none of the nationwide samplings showed appreciable germination or weed weaknesses.

Occasionally some crop (agricultural species) is carried along, and sometimes this can become a pest. But in no instance was any crabgrass encountered.

If crabgrass shows up in your lawn it is almost surely from residual seed in your soil. The same is true for most of the other spring and summer weeds such as chickweed, dandelion, plantain, knotweed and spurge—all, incidentally, easily controlled with the 2,4-D family of herbicides.

NOW IS THE TIME TO...

Fertilize your spring bulbs for bigger blooms. After you see that your tulips, daffodils and hyacinths are up, feed them good with a special bulb fertilizer. It will pay off in larger and more colorful blooms.

Contact a good local-spray service and make arrangements to have all your shrubs sprayed regularly. The cost is less than you'd think.

Contact your favorite garden center for any special varieties of plants you may want. Just last week, when requesting two special camellias, two Virginia Beach nurseries contacted were sold out. So start early if you want something special.

Get your vegetable seeds purchased—and started in flats or peat pots if you start them inside.

Let's hope we don't have more snow—but if we do, brush it off your bushes at once. Heavy snow can break branches and cause much damage.

Get your lawnmower sharpened and tuned up. More lawns are spoiled by dull mower blades than about any other single thing. Repair shops are not busy now; get it done before you need the mower.

(questions and answers)

Q. When do I fertilize camellias and azaleas...and what do I use?—John S. Accredite.

A. Camellias and azaleas should be fertilized at least twice—before they bloom (just about now) and after they bloom. In some more southern areas, a third fall feeding is recommended. In following local recommendations. Use a special azalea-camellia fertilizer. These plants are sensitive—follow directions carefully. Azaleas especially have shallow roots—so fertilize carefully and water in. If you have sucking insect problems, use a special systemic fertilizer.

Q. The rabbits have eaten my liliope and mondo grass ground-covers. What can I do to prevent this?—Mrs. V. Great Neck Point.

A. This is a good question—and a hard one to answer. First, fertilize well the liliope and mondo grass in the next 2-3 weeks to help it recover. Plant Food Pellets 8-8-8 is a good one for this. As to keeping the rabbits away, a shotgun is the best answer. You can buy rabbit repellent ropes from local garden centers, but after a few rains, they become less effective; at least for me. Try tobacco stems if you can find them (Tait's usually carry them). Also try blood meal. This often is effective but hard to find. Nutro did package a blood meal; it's used both as an organic plant food and a rabbit repellent but is usually hard to find. If anyone has any suggestions on repelling rabbits, please let us know and we'll share the good news.

FROM THE GARDENER'S DESK

HOPE YOU LIKE IT. We hope you like the Sun's new garden page. It's written just for Virginia Beach home owners...we want it to be helpful to you. Send in your suggestions, comments and criticisms, as well as your questions. We want to provide information you want and need...elsewhere on this page, we tell about lawn renovation. If you lime, be sure to keep the lime away from your azaleas and camellias. They need an acid soil, so do not lime them...that same article also tells why we can't grow bluegrass in the Tidewater area. Richmond can and does have bluegrass lawns and so does Washington. I have some new Syd-spert bluegrass seed and am told it will grow in the shade in this area along with Kentucky 31 fescue. Syd-spert is described by The Lawn Institute as "a brilliant, bold 'rave' from Sweden, now finding favor in America." We should be able to report this fall on whether it will grow in Virginia Beach. Now's a good time to clean and repair your lawn or other bird house. Continue to feed the birds during this cold, food-scarce month. If you're like many of us, you feed the birds year-around anyway. It's hard to find suit-type bird food anymore...just last week, I noticed that Farm Fresh at Robbins Corner has their own suit-bird-food balls in their meat department; apparently they are making them up themselves. Don't forget to plant a tree—in ideal—and we need more trees.

Cynical critics

Critical comments that the homecoming remarks by the POWs were programmed by the Navy comes as no surprise. Cynics were quick to pick up the repetitious phrases of appreciation for America, its leaders and the honor of serving one's country.

Such beliefs are beyond the comprehension of the cynical for they have not known the dedication and respect of duty that sustained these men and their families through long years of suffering and separation. They cannot understand that words were repeated simply because of shared beliefs.

Now said that there are Americans who do not feel in their own hearts the "God Bless America" expressed by returning POWs. Fighting one's country from a comfortable home apparently breeds less purpose of being than fighting for one's country on battlefields in foreign lands.

Clean up God's world

To the Editor:

Actions speak louder than words to God (like we see in our children - he sees in us, his children).

What better way to say "Thank you, God, for peace and the return of our men" than by loving (caring) for his children (all our fellowman) and his land.

He gave them to us as gifts and we haven't treated them very kindly. Be aware - look around you - get the overall picture. Ecology is no joke. It's a wonderful opportunity! A better word is Love - God's people and land. Clean and Green.

Let's have a positive world. Be happy to clean up God's world. Be happy to share yourself (abilities, ideas and things) with others.

Parents are responsible

To the Editor,

I definitely agree that parents should be held financially responsible for vandalism by their children to at least $1000 if not to the full amount of damage.

Parents apparently need this kind of reminder to remember part of their job as parents is to teach their children respect of property - theirs and others.

How congressmen voted:

By SONJA NILGREN
Sun Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes between the opening week of the 93rd Congress and Feb. 28.

HOUSE: Passed, 331 for and 142 against, bill requiring the Administration to spend $225 million for the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) authorized by the Agriculture Department.

In the first battle over limiting federal spending, supporters said Congress must control President Nixon's refusal to spend congressionally-approved funds. Supporters also said the rural conservation programs are needed to protect the environment.

Supporters of the Administration said only 30 per cent of the nation's farmers utilize the REAP programs.

Rep. B. William Whitburn, R-Mich., voted against and Robert W. Daniel Jr., R-Spring Grove, voted for.

Rejected, 211 for and 176 for, amendment directing the Administration to spend a compromise figure of $140 million for REAP, the amount allocated last fall by the Agriculture Department.

Those voting for the compromise said it would allow Congress to save money as well as assert its authority over the President. They said a failure to compromise might prevent an aversion of an expected presidential veto causing a loss of all REAP funding.

Whitburn and Daniel voted for.

Adopted, 174 for and 140 against, amendment to restore for 18 days the one per cent emergency farm loans with $5,000 forgiveness provisions that the President discontinued in December.

Supporters said the 18-day extension was needed to receive loan applications from farmers in 58 counties declared disaster areas by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Congressmen said the amendment, creating an estimated $30 million, would invite a presidential veto and leave the farmers with no loan program at all.

Whitburn and Daniel voted against.

Passed, 187 for and 95 against, bill to restore the emergency farm loan program.

The bill, before it was amended to extend one per cent loans for 18 days, was a compromise measure approved by the Administration and the House Agriculture Committee. The compromise would have provided for six per cent insured loans and eliminated the $5,000 forgiveness feature approved by the last Congress.

One amended, the bill became another test of the President's right to halt by executive order congressional legislation.

Whitburn and Daniel voted against.

Passed, 311 for and 73 against, a resolution to continue spending at current levels during the next four months for foreign aid and the Health, Education and Welfare and Labor departments.

The resolution provides for spending at a level that is $1.9 billion less than provided in fiscal 1973 HEW-Labor legislation that the President twice vetoed during the 92nd Congress. It provides for foreign aid spending of a level $1.5 billion less than requested by the President.

Supporters, conceding that the President would veto a third attempt to pass regular HEW-Labor appropriations bill, said passage of a resolution would prevent further delays in fiscal 1973 program funding.

Some opponents said the financing of an entire year's funding by a continuing resolution reflects inefficiency and poor fiscal management by Congress.

Others objected to voting on HEW-Labor and foreign aid spending in one package. The usual practice for continuing resolutions, however, is to lump all unfunded programs together for one vote.

Whitburn voted for and Daniel voted against.

Approved, 266 for and 72 against, bill authorizing spending for the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission at the present level for an additional year and a half months.

Supporters said the $3.3 million authorization is a stop gap measure to keep the controversial ABC operating until its reauthorization as recommended by Congress and the Administration.

Opponents continued the criticism that promoted cells for reorganization. Criticism ranged from ABC's close ties with Delegate B.R. Middleton reported to The Sun these interesting facts about the State's legislators:

By profession the Virginia House of Delegates is a 60-40 proposition — 60 lawyers and 40 other professions. Some lawyers have business interests also — farmer for the most part.

Among the 40 other professions are four teachers, three farmers, three publishers, three real estate, three pharmacy, two insurance, two investments, two housewives, with one each of the following: automobile, savings and loan, oil, metal, hardware, publisher's representative, lumber, steel, electrical contractor, real estate sales, surgeon, dentist, architect, paper, merchant, businessman, meteorologist, consultant and civil engineer. A number of these delegates also have an interest in farming.

Among the 40 are four women, one born in Georgia, one in Illinois, one in Texas and one in Virginia. Two list their professions as housewives. One is a registered pharmacist, and one is an educator and businesswoman.

The Virginia Beach delegation has two lawyers, Glenn B. McClanan and Owen B. Pickett, and one electrical contractor, Beverly R. Middleton.

FROM SENATOR JOE CANADA

Discussion during the final week of this year's Session of the General Assembly centered around a number of controversial issues which remain to be resolved. The majority of the bills introduced this year had already met their fate in Committees and on the floor of one or the other of the two Houses.

Among the bills passed over last week was the Bingo Bill, which passed by a 28-3 vote in the House. If all goes according to schedule, Governor Holton will sign the bill and the new law will become effective sometime in the middle of the year.

Senate Bill 748, the Park-Mutual Betting Bill, was passed early last week in the House General Laws Committee by an 11-0 vote. However, when the legislation reached the House floor, it met with considerable opposition. The chief patron of the bill, Delegate Daniel Van Chief of Albemarle, withdrew his support for the bill, and a Resolution calling for another year's study of park-mutual betting was instead adopted. A report on the matter will be presented during the 1974 Session of the General Assembly.

Report Child Abuse

I am happy to report that two bills which I introduced at the beginning of the Session have completed their legislative route and are now on their way to the Governor's Office for his signature. One of these bills amends the present Child Abuse legislation and was passed unanimously by both House and Senate. The bill requires teachers in public and private schools and in kindergarten and nursery schools to report information concerning any child who has been abused to the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court. It is my hope that through this legislation, more infractions of the child abuse laws will be reported.

The second piece of legislation which passed last week concerns our fishing pier in Virginia Beach. The legislation provides that a person shall be able to take or catch any fish within 100 yards of a fishing pier operating for profit. We hope that this legislation will encourage private and commercial boats usually found fishing near the piers to throw their lines and nets elsewhere. Thus, the individual fishermen and women who enjoy fishing from piers will be able to do so without this interference caused by the boats.

A number of court reform measures designed to speed up, simplify, and make more efficient the handling of cases in the lower courts were being considered last week. Under these new reforms, the Justice of the Peace system, last of the judicial system dependent upon the payment of fees, would be replaced by a Magistrate system. The new magistrates would be appointed by the Chief Judge of the Circuit Courts and would receive salaries. Another of the proposed reforms would involve the County and the Juvenile Court system, which would be transformed into a District Court system. Eventually, this District Court system would be presided over by full-time judges. Under today's system, here are part-time judges who preside over many lower courts and try cases from the bench on one day and are back practicing law the next. Higher salaries are being proposed in order to attract qualified, full-time judges for positions on the new District Court.

In Other Action Last Week:

— The Senate Privileges and Elections Committee Members decided to carry over to the next Session proposals to allow the Governor to run for a second term. The bill would also require the Governor and Lt. Governor to run on the same ticket, and to have the Lt. Governor perform duties prescribed by the Governor rather than having the presiding over the Senate as his major responsibility.

— The House Privileges and Elections Committee passed two Resolutions last week — one calling for a study of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution, and the other calling for state legal action to remove Virginia from the sanctions of the 1955 Voting Rights Act. The latter Resolution has already been passed by the Senate.

— The House of Delegates passed, by a 63-21 vote, a bill sponsored by Senator William Hopkins of Henrico, which creates a Commission on State Governmental Management to study new ways of streamlining the State Government to make it more effective and efficient.

— Four pieces of environmental legislation, including the Environmental Re-organization Plan, a Soil Erosion Control Bill, a stronger Air Pollution Control Bill, and a bill which makes the spotlighting of deer illegal, all passed last Friday in the Senate.

(1) The Environmental Re-organization Plan, as reported last week's newsletter, consolidates the five separate divisions of air and solid wastes, water, natural resources, marine resources, and game and inland fisheries.

(2) The Soil Erosion Bill, which establishes an erosion control program to be administered by the Soil and Water Conservation Commission, passed quickly by a 29-3 vote last Friday.

(3) The Air Pollution Bill requires localities to adopt ordinances regulating air burning in their areas. If the localities fail to do so, the Air Pollution Control Board will regulate the air burning.

(4) The "spot-lighting" bill, which applies throughout the state, prohibits the illegal use of lights to spot deer at night and blind them in order to shoot them. This has been a problem in Virginia in the last 3 years, and I hope that this legislation will aid in decreasing these incidences.

FROM DEL. GLENN MCCLANAN

A 3 a.m. adjourning hour brought the first annual "short" session of the Virginia General Assembly to a close, with the closing hours being the decision-maker on many crucial issues, including a court reform bill and no-fault insurance legislation. The compromise court reform bill which was finally passed was the result of long hours of work by the Courts of Justice Committees of both the House and Senate after the report by the Inman Commission which had suggested many changes in Virginia's Court System. Among the changes in the finally passed version were: (1) to allow judges of circuit courts of record to nominate three candidates for each district court seat and for the General Assembly and for the General Assembly to make the final nominations. The General Assembly may add additional names to the list; (2) a newly revised a late magistrate system, replacing justices of the peace (3) Courts of record will become circuit courts while all other courts such as juvenile, municipal, and traffic will be called district courts; (4) 18 year olds will be allowed to serve on juries.

A lack of agreement on the part of the House to accept the revised no-fault bill presented by the Senate killed any possibility of no-fault legislation becoming a reality for this session. Last minute drafting and changes in the bill allowed for disagreement as to just what might be the result in regard to rate changes.

Dating Milk, Milk Products

Among other events of the last week were the adoption of the open dating of milk and milk products regulations which were presented at the State Board of Agriculture and Commerce hearing. Delegate Glenn B. McClanan had appeared at that time to endorse the Board's action in holding the open public hearing on the matter and to further request that the regulations be adopted so that the General Assembly might not have to pass laws requiring open dating on milk and milk products for the benefit of the consumer.

House Joint Resolution Number 288 proposed by Delegate Glenn McClanan was adopted overwhelmingly by both the House of Delegates and the Senate. Copies of the following resolution will be mailed to the families of those prisoners of war and the POW's themselves from Virginia Beach.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 288

Expressing gratitude to those who served in Southeast Asia, sympathy for the families of those who died there and a welcome to the returning prisoners of war.

Enacted: Delegate Glenn B. McClanan

Whereas, the citizens of the Commonwealth of Virginia recognize and deeply appreciate the great sacrifices made by many Virginians in Southeast Asia in the military service of their country; and

Whereas, several thousands of Virginians died in this conflict and others were prisoners of war for many years; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Delegates, the Senate concurring, That the Commonwealth of Virginia express its sincere appreciation of all citizens of the Commonwealth to all of these Virginians who served in the recently-ended conflict in Southeast Asia; and be it

Resolved further, That the heartfelt sympathy of the Commonwealth is extended to the families of all Virginians who died in this conflict; and be it

Resolved finally, That Virginians from all areas throughout the Commonwealth be given a warm welcome to our returning prisoners of war, rejoice in their new-found freedom, and wish them a quick and pleasant transition into a normal, and rewarding life.

FROM DEL. OWEN PICKETT

Virginia's court system is in for a major restructuring by 1980 as a result of court reform measures being adopted by the General Assembly this session.

Designed to speed up, simplify and make more efficient the handling of cases in the lower courts, many changes will occur at the level at which 90 per cent of the Virginians who go to court do so. Drafters of the legislation promise a new professionalism as the old justice of the peace system is replaced with a magistrate system, the county and juvenile court judge system is transformed into a district court system presided over, after a few years of transition, by full-time judges, and the circuit courts are realigned to give the State a unified circuit court system.

The reforms will bring about the demise of the justice of the peace, last of the judicial systems dependent upon the payment of fees. Magistrate, to be appointed by the Chief Judge of the circuit courts, would be compensated by salaries.

Higher Salaries for Judges

On the new district court level, more attractive salaries have been proposed in order to attract better qualified full-time judges. Under today's system, the part-time judges who presided over many lower courts may sit on the bench one day and practice law the next.

Still to be decided is who will appoint the 166 lower court (district) judges. House members favor transferring the privilege for the General Assembly, which appoints the 101 circuit court judges.

Senate members feel that the responsibility should be that of the circuit court judges as appointments will be removed from the political arena.

"If we have done our work well in selecting the circuit court judges, they should be qualified to make the selection of district court judges," noted one Senator. "They are closer to the local scene and have better information on which to base appointments."

This was but one of the question marks hanging over the Capitol as the Legislature went into its final week of deliberation.

Many Issues To Be Resolved

A number of lively issues remain to be resolved. Many others already have met their fate in committees and on the floor of one or the other of the two houses.

As the Senate continued its consideration of the House-approved budget bill, attention centered on the welfare items. "Propaganda" the House Appropriations and Senate Finance Chairmen called the criticism that welfare funds had been "cut" from the budget. The committee recommended an appropriation $5.6 million less than that asked by the Governor for welfare funds to supplement those already allocated for the 1972-73 biennium. The chairmen suggested drastic control over welfare spending and the Senate Finance Committee boosted the allocation for additional personnel to exercise the control.

A bill giving the State Health Department control over hospital construction and expansion was approved by both houses; certificates of necessity must be obtained before any such building may be commenced.

Thomas P. Harwood, Jr., was tapped to fill the vacancy on the State Corporation Commission created by the retirement of Judge Ralph T. Catterell.

1974 Referendum for Park-Mutual

Parl-mutual betting legislation was in the House General Laws Committee after passing the Senate with amendments which would require statewide and local referenda as prerequisites to race track betting. A 1974 referendum may be in the offing. And the bingo bill, which passed the House with a provision requiring annual permits from Boards of Supervisors, was in the Senate General Laws Committee and thought to be headed for passage.

No-fault automobile insurance, having passed the House in a version which many predict will force rates up as much as 30 per cent, faces an uncertain future in the Senate.

Professional negotiations for State employees met with failure, although grievance procedures will probably be approved.

Blue law amendments provide for sale of all foods on Sunday. Stores may no longer use the "charity clause" to sell other items on Sunday. The General Assembly was confronted with a critical situation here as a Roanoke court last week declared the present law so vague as to be unconstitutional. In order to retain any Blue Laws, some legislation eliminating the "charity clause" had to be adopted.

House approval of the use of Supplemental Retirement funds in the amount of $30 million for the proposed legislative offices building revived the Capitol Square site controversy. Opponents of the proposal to build the structure in the Square's South slope were on the alert to this sign that their arguments may not have been completely convincing. A Senate fight is a certainty.

Environmental Issues Revived

Another issue thought to have been laid to rest — the consolidation of ecologically oriented agencies into one conservation department — was resurrected in the House.

An administration sponsored bill giving the State control over location of power plants and high voltage lines was killed in committee.

A switch of one vote killed a measure which would have given the State Board of Education, rather than the Governor, power to appoint the State Department of Public Instruction.

Senate Privileges and Elections Committee members decided to carry over to the next session proposals to allow the Governor to run for a second term, to require the Governor and Lieutenant Governor to run on the same ticket, and to have the Lieutenant Governor perform duties prescribed by the Governor (rather than preside over the Senate and perform duties with which he is presently charged).

Remarks on Milk Dating

Glenn B. McClanan, Delegate from Virginia Beach, appeared before the State Board of Agriculture and Commerce on February 21, in regard to the hearing on "Proposed Rules and Regulations Governing the Open Dating of Grade A Pasteurized Market Milk, Grade A Market Milk Products and Certain Milk Products." In his remarks, McClanan stated, "The time has come to require that an easy to read and a 'uniform milk date' be required to be placed clearly on cartons in which milk and cottage cheese and other highly perishable dairy products are sold throughout Virginia. Virginians have carried home bad cottage cheese often and sour milk occasionally for too long."

No arguments

An interesting phenomena occurred in response to the question of the past two weeks. No one, absolutely no one, favored an annual assessment of property! Certainly it's rare to see the people in complete agreement on an issue.

L.J. Wiley Jr. summed it up this way in a note to the editor. He stated that he was comparing his response: "I would favor annual assessment of property except for the cost. Therefore, I favor reassessment every 3 years."

One reader noted that the recent reassessment "was not in accord with established principles, nor the law."

And yet another had this very big suggestion: "A system of assessment of property would be a more acceptable proposal. It may be more economical to divide (the city) into areas and assessments made on a staggered basis over a 3-year period."

In an article by Donna Hendrick appeared in the February 9 issue of the Sun has been a variety of responses. It examined the efforts of Mrs. Crilly Macdonald, chairman of the Council of Civic Organization's education committee, to change the state law limiting the amount recoverable from vandalism from the present maximum of $200 to $1,000.

The article pointed out that in six months of 1972 the Virginia Beach school system had to foot nearly $69,000 in bills to repair nothing but glass breakage caused by vandalism. And in one fire that caused nearly $8,000 in damages, school officials could recover only $200 from parents of the child found guilty of the vandalism.

The moral to it all is that the taxpayers are paying for such damages when it should be the financial responsibility of parents of errant youngsters. A bill has been introduced to raise the reimbursement limit to $1000 and it has the support of the CCO and the school board. Does it have the support of Sun readers?

Deadlines

Sun readers are reminded that the deadline for submitting articles for publication is Monday, 10 a.m. Material received by 5 p.m. Friday, however, is greatly appreciated.

Those who submit information by mail are encouraged, indeed urged, to mail it in ample time to reach the Sun office by Monday. Many notices of meetings and events are not appearing in the Sun because they are not received until Wednesday or Thursday.

Letters to the editor should be reasonable in length, written in good taste and MUST be signed. It's also desirable to include a telephone number since letters are never edited without the writer's permission.

"RAGGEDY ANN" comes to life as Nancy Abood, who attends Plaza Elementary School, relates the story of the famous doll in a "living book report" program. Plaza fourth graders enjoyed dressing up as their favorite storybook characters to present their lively reports to the class.

John Stubbs wins Bland Memorial local contest

John P. Stubbs of Virginia Beach, 12-year-old student of Clifford Herzer, recently won first place for instruments in the Bland Memorial scholarship competition sponsored by the Kempsville Lions Club.

John has been a piano student studying with Herzer for three years. He is an honor student at Norfolk Academy. He won a $250 government bond and will enter the zone competitions of the Memorial contest in mid-March.

Players to offer 'Tea and Sympathy'

The Old Dominion Players will present Robert Anderson's "Tea and Sympathy" at 8:00 p.m. on March 1, 2, 3 and 4, and 2:30 p.m. on March 3, in Old Dominion University's Technology Theatre.

Acclaimed as an uncommonly discerning study of character both on Broadway and in movie form, "Tea and Sympathy" is a compelling and tender story of two lonely people and the relationship that develops between them.

Planetarium shows Mars

"The Planet Mars" will be the program offered at the Virginia Beach Public Schools Planetarium through the month of March. The planetarium is located at Plaza Junior High School.

Actual photographs of Mars will be shown. Some of the photos were taken through telescopes and others were taken by Mariner satellites. The Mariner program of space flights will also be analyzed and illustrated.

The planetarium is open every Sunday and Tuesday at 7 p.m. except on Tuesday, March 2. Reservations may be made by calling 486-1971. Children under 12 should be accompanied by an adult. Admission is free.

Lisa Rinkov in 'Winnie the Pooh'

Lisa Kay Rinkov, 10-year-old fifth grader at Alanton Elementary School, will appear in the A.A. Milne classic, "Winnie the Pooh," to be presented by the Norfolk Children's Theatre on Saturday, March 3, and Sunday, March 4, at the Norfolk Little Theatre, 801 Claremont Avenue.

Performances on March 3 will be at 11 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Performances on March 4 will be at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. Barbara Ellberg directs the production. Admission is 75 cents.

Students write, direct, perform musical melodrama

By RANDY McCLELLAN

Princess Anne High School will present for the first time a musical melodrama written by students Randy McClellan and David Lively. The new musical is a rewriting of Charles George's "The Belle of the West." The musical is under the supervision of Larry Williams, and is directed by David Lively. The music is under the direction Tracy Casey.

"Western Winds" is a tale of a small mining town in the old west. Speedy Summers runs a saloon hotel in town of Roarin' Creek and decides to employ a barber from back East. The barber arrives, and the town is shocked to find that I.M. Brown is Ida Mae Brown, a young widow from New Jersey. She reveals why she came in her song "Go West." The men of the town are instantly smitten with Mrs. Brown, much to the disgust of the ladies as their songs "I Idolize Ida" and "Belle of the West" show.

At the same time, the villain, Nasty Norman and his very short side kick Long John Platinum are terrorizing the town, doing MEAN things. Nasty instructs his hunkies (three Indiana, Pronto, Tonto, and Fred) as to his evil in the student authored song "I'm Mean."

Hot on the trail of Nasty Norman is Lance Boyle, the fearless mounted policeman who is "brave, strong and true." The ladies are, of course, taken in by Lance's good looks and charm, but want their men back.

Love interest is introduced in Alan Miller, an old flame of Ida's who is shocked to find her in Roarin' Creek. They fall back in love just in time for a neglected Nasty to whom no one has had time to be during this, kidnap her and plans to do her in. Can Lance and the men of the town rescue her in time?

This new musical is a spoof of old melodramatic westerns. The hilarious new script by McClellan lends itself to melodrama, and the new songs by him and Lively are new in tempo and funny in words.

There are mushy scenes, a barroom brawl, and much foot stomping dancing.

The cast includes: Elaine Holley, Fred Coleman, Ken Barton, Randy McClellan, Ray Dunn, Tim Norton, Howard McGrath, Sheila Escalada, Bill Reid, Craig Byrnes, Laura Burris, Cindi Cobbs, Tricia McCoy, Kim News, Rose Escalada, Brenda O'Brien, Ken Bach, Richard Roberts, David Dundrick, Joe Johnson, Peggy Kauffman, Lynn Riviere, Margaret Lush, Cindy Wilson, Lola Murrell, Cathy Meek, Donna Robusto, Debbie Bulliger and Sharlene Howell, Chris Christenson, Tim Moran, Richard Layman, Melissa Street, Lynn O'Connell, Robin Ore.

'Virginia Wolfe' on stage locally

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" opened Tuesday at the Tidewater Dinner Theatre.

The much-acclaimed drama by Edward Albee plays for a nine-day run before it is presented in repertory with the Nell Simon comedy, "Barefoot in the Park," which opens March 9 to play Fridays through Sundays.

The Sunday show will be a matinee beginning March 11, and "Virginia Woolf" will play Tuesdays through Thursdays after March 12.

Both shows are directed by Christopher Cooney.

Alan Sader, owner-manager of the theatre, has chosen the two shows to play in March and possibly into April. "The combination is a tense drama and a light comedy — one for the mid-week and the other for the week-end," said Sader.

"Doing these shows in repertory is a new concept in dinner theatre. Repertory is always an exciting approach to theatre, and for us it's also experimental," he said.

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" features Mark Costigan as George, Denise Derenque as Martha, Tom Weller as Nick, and Chris Rhodes as Honey. John Perkins is stage manager. Miss Rhodes and Perkins are from Norfolk. The other three cast members are from New York.

Costigan, a graduate of the University of Scranton, Pa., with a B.A. in classical languages, has appeared in over 50 plays. He recently filmed "The Bold Ones" and "Ironside" for television and just completed his first feature film with MGM.

Miss Derenque has appeared in several daytime television shows including "The Guiding Light" and "The Edge of Night." This last fall she did a "Close-Up" toothpaste commercial. In New York she is a member of Theatre 77 Rep, a new repertory theatre of which she is one of the founders.

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" will be presented by the Tidewater Dinner Theatre in its entirety. For reservations call 460-0833 (Norfolk) or 245-8304 (the peninsula).

WHILE DISNEY ON PARADE was in Tidewater this week The Academy of the Norfolk Ballet invited Minnie Mouse to drop by and visit with her young friends. Minnie looks a little bashful at something whispered to her by Shana Bellew and Kay Kay Handy, while the little girls' teacher, Penny Martin looks on, amused. (Perhaps it was because a few moments before Kay Kay had kissed Minnie on the nose.)

Ken Bar on and Elaine Holley rehearse a scene.

All-City music festival Sunday

The Virginia Beach All-City Elementary Music Festival will present its sixth annual chorus concert, Sunday, at 3 p.m. at Plaza Junior High School.

This festival was initiated in 1968 by James E. Ackels, supervisor of music of the Virginia Beach City Schools, as an outgrowth of the "Singing Bee" which was held in the city for several years.

The 360 student participants have been selected from grades five, six and seven to represent each school in the City. The students will be divided into two choruses. The fifth and sixth grade students will comprise one chorus and the seventh grade students the other. The music will range from classical to "pop."

Guest conductor for the fifth and sixth grade chorus will be Michael Thomas, choral director at Maury High School, Norfolk. Dr. Milton M. Schimke, professor of music at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire will conduct the seventh grade chorus. Both conductors have an extensive background in music and are particularly noted for their outstanding work in choral music.

Rehearsals for the concert will begin Friday at 6:30 p.m.

Libraries show films

The student-adult film series at the Kempsville branch library continues on Thursday, March 1, with an evening with Robert Frost.

Two films will be presented beginning at 7 p.m.: "Robert Frost" and "A Conversation With Robert Frost." Reservations may be made by calling 420-2270.

Also, the Saturday children's film series will offer movies for children of all ages on March 3. Films at the Windsor Woods branch library at 2 p.m. are "The Red Balloon" and "Blueberries for Sal." Films at the Beach branch at 11 a.m. are "The Legend of Johnny Applesseed," "Puffed-Up Dragon" and "Paul Bunyan: Lumber Camp Tales."

Humperdink festival star

The Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the Gala Annual International Azalea Festival, has announced the signing of one of the biggest international stars to headline the festival queen's command performance.

England's Engelbert Humperdink and his all star show will appear at Norfolk's Scope at 8 p.m. Friday, April 27.

'It's our pre-Revolutionary split-level,' say owners

By HELEN CRIST

"We call it our pre-Revolutionary split-level," Lola Sanders said as she and her husband, Lt. Cmdr. Ralph G. Sanders showed us about their home. It's the Anthony Fentress house, circa 1772, on Princess Anne Road in Pungo.

True, the outside might impress one as a more modern dwelling, with its addition, at one time, of an apartment, its screened porch and other modernization.

Yet, one notes the steep slant of the salt box roof, the one end of the house which is Flemish bond brick, the smoke house in the rear and near it the small school building that once echoed with laughter and sighs of youngsters many years ago, learning their A,B,C's.

Then there's the huge oak tree, said to be about 300 years old, facing the house. That tree had to be trimmed extensively recently, and Lola Sanders said: "Oh, it hurt me to have that done."

It was last Saturday that we visited the Sanders. Lola, a part-time accountant with Clarence Day and Son, was catching up with household activities that accumulate during the week for working women. Their son, Louis, 18, was home from VPI for the weekend.

Ralph, stationed with Va-85 Aviation Maintenance department at Oceana, was talking of his pending July retirement from the Navy, and his plans for additional restoration and work on their 200-year-old home.

"I'd like to restore the two back porches in the future.

Right now there's no back door to the house, and we enjoy the fireplace so it presents a problem hauling in the wood."

He hopes to set up a workshop for antique furniture refinishing. There are many pieces in the house now that they've rubbed, and polished, sanded and hammered into things of beauty.

For instance, there's the round oak former dining table, with large claw feet, in the living room. It's cut now to coffee table size.

"I went everywhere—to all the antique shops to find someone to cut off that table. Nobody would do it, so I got a V block, and put it on saw horses, and cut it myself."

He's an Alton, Missouri farm boy... "a Missouri hillbilly married to an Eastern Shore, Va. clam digger," Lola said. But she's really a farm girl herself.

With a yearning for privacy and a place where they could have a decent garden and room to spread out, they bought the Anthony Fentress home and two acres from Kater Murden in July, 1964.

The house has been more fortunate than many in old Princess Anne County. It's had a succession of owners who treated it with respect and kept it in sturdy condition.

It's across the road from the site of the original Pungo Chapel, which was condemned as structurally unsound for public worship in 1772. The foundation of the chapel was visible for many years, but is no longer to be seen.

Across the road too, was a schoolhouse, which—many natives of the area recall attending. It's no longer there.

The natives and newcomers alike speak fondly of life in Pungo.

Lola says: "It's friendly here, but people don't do a lot of running in. It's typically rural, I guess, in that most activity is centered around the church. For us, that's the Charly Methodist Church."

There was plenty of activity, too, for the Sanders when they bought the Fentress house.

They were digging flower beds in the backyard, and came upon old bricks buried some 12 inches deep, leaving speculation as to their original use.

It's been the interior, however, to which the Sanders have devoted most of their restoration efforts.

"We restored a wall which originally separated the hallway and two rooms to the left of the entrance," Lola said.

They eliminated a closet in this hallway, allowing open passage through to a sitting room at the rear of the house.

In the sitting room is a closet, where, in earlier days, a stairway descended to a windowless basement. Those stairs have been sealed off, though the closet remains.

"We were told they used to have square dances and parties down in the basement, but we've never used it," Lola said. Throughout the house, wide pine floors and hard pine doors are original.

That hard pine is 1 and 3/4" thick in the dining room. This presented a major problem for a surprised electrician who had to cut it with a power sabre saw in order to install an air conditioner.

Auxiliary Police honored

Tribute was paid to men of the Virginia Beach Auxiliary Police and their wives, Saturday night during installation of the unit's newly elected officers.

Commissioner of Revenue Ivan Mapp, founder and first chief of the Auxiliary Police, told the men, "You are helping the regular police make Virginia Beach a better place in which to live."

Mapp told of the unit's beginning the 1940s as a civil defense activity, and developing into a full-scale police operation in the 1960s. He also told the men, "You are to be congratulated with what you have done with the Auxiliary Police."

Outgoing president Ernest C. Hyers praised wives of the police officers for their sacrificing the time which could be spent with the men to allow them to serve the community.

The newly elected officers are R.A. McLaughlin, President; Bill Jones, Vice President; G.O. Wimbrow, Secretary; and Joel C. Clark, Treasurer.

Lt. M.E. Beane, Auxiliary Police C.O., received a special award from men of the unit for the work he has done in the past year in organizing the group into a well functioning unit.

Elmer Litchfield, who recently retired from the group after some ten years service, was honored with presentation of a plaque containing the badge he wore during his service.

This also marked the first presentation of special service awards to men who have 9, 6, and 3 years service as Auxiliary Police officers.

It is important to note that while these men perform many of the duties of regular police officers, accompanying them on patrols and special assignments on regularly scheduled shifts; each man works on a voluntary basis without pay.

Those who received nine year service awards were Linwood B. Hammond, Raymond McLaughlin, Bernard E.

Monroe, and Edward E. Rogers.

Six year service awards were presented to Lloyd L. Chick, John V. Compton, Chester W. Creekmore, Zeno G. Nichols, Ronald Nixon, Joseph Nowlan, Robert O. Stewart, Ossie O. Wade, Gene Wimbrow, Edward Wise, and A.C. Woodruff.

Those receiving three year service awards included James M. Barrett, Sr., Preston E.

Berry, Allen L. Berryman, William K. Castle, Joel C. Clark, Clyde L. Doxey, Wesley S. Elkins, Bennie S. Gregory, Carl W. Haga, Robert D. Hughes, William L. Jones, William F. Joyner, Eugene Mayton, Donald E. McAtee, Leo McGroarty, Robert Midgett, Russell A. Morgan, William Pallett, Joe Phoenix, Russell H. Sawyer, John A. Seaman, Jesse Smith, and Raymond Tucker.

Cox successfully defends State mat title

Cox did it again! For the second straight year, Cox will wear the State wrestling crown. The Falcons completely dominated last weekend's State Wrestling Championship Meet and served notice on all present that they would be the team to beat in the years to come.

Lee High School, a Northern Region entry, finished second. It was a distant second, however, finishing nearly 30 points behind the high-flying Falcons, 70-41.

Seven of the eleven Beach matmen entering the State meet finished in the top four. Individual State championships were won by Princess Anne's Ken Nowlin (98) and Cox's Chris Conkwright (119), Mike Battalio (126), Mike Newbern (138), and James Gaudreau (185). Scott Harrell of Cox finished second at 132, and Kempsville's Mark Barbee placed fourth at 145.

The meet was clearly evident that the balance of mat power has shifted to Cox. Most of the Cox wrestlers won handily. The Cox varsity and junior varsity has lost just three dual meets each in the last five years.

Cox's Conkwright, Newbern, and Gaudreau will be back again next year to defend their State titles. Harrell, runner-up at 132, will also be back for another shot, and Princess Anne's Nowlin will also be around to defend his crown next season.

Ken Nowlin won all four of his State meet matches easily. He opened with a 5-0 blanking of Thomas Dale's Virtue, defeated Lee's Lokie 12-5 in the quarterfinals, whipped Granby's Shiver 11-3 in the semifinals, and then swamped W.T. Woodson's Whittmore 11-6 for the State title at 98 pounds.

Chris Conkwright won the 119 pound title by defeating George Marshall's Brown 4-2. Conkwright opened the meet with a five minute pin over Freeman's Campbell, and then overpowered J.E.B. Stuart's Harvard, the Northern Regional champ, 11-1 in the quarterfinals. His stiffest competition came from Menchville's Carl Toops, who defeated Conkwright a week earlier for the Eastern Regional title. Conkwright defeated him 4-3 this time around to give him the shot at the State crown.

Mike Battalio had a pretty easy time of it until the championship match, where he edged J.E.B. Stuart's Hicks for the 126 pound title. Battalio opened with a 17-5 decision over Jones of Hot Springs, and then he got into the championship match by beating Oakton's Kish 11-5 in the quarterfinals and T.C. Williams' Lee 6-2 in the semifinals.

Mike Newbern won the 138 pound title with the only pin in the championship round. Scarcely working up a sweat in his four matches, Newbern culminated the action by pinning Menchville's Webb in 3:54. Newbern won all his matches with lopsided scores. After a first round 11-1 win over Freeman's Myers, he breezed past Langley's Schibbe, 8-0, in the quarterfinals and Norview's Walsh, 6-0, in the semifinals. James Gaudreau downed Lee's Reedy for the 185 pound title in a relatively close match 7-5. Gaudreau registered a 1:51 pin over Hopewell's Knotts in the first round and then edged J.E.B. Stuart's Temple in the quarterfinals 4-2.

Scott Harrell won his first three matches to get into the 132 pound championship bout, but he finished runner-up for the State title when he was defeated by Great Bridge's Jones 8-2. Harrell had little trouble winning his first three matches. He opened with a 9-3 win over Meadowbrook's Morris, decided Lampher of Falls Church 10-2 in the quarterfinals, and downed Robinson's Kuhn 10-4 in the semifinals.

Kempsville's Mark Barbee finished fourth at 145 pounds. He looked very strong in the opening round when he beat Petersburg's Lewis 6-2 in the opening round and James Wood's Carter 7-2 in the quarterfinals. In one of the most even matches of the tournament, Barbee got the approving nod of the referee in overtime to defeat Kellam's Gene Bunn in the consolation matches. Barbee lost a 7-3 decision to Churchland's Satterthwaite in the semifinals and was pinned in 2:40 by Langley's Anderson in the third-place bout.

Glen Felthousen won three of his five 112 pound matches. He opened with a 7-3 win over Manchester's Bryant and then lost a 7-2 decision to Lee's Lawson in the quarterfinals. In the consolation rounds, he defeated Northside's Thomas by default and decided T.C. Lewis' Roggenkamp 5-3 before being eliminated with a 3-1 loss to Deep Creek's Taylor.

Kellam's Jay Payne won his first two 126 pound matches, but was eliminated when he lost his next two. Payne opened with a 9-3 win over Dale's Horn and a 5-4 quarterfinal victory over Robinson's Underwood. He then lost his consolation match 11-6 to Petersburg's Bell and his semifinal match 2-0 to J.E.B. Stuart's Hicks.

Gene Bunn, also of Kellam, took three of his five matches at 145. He opened with an 8-4 decision over Barfield of Colonial Heights, but was pinned by Mt. Vernon's Lorenzo in the quarterfinals (3:04). In the consolation, Bunn defeated Stafford's McMinis 8-5 and Bethel's Reeves 1-0 before being eliminated on a referee's decision in overtime to Kempsville's Mark Barbee.

Another Kellam matman, Tim Terry, won his first two 185 pound matches and then was eliminated by losing the next two. Terry got off to a good opening round start when he pinned McCarter of Colonial Heights in 2:30.

EVERYONE SEEMS TO BE LOOKING AT SOMETHING. The crowd is watching the action. The official is watching the wrestlers. Cox matman Scott Harrell is looking at his coach for advice. Great Bridge's Arthur Jones (top wrestler) is looking at a ...well, Scott Harrell.

IT IS A TENSE MOMENT for Cox's assistant wrestling coach, George McGovern. The coach's anxiety turned to pure joy when James Gaudreau won his State crown.

A MOST HAPPY FELLOW! Ken Nowlin fooled the prognosticators Saturday night by winning the 98 pound State wrestling championship, and he leaves the mat proud as a peacock.

Pete Withers named "Player of the Week"

Pete Withers, a Virginia Wesleyan College sophomore who helped lead the Marlins to four victories in their last five starts, has been chosen NAIA District 29 "Basketball Player of the Week," according to Gene Warren, public relations director for District 29.

Withers, a six-foot guard from Rayside High School in Virginia Beach, scored 16 points against Shenandoah and then exploded for a 30-point outburst against Greensboro. In the Greensboro contest, he hit five of seven field goal attempts and was 20 for 23 at the free throw line.

In a one point decision over St. Andrew's, Withers hit eight field goals and was nine for nine at the free throw line. In the final game of the season against North Carolina Wesleyan, he added 13 points to the 69-62 victory.

For the season, Withers has stayed on the free throw line an amazing amount of time because of his driving tactics toward the basket and his ball handling ability. He has responded by making 150 of 197 free throw attempts.

"Pete is a great athlete and competitor," says his coach, Don Forsyth. "An outstanding leader, he was chosen team captain both as a freshman and a sophomore. While we did not do well from the won-lost standpoint (5-15), it was no fault of Pete's. He averaged nearly 18 points a game for us this season."

CHRIS CONKWRIGHT MANEUVERS HIS OPPONENT in a position for the win that gave the Cox sophomore the 119-pound State title.

THE WINNER: The mat official lifts James Gaudreau's arm in the traditional victory signal after Gaudreau won the 185 pound State title.

A NEW SCHOOL RECORD for junior varsity scoring at Kellam was set by Melvin Brockett (32) during the tournament. A Booker T. player seems to be giving Brockett a lift as he puts in the two points that set the record.

THE BIG SQUEEZE is being put on First Colonial's Alan Turner (20) in the Patriot's junior varsity tournament game with Maury. Turner is getting pushed

Six Beach teams make playoffs

Six Virginia Beach cage teams made the Eastern District playoffs. Three were varsity teams — Princess Anne, Cox and Bayside — and three were junior varsity — First Colonial, Kellam, and Princess Anne.

All three varsity teams were eliminated in the opening round of play. Kellam's junior varsity made it to the semi-finals, but the junior varsity forces of First Colonial and Princess Anne were knocked out in their opening games.

In junior varsity play, Kellam's Melvin Brockett set a new school scoring record by hitting sixteen field goals and seven foul shots for 39 points in the opening game against Booker T. This broke Sonny Blackmon's 37-point record set last season. Brian Macon was the leading scorer in the semi-final game against Granby. Macon had 23 tallies.

Alan Turner led the First Colonial junior varsity scorers with 17 points. Bobby Allen was top rebounder with 17. The Princess Anne game was probably the most thrilling of the season, with the Cavalier junior varsity losing in four overtimes, 72-71, to Granby.

On the varsity front, Randy Robinson scored 25 points in the Cox loss to Maury. Jim Goffigan led Bayside scorers with 27 tallies, but the game wound up in Booker T.'s favor. Mike Ange was the game's top scorer with 23 points in the Cavalier's loss to Granby.

IT CAN BE PRETTY ROUGH UNDER THE BOARDS. Cox's Randy Robinson (53) throws his shoulder and elbow into Maury's Willie Young (32) to keep him away from the ball. Young returns the favor.

SOMEBODY IS ALWAYS GRABBING at the ball, or so it appears to Princess Anne's junior varsity standout Bill McCoy during the Cavalier-Granby tournament game.

Bruce Lember wins his class in moto-cross season opener

Another moto-cross season began Sunday at Mid-East. Under a bright sun, 150 riders entertained over a thousand spectators with racing on a fast track.

Bruce Lember led a strong contingent from Virginia Beach. He won the 175cc class by outpointing Jerry Mayers. This was Lember's first race following his shoulder injury last year.

Going into the third and final moto of the 125cc class, Smokey Miller of Virginia Beach was tied for first with Roy Roper and Steve Lewis. On the last lap while close behind Lewis, Miller fell. Roper then passed Lewis in the last five yards, and Miller took third on overall points.

In the 250cc class, another three-way tie developed, this time involving Jimmy White and Jim Tripp of Virginia Beach and Larry Wiekert. Tripp was involved in an accident at the start. Coming from dead last as a result, he finished fifth in the race to take third in his class overall. White did not finish.

Mid-East plans to hold moto-crosses every other week until next winter. The next race will get underway at 1 p.m. on Sunday, March 11th.

Kempsville girls win Beach gymnastics title

Kempsville finished its girls' gymnastics season undefeated to take the top spot in the final Virginia Beach standings. The Kempsville girls won all five of their matches. Runner-up honors went to Princess Anne, winner of four of their five matches, with their only loss being to Kempsville.

Kempsville completed their only undefeated season in four years of competition by downing Kellam 63.93-44.45 last Thursday night. The Kempsville girls won first place in every event, and they took second in every event except one.

The Kempsville win was led by Wanda Cowan, Debbie Dibelbis, Christy Proctor, and Sharon James. Wanda Cowan took balance beam honors, Sharon James won the uneven parallel bar competition, Debbie Dibelbis won the tumbling and free exercise events, and Christy Proctor took vaulting honors.

Kempsville has been led all season by Sharon James, Debbie Dibelbis, and Christy Proctor. Debbie and Christy have placed in virtually every match in the four events they work. Sharon has won consistently on the uneven parallel bars, her specialty.

The Kempsville girls are participating in two college matches this week. They met Old Dominion University Tuesday night, and on Friday they will be at Longwood. Both meets should serve as great tune-ups for the Eastern Regional Gymnastics Meet at Princess Anne High School on March 10th.

Princess Anne clinched second place Thursday night with a 64.85-57.05 win over Bayside. Both teams had been tied for second place prior to the match.

Nan Dick and Linda Cressy paced the Princess Anne win. Nan won the vaulting and tumbling competition, and Linda won in floor exercise and shared first place on the uneven parallel bars with Bayside's Vicki Barr.

Princess Anne swept all three places in vaulting, but Bayside did just as well on the balance beam to keep the match close. Sherree Bond won the balance beam event, and Vicki Barr tied for first on the uneven parallel bars.

Nan Dick finished the season with 104.33 points, an average of 20.81 points per meet. She was the top point-maker for the Cavaliers.

Laura K. Dixon weds Gregory T. Dickinson

The marriage of Laura Kellie Dixon and Gregory Thomas Dickinson took place on February 24 at 3:30 p.m. at All Saints Episcopal Church in Atlanta with the Rev. William P. Baxter Jr. officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. John Curtis Dixon of Virginia Beach. The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Gifford Dickinson of Sarasota, Fla.

The bride was given away by her father. She wore a gown of ivory silk and satin, accented with yoke and sleeve trim of Brussels lace. Her illusion veil was made of Brussels lace from her grandmother's wedding dress. The gown also featured a cathedral train. She carried a bouquet of tube roses and gardenias.

Linda Davis of Shreveport, La., served as maid of honor. She wore a turquoise chiffon costume with empire waist, long, full sleeves banded with ivory lace, a bit front with pin tucks, edged in lace and a high lace back. She carried a nosegay of pink, yellow and white spring flowers with carnations streamers.

Bridesmaids were Linda Koeh of Virginia Beach, Blair Palmer of Columbus, Miss., and Mrs. James Winstead of Fort Walton Beach, Fla. Their costumes and flowers matched those of the maid of honor.

Dr. Thomas G. Dickinson served as his son's best man. Ushers were Philip McLaughlin of Hartford, Conn.; Daniel Siben of Cleveland, Ohio; David Weinstein of St. Johnsbury, Vt.; and James T. Winstead of Fort Walton Beach, Fla.

A reception was held at the Piedmont Driving Club, Atlanta. The couple plans a summer wedding trip. They will live in Atlanta.

The bride is a graduate of Norfolk Academy and currently attends Emory University (Atlanta) where she is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

The groom is a graduate of Middlebury College (Vt.) and earned his M.D. degree from Berenson College (Pa.). He is currently attending Emory University School of Dentistry.

Mrs. Gregory Thomas Dickinson

Anne M. Pillow weds David Thompson Jr.

Miss Anne Morris Pillow and David Roy Thompson Jr. were married on February 24 at 3:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in a double ring ceremony with the Rev. Ward L. Densel and the Rev. Douglas C. Pillow officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Pillow of Virginia Beach. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Roy Thompson Sr. of Auburn, N.H.

The bride wore a long gown of white satin-trimmed with appliques of Alencon lace and seed pearls with a chapel-length train. She wore a matching headpiece with shoulder-length veil. She carried a white prayer book with white orchid and carnation petal streamers.

Mrs. Dana Chelborg of Virginia Beach served as her sister's maid of honor. She wore a pastel pink chiffon gown with long sleeves and lace-trimmed bodice and neckline. She carried a nosegay of white and blue carnations. Susan Pillow was her sister's maid of honor. Her pastel blue chiffon gown was identical to that worn by the matron of honor. She carried a nosegay of white and pink carnations.

Karen L. Hughes and Becky L. Bryant were bridesmaids. Tammy J. Thompson was junior bridesmaid and Tina R. Carr was flowergirl. Their dresses matched those of the honor attendants, alternating in pink and blue.

David R. Thompson Sr. served as his son's best man. Groomsmen were Donald I. Thompson, Randy L. Chelborg, Henry G. Goff Jr. and John R. MacLeod.

Music was provided by organist Arlene Tubbs, with solos by Mrs. Billie-Jacque Shepherd.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church social hall. After a wedding trip to New Hampshire, the couple will live in Norfolk.

Shirley Louise Bowden weds Richard Robbins

Shirley Louise Bowden became the bride of Lt. Cmdr. Richard James Robbins on February 24 in a candlelight ceremony at Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd with the Rev. Benson Taylor officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harry Robert Gayle and Ernest Hillard Bowden of Virginia Beach.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Robbins of Clyde, Ohio.

The bride was given away by her father. She wore a sequestered candlelight silk organza gown with long, fitted sleeves. The bodice and sleeves were fashioned of English net and Teanau lace of a darker candlelight color. The sweeping chapel train was appliqued with English and Teanau lace. She carried an assortment of beige and cerise dried flowers with pink tea roses.

Mrs. Forrest Lewis of Warsaw, N.C., served as matron of honor. She wore a gown of candlelight crepe with empire waist, full sleeves and beige Juliet headpiece. She carried a bouquet of dried beige flowers and fresh pink tea roses. Bridesmaids were Carolyn Bailey of Virginia Beach and Marianne Robbins of Clyde, Ohio, sister of the groom. Their costumes matched the gown worn by the matron of honor. Carolyn Lewis, godchild of the bride, served as flowergirl and wore a pink empire-waisted dress. She carried a bouquet of pink tea roses and beige baby's breath.

Lt. Cmdr. Randolph Wise of LeMora, Calif., served as best man. Ushers were Len Vincent of Florida, Fred Steiner of Hightstown, N.J., Ronald Robbins of Clarksville, Tenn., brother of the groom, and Stuart Johnson of Winston-Salem, N.C.

A reception was held at the Oceana Club. After a wedding trip to the Orient, the couple will reside in Mission Beach, San Diego, Calif.

The bride is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and, prior to her marriage, was employed as a renal dialysis therapist at National Medical Care, Norfolk.

The groom is a graduate of Clyde (Ohio) High School and the U.S. Navy Academy. He is presently stationed in San Diego aboard the USS Mobile.

'Alert in our Time' theme for World Day of Prayer

All persons of every faith are invited to the World Day of Prayer celebration sponsored by Church Women United of Virginia Beach to be held at St. Nicholas Catholic Church, 644 Little Neck Road, Friday, March 2 at 11 a.m. A nursery will be provided.

The Reverend Martin C. Poch, D.C., chairman of the Commission on World Hunger for the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod will be the speaker. Dr. Poch was born in London, England and was graduated from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. His Alma Mater granted him an honorary Doctor of Divinity Degree in 1949. He served as an Army chaplain in the Philippines, with the Army of Occupation in Japan, and in Alaska and Europe, retiring with the rank of colonel. Upon retirement from the Army, he became pastor of the Pilgrim Lutheran Church in Washington, D.C. and served as president of the Southeastern District of his church until 1970.

The 1973 World Day of Prayer Service was written by church women of New Zealand. The women of New Zealand explain the theme "Alert in our Time" through their expression of these concerns. "Because of our isolation, there has always been something of a time-lag between us and the more populous countries. This has given us time to prepare for social changes but it also means that we tend to be onlookers of the world scene, rather than participants. Our small population of under three million in a country roughly the size of England, our high standard of living, abundant food and temperate climate—all these are a temptation for us to live complacently and to watch the outside world go by on our television screens. However, Christians are thinking New Zealanders are greatly concerned with the world problems of hunger, population explosion, fear of nuclear war, pollution of the environment, and economic and social needs both here and abroad.

The Christian belief that faith should not be separated from action is carried out through the World Day of Prayer observances. Around the world women give to the offering which is used to support the programs of Intercontinental Mission—the process by which Church Women United participates in a ministry to people all over the world. The funds are used for new projects to broaden the understanding of American Indians and to offer them training in significant skills; the completion of a five-year project to publish 100 new titles of children's books in five languages, a new program for women in the Caribbean to broaden their knowledge of nutrition and to improve their skills in native crafts; opening of child care centers in a number of cities and towns throughout the U.S., and other projects.

The small group of women who started World Day of Prayer in 1967 have seen their movement become international in prayer and action.

5 on Tech dean's list

Five Virginia Beach students were among 231 students in Virginia Tech's College of Education to make the dean's list during the winter quarter. Sixty-one made all A's or a perfect 4.0 average.

March is Red Cross Month

The Mayors of the six cities in Tidewater and the Peninsula Friday proclaimed March as "Red Cross Month," as Red Cross flags were unfurled in public buildings, military installations and businesses throughout the area.

The American Red Cross Tidewater, Portsmouth and Hampton Roads Chapters are, as other chapters are across the nation, joining together in honoring the organization's many volunteers for their time, their blood donations and the financial support received from the community through the United Way.

This year's theme, "The Good Neighbor" is exemplified by the volunteers in each community who help provide for the comfort, health, and safety of their fellow Americans. Volunteers last year nationally numbered 1,661,565 which does not include the over 2 million individuals who contributed blood nor the over 7 million students who participated in Red Cross programs in schools. Over 12,000 volunteers gave over 227,000 hours last year in the immediate Tidewater and Peninsula areas.

Local girls top students

Mary Carver, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Edward S. Carver, Jr. of 212 54th Street and Alice Withers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Withers, Jr. of 308 Susan Constant Drive, have been named to the dean's list of honor students at Hollins College.

To attain this distinction they compiled at least a 3.4 average on a 4.0 scale for their last semester's work.

Ms. Carver, a graduate of St. Agnes School in Alexandria, is a sophomore psychology major at the woman's college. Ms. Withers, also a sophomore, was graduated from First Colonial High School.

SELLOUT FOR CHARITY - When Cape Henry Circle of The King's Daughters held its annual buffet supper recent by a he Harbour Room of the White Heron Motel, a sellout crowd attended, including Mr. and Mrs. Dan Morris, in the above photo. Proceeds from the party will be donated to Mar us, Inc., and Hope Haven Home for Children.

Lenten services at VB Methodist Church

Virginia Beach United Methodist Church will launch a series of half-hour mid-week Lenten services at the church. Guest preachers will be featured at the Wednesday noon service in the church's chapel. The compact service will be designed for working persons on their lunch break as well as for people who come from their homes.

Preaching on Ash Wednesday, March 7, will be Dr. William M. Wilson, dean of Virginia Wesleyan College; he will be followed by Rev. John A. Lyles, pastor of First Presbyterian Church on March 14; Rev. Roy R. Jackson, March 21; Mrs. Louise B. Wilson, Virginia Beach Friends Meeting, March 28; Dr. John Owens, April 4; Rev. Paul T.

Gaughan, Pastor, Star of the Sea Catholic Church, April 11; Rev. Richard Woodward, pastor, Virginia Beach Community Chapel, April 18; Rev. W. Thomas Wood, pastor, First Baptist Church, April 20.

Special music for the services has been planned by the church's music department.

Tax: Rural acreage now taxed as homesites; but septic tank laws block construction

By JAY BRUMBLEY

Can you have a home without an "official" homesite? Can the City tax the owner of a piece of property for a homesite if it is really or legally cannot be one? These two questions were raised in City Council Monday by Councilman John Baum.

According to a letter Baum presented to City Manager Roger Scott, confusion has existed for some time over policies on issuing septic tank permits. Baum has requested the State Health Department to publicize and clarify current septic tank criteria.

In the past, septic tanks have been allowed on parcels of land with a minimum size of three acres for imperfectly drained soils. On well-drained soils, one septic tank system was allowed on each acre.

"Although the systems had limitations, even with good surface drainage," Baum's letter stated, "apparently the public's health was considered reasonably well protected by low density building."

Councilman Baum now feels that the Health Department no longer approves permits for septic tanks along the guidelines previously used.

One Blackwater landowner said that his eight lots, one and half acres each in size, had been approved for septic tanks early in 1972 even though they were not Class I soils on the Soil Conservation Service's classification system. Others have been told more recently that some soils were completely unsuitable for septic tanks regardless of the parcel size. These landowners were turned down on their septic tank requests even though their parcels ranged from four to thirty acres in size.

In the past, the soil mapping evaluation by the Soil Conservation System has been the basis for Health Department decisions. Baum feels that this must no longer be true in light of the recent denials.

The recently completed reassessment by the City has thrown more fuel on the fire. Several residents with outhouses have been denied septic tank permits when they tried to improve their properties.

Since the property cannot be improved with septic tanks, and since no further building for residential use will be allowed on the property, the parcels technically have no potential as homesites. Yet, the new assessments on these properties have valued the land as homesite property.

These people with homes on non-homesite property are requesting the City to reassess their parcels as Class III soils. This reclassification would permit an assessment based on the fair market value of a non-homesite parcel.

Baum feels that the lack of knowledge by the public of current Health Department policies regarding septic tanks is unfair to potential buyers of rural property where no sewer lines are available. These potential buyers should be warned if some parcels cannot be used as homesites, Baum insists.

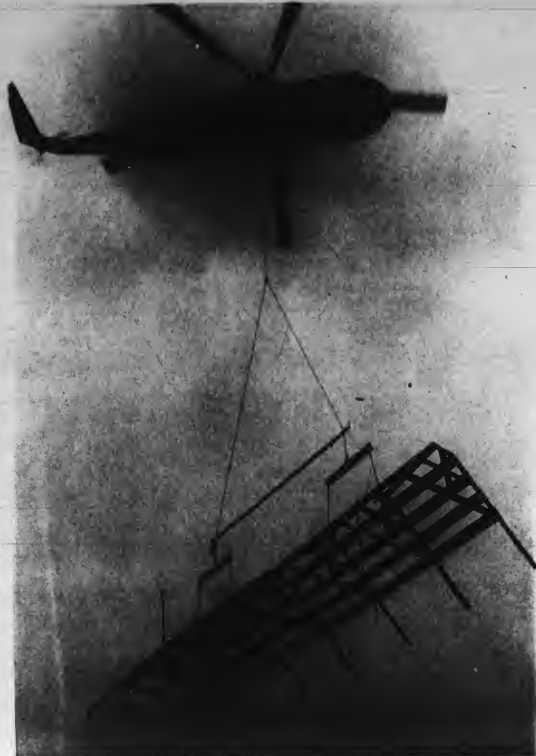

The City Health Department was under the impression that the past practice of making the property suitable for a septic tank system by putting down two feet of sand before installation was valid. At least it was suitable through July 1st of 1972. Baum is of the opinion that this is no longer allowed by the State Health Department in light of recent decisions.

Clive M. Merritt, the City Real Estate Assessor, told City Council last week that he was under the impression that three acres of land was sufficient to qualify for a septic tank. In light of recent developments, he now understands that the State Health Department is requiring the entire farm soil to qualify for septic tank standards before installation permits will be approved.

Merritt said that he has learned of enials because the entire farm would not perculate properly to handle septic tanks and that these property owners are protesting their tax assessment increases since they will not be able to develop their land as homesites. The only choice these landowners have is to continue their farms or leave the land undeveloped.

Baum feels the whole issue is a mess. What are the current policies of the State Health Department regarding approving septic tank installations? Are the outhouse owners going to be able to put in septic tanks so that they can upgrade their homes with indoor facilities? Is the City going to insist on taxing their rural residents who are caught in the midst of the problem as owners of homesites when they do not have a valid homesite in the eyes of the State Health officials? Baum hopes his inquiry will answer these questions in the very near future.

Planning Commission's revised CZO is released

By LES LEHIGH

The latest edition of the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance being released to the public today, according to officials, resulted from revisions requested by the Planning Commission.

The revisions were reportedly outlined in a series of meetings between the Commission and the Planning Department staff during the past several months. These meetings followed the Planning Commission's rejection of the CZO as presented by the Planning Department last fall.

An area of major concern in the newly revised CZO, according to Commission Chairman J. Harry Mote, is the protection of existing and planned apartment buildings in the resort city.

Mote indicates this will be accomplished through adequate zoning provisions, and the creation of four new zoning categories containing standards governing apartment construction.

"I think the people are going to be real pleased with it," Mote said, "we have spent a great deal of time in trying to consider everyone and what is best for the city."

4 more return

Four more former Prisoners of War were scheduled to be reunited with their families late Wednesday after spending some six years in captivity in North Vietnam.

The Navy men, whose families reside in Virginia Beach, are Capt. Allen C. Brady; Cmdr. John H. Fellows; and Eugene B. McDaniel; and Lt. Cmdr. Michael D. Christian.

Perhaps the most major revision in approving apartment construction is the elimination of the LUI (Land Use Intensity) Plan. This would have required the use of a percentage of lots, proposed for apartment development, as open or recreational space. If the remaining lot size, after deduction of this space, did not qualify the proposed apartment units could not be constructed.

Mote says the ordinance has been revised "...to include various categories that had not been included before, and cover apartments in different categories.

"There are four categories for apartments," Mote added, "with each containing designations for the number of units per acre which would be permitted to be built. We have also included a new duplex zoning, which was previously unavailable, to bring into

But Potter's optimistic

By KIRT BABUDER

John Potter has some problems—but he's optimistic about them.

Potter is the inventor-financier of the controversial sand erosion device being placed off 18th Street at the Beach.

The 1,000-foot structure is an effort by Potter to halt sand erosion and replace sand which has already been lost to the ocean.

If the device works, the result will be two-fold: The city will pay Potter $108,000 and will have a much wider beach. According to Potter, people will be able to walk to the installation point now some 400 feet offshore before the one-year trial is over.

If the device fails, Potter will be faced with the cost of the structure and its placement, plus its removal.

Potter was required by City Council to place a $50,000 bond in escrow in case any problems arise and the device fails—such as losing sand instead of gaining it.

Potter is still very optimistic about the future of his invention—even with the problems of the past week. Saturday's installation date brought more problems than Potter had expected.

The main problem was the weather. But also a rigging device that was to fly the 3,000 pound units to their ocean resting place failed—due to a contractor who did not use materials up to Potter's specifications.

The weather wasn't up to the inventor's specs either: Rough seas, a light rain and a slight fog prohibited the huge Carson Helicopter Co. helicopter from laying the full 1,000 feet Potter had hoped to install.

Because of the bad weather the operation was stopped when some 300 feet of the upside down "V" structure was in place. Potter is very optimistic about that, too. He feels that under ideal conditions two sections of fencing could be laid at once in about four minutes—each section is about 25 feet long.

Everyone seems interested in the underwater sand fencing; local, state and federal officials gathered Saturday morning to watch the installation, along with several hundred citizens. The fence laying took on the air of a barn raising as the crowd cheered the placement of the first section—nearly three hours behind schedule.

The placing of the sand erosion device is more important than man walking on the moon, according to Potter. "We are literally losing thousands of acres of coastline to erosion each year," he told a breakfast group of select dignitaries at 7:30 Saturday morning.

"People are going to have to start putting their brains together to stop it before it's too late."

Everyone is hoping that Potter's device will work. Even those who have called the project "Potter's Folly." Not so Potter will receive his $108,000 from the city. But so people will have to walk to the ocean instead of stepping out their back doors.

Potter, showing the strain of Saturday's frustrations, dons a plastic protection against the rain.

Courageous fight ends for teen-age cystic fibrosis victim

By HELEN CRIST

Peggy Gillroy leaned across the bed where her 15-year-old son Paul, Jr., lay dying.

In a moment of painful insight, she thought: "I've been through this before—but when, where?"

Then she remembered...DePaul Hospital, 17 years ago. Her son, a 17-month-old baby then, was ill and she was waiting for the result of a battery of tests that the baby had undergone.

As she waited, a woman thrust a copy of the Ladies Home Journal in her hands. She pointed to an article by Dr. Wynne Sharples, entitled "A Sure Killer of Children."

Peggy read one paragraph, and knew.

When the doctor entered the room, she was leaning over young Paul's crib. Without looking up, she said: "Doctor, does my baby have cystic fibrosis?"

He said yes.

A sentence of death. The moment returned to overwhelm Peggy as she saw her son struggle for breath, then lie still, finally at peace.

It was Jan. 24, at National Institute of Health, a public health hospital at Bethesda, Md.

Cystic fibrosis: the insidious enemy of children; the discouraging disease that affects the lungs, the digestive system, the sweat glands, producing abnormally thick mucus in the lungs, makes every breath a fight for life.

The Tidewater Chapter National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation has done much toward research, and life expectancy has increased.

For little Paul Gillroy, in the beginning, the doctors gave him about one year to live.

"There didn't seem to be much they knew about it then," Peggy said. "He had medicine to help his food digest, and of course antibiotics to fight infection."

The family lived at Lynnhaven Colony. Peggy continued in her profession of hairdressing, which she'd learned in her hometown of Pocahontas, Va., 10 miles from Bluefield, West Virginia. She now owns her own shop, Bay Beach Beauty Salon on Ebb Tide Road.

When Paul was three years old, his brother, Patrick was born. There was no trace of the disease in the second child, now 18 and a strapping 6 ft. 2 in.

Paul learned of his illness when he was seven. It was then that he began to sleep under a mist tent, to facilitate breathing. With him, under the tent, went his little Miniature Schnauzer, Ellis.

Paul named the dog for Elton Howard, of the New York Yankees. For it seemed that, because he was frail of body, he lived vicariously through the great athletes.

He could tell you who all the players were, their numbers, how many home runs they'd hit—anything about the game," Peggy said.

In direction proportion to his physical weakness was the strength of his mind. He seemed to literally soak up knowledge.

He was able to attend John B. Dey School up to the sixth grade. Off and on, then, through the later years, he was tutored at home by Charles Collins, when he was unable to go to school.

An "A" student, he would have graduated from Cox High School in June. He had already been accepted by Virginia Wesleyan for the Fall term.

Paul's ambition was to be a journalist. He was an inveterate latter-writer. He'd follow current events closely, taking great pride when his letters to the editor were printed in the newspapers.

"Pat and Paul would sit at the breakfast table and discuss world events like two adults," Peggy said.

The boys were inseparable. The bond was even closer when Paul developed a deep passion for fishing. The family would go to Hatteras for wonderful weekends of camping and fishing together.

Peggy bought him a 4-wheel drive Jeep Commando. This and his fishing equipment were his treasured possessions.

Every fish he caught was itemized, and many were the fish he shared with the neighborhood.

Throughout his life, there were checkups every two or three months for Paul at NIH, Bethesda.

"I can't say enough about how wonderful they all were to us up there," Peggy said.

There was such a checkup this past Dec. 13.

"Paul came home afterwards and went Christmas shopping. He loved Christmas. No artificial trees for him. Nothing, but the real thing would do, and he liked to trim it himself," Peggy said.

But he did an extraordinary thing this year.

"He gathered up his telescope, his best clothes and anything I'd let him take out, and gave it to the Fire Department, for the underprivileged children."

A premonition perhaps? Peggy doesn't know.

On Jan. 21, Paul was back again at NIH in serious condition.

Born and raised a Catholic, he received communion at the hospital on Monday from Rev. Eugene Linehan.

Paul told the priest: "You've given me something better than medicine; you've given me the love of God."

Father Linehan went back to his church and told the nuns that they could talk all they wanted to about the saints, but he had met a real one in Paul.

On Tuesday, the doctors prepared to give him a bronchoscopy to help clear his lungs of mucus. Never a simple procedure, they told Peggy it might be fatal, in his weakened condition.

His weight for the past few years had been 72 pounds; his height 5 ft. 7 in.

Peggy told Paul what they intended to do. He assured her that it was all right and for her not to worry.

"I love you Mom."

"I love you too."

Paul died the next day.

As Peggy went through his desk at home, she came upon a piece of paper on which Paul had written:

"This moment I live; only He knows why. After my next breath He just may call. This call I will answer; on the breath that He chooses."

A 'more liberalized America'

Lt. Cmdr. Paul E. Galanti, just released after spending six-and-a-half years in a North Vietnamese prison camp, has credited President Richard M. Nixon with ending that Midwestern Asian conflict.

During his initial news conference at Portsmouth Naval Hospital Galanti said, "I was just, fantastically impressed with the courage that President Nixon displayed in an election year, reopening the bombing war against North Vietnam. I strongly feel that had it not been for such a powerful decision that it might still be dragging out for years."

Galanti also praised Nixon's personal visits to China and Russia "as important steps towards relaxing World tension. 'It is something' Galanti said, "that cannot help but be achieved by such gestures."

Some Americans disagreeing with United States policies towards the Vietnam war prompted a strong reaction from Galanti. He said, "We could not understand over there where we, just Americans like everybody else, once a week would get up and say the pledge of allegiance, we could not understand how people could be so unpatriotic as to condemn the government in time of war."

Although he has only had a brief exposure to today's American way of life Galanti has formed a favorable impression of changes over the years. He said, "Personally I have seen a lot of changes which I like, and I feel I have returned to a much more liberalized America than I left. A lot of changes I find have been beneficial. The other day I was out shopping and this fellow, a Black American, came up and said, 'Welcome home, Commander'. He threw his arms around me and said, 'Black or White, it just doesn't make any difference'. This would not have happened back in 1963 or '64."

As with his fellow former POWs recently returned to Tidewater the only disappointment Galanti expressed over his reception regarded implications that their homecoming statements had been managed by the Pentagon. He said, "That is just completely false, and it bothered me that anyone could be so cynical as to think that those statements could have been programmed into human beings."

Galanti was quick to dispel earlier fears that the former POWs might have difficulty adjusting to a normal way of life after many years in captivity. He said, "Well, everybody talks about that. However, I think there are no adjustments required. It's just great and things just sort of happen. Adjustments are required when you are placed in a situation of not being free. However, to someone who must jump out in this wonderful world of ours no adjustments (are, required whatsoever."

Perhaps the most important phase of their return for the former POWs is adjusting to lives with their loved ones. Mrs. Phyllis Galanti discussed changes in her husband by saying, "Well, I've noticed a new zest for life...He's always been easy going but I think he's even more easy going now. He doesn't let little things disturb him, and I think he kind of wonders at the rest of us sometimes, how we let little things get under our skin."

So I'm going to have to take a few lessons, I think."

Commenting on changes in his wife Galanti said, "She was pretty shy when I left and I came back to a real tiger. The change, I think, has been beneficial."

Galanti speaks to the press as his wife beams her happiness.

Red triangles will spotlight cyclists

The Virginia Beach Safety Council has initiated a program—the sale of bicycle safety reflectors—which the council believes will protect the city's growing number of cyclists.

The large triangle-shaped reflectors, known as International Bicycle Safety Triangles, are of heavy-duty red fluorescent styrene which, when attached behind the bike seat, will catch the motorists' eye whether it be daytime or nighttime.

The colorful devices are supplementary safety warnings that are to be used in addition to the regular red reflector light on the rear fender.

The triangles, which come complete with attachments, are on sale for $1 and proceeds will be used by the council for other safety programs in the city, such as boating, traffic, swimming, etc.

Members of the Safety Council urge parents to equip all family bicycles with these safety reflectors. They are available at all Tidewater Sears stores; Tru-Value Hardware stores at Princess Anne Plaza, Hilltop and Pacific Avenue; Givens Bicycle Shop on Virginia Beach Boulevard; and Pete Smith's Surf & Cycle Shop on Pacific Avenue.

Evans makes bid

Andre Evans expressed strong faith in the two party political system as he announced his candidacy for reelection as Virginia Beach's Commonwealth Attorney.

Evans said, "I believe very strongly in the two party system, that is why I'm running as a Democrat instead of an Independent. I was elected in 1967 as a Democrat, and am taking the same path this year. I believe the political strength is in the two party system."

Evans also reflected on changes in political strength in the resort city during the past five years. He said, "The situation is calmer and more reasonable now than in 1967. No one runs Virginia Beach anymore, which is a healthy situation."

One hurdle which Evans must still clear in his bid for reelection is qualifying his candidacy. In discussing this Evans said that in the event a primary is not held he would seek nomination from the City Democratic Committee.

Evans made it quite clear however he intends to seek reelection, but would prefer Democratic endorsement. He pointed this out when questioned about future political alignment by saying, "I hope to run as an individual with Democratic backing unless political activities determine otherwise."

Program advances

Virginia Beach moved a step closer to an Emergency Coronary Care Program Monday when City Council approved a $45,000 loan to purchase necessary equipment.

When the program is initiated, in about 90 days, the resort city will become the first anywhere to use Volunteer Rescue Squads in this capacity. The total cost of the program is about $200,000. Of this amount some $60,000 has been pledged, however this money will be received over a three year program.

The City's loan was necessary in order to qualify for a federal grant of $23,250. Before this money can be obtained twice that amount must be spent locally, which necessitated the loan.

The money will be spent to purchase necessary equipment, which is expected to arrive within 90 days. This will enable operation to begin at that time. In the meantime personnel, both in rescue squads and hospitals involved, are undergoing training.

Councilman Dr. Clarence A. Holland pointed to the importance of the loan by telling Council Monday, "This will put the program 18 months ahead of schedule."

The only dissenting vote against the loan came from Councilman George R. Ferrell. He said, "I'm completely in favor of the program. I just don't like the method of financing. It seems to me like we're getting into a very precarious position."

Ferrell pointed out he was concerned with the City "...getting into the money loaning business...", in that this might open the door for other groups and/or organizations to seek loans from the City.

Search on for queen

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Plaza Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad is again searching for a queen to represent the station at various functions and parades throughout the year.

All girls between the ages of 13 and 18 are eligible to participate in the queen's contest. The queen is chosen by the amount of one penny "votes" she can collect and contribute to the department.

Applications may be made at the Plaza Fire Station, Rosemont Road and S. Plaza Trail, on Saturdays, March 10 and 17, from 1-3 p.m. The winner will receive a savings bond and prizes donated by local merchants.

Club meets

The monthly meeting of the Kellam High School Booster Club will be Monday, March 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Hear that roar?

Aircraft traffic in the skies over Naval Air Station Oceana and the surrounding Virginia Beach area will be heavier than normal until at least April 14. There will also be increased air traffic at the Auxiliary Landing Field in Fentress where aircraft will bounce, practicing touch and go landings, until about 5 a.m. nightly through April 14. The increased air traffic will be from planes practicing take-offs and landings in preparation for carrier qualifications in line with fleet requirements. Flights over Naval Air Station Oceana will continue until 11 p.m. nightly.

Kindergarten will start in fall

By DONNA HENDRICK

The Virginia Beach School Board has approved a plan to start kindergarten in the public schools this fall, with approximately 2,700 children attending school in portable classrooms.

Kindergarten classes will start June 18 in the 45-15 pilot schools, which are starting an experimental year-round school program on that date.

All children who will be 5 years old by November 1 are eligible to attend the part-time kindergarten classes. They will go to school from 9 a.m. to noon or from noon to 3 p.m. Students may still attend private or parochial kindergartens since the General Assembly has not passed a compulsory kindergarten attendance law.

The Board had previously voted to start kindergarten in 1974, but decided to start in 1973 to take advantage of full funding from the state.

School Superintendent E.E. Brickell told the Board that this is probably the only time the kindergarten program will receive full funding.

Brickell also said that the budget has a "guaranteed loss clause" or "grandfather clause" which will guarantee the same funding formula for subsequent years even if the formula is changed next year.

Brickell's staff determined that it would be most economically feasible to operate kindergarten classes on a part-time basis in portable classrooms. The 50 additional classrooms needed will be provided on a lease-purchase plan.

The total cost of providing kindergarten in 1973 will be about $1,800,000, with the state providing at least $1,500,000, Brickell said.

About 3,000 students are eligible to attend kindergarten, and the city is expecting 2,700 in public kindergarten. The rest will probably attend private and parochial schools in the area.

Students who will attend kindergarten will pre-register 30 days before school starts in each school where the kindergarten classes will be held.

A kindergarten brochure will be available to parents explaining the new classes.

Brickell also said that the school system now has 53 teachers who are qualified to teach kindergarten and that more teachers have expressed an interest in early childhood teaching. He also said that the State Department of Education is preparing a waiver in case there are not enough certified teachers of early education available.

Summer kindergarten classes will still be offered this summer only to prepare children for the first grade.

Beach Walk-A-Thon will benefit March of Dimes

Alfred Bevan, Walk-A-Thon chairman, has announced the March of Dimes will hold its third annual walk at Virginia Beach on Sunday, April 29.

WNOR will once again be the co-sponsor and Paul Todd will serve as honorary chairman. This year the Walk-A-Thon will cover all six cities in the Tidewater Area and will begin at Rude's Inlet, Virginia Beach, at 8:30 A.M.

Cheryl Lanford, 1973 Tidewater March of Dimes poster child, who was born with open spine and a club foot, represents the purpose of the March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon—to help prevent and treat birth defects.

Bevan stated that walkers will gather at the Steel Pier at Rude's Inlet and proceed to 83rd Street and return to Rude's Inlet, a distance of 15 miles.

Along the way will be various check points so that each walker will verify the distance to his sponsors. Both Champagne and Seven-Up are providing food and drink.

Following the Walk-A-Thon, there will be a concert at Hogues Gallery for those walkers who complete the walk.

Last year 3,000 walkers participated in the March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon. These walkers collected $37,000 for the March of Dimes to aid in its program of prevention, treatment and patient aid. Bevan expects to have more walkers this year so that the programs of the March of Dimes can once again be increased in the six city area.

As Bevan stated, "Birth defects are forever unless you help and everyone can help by walking at Virginia Beach on April 29, 1973."

Broken Needles, Inc. moves to new offices

Newtown Road exit off the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway.

Broken Needles has never had a permanent home since it began operating 18 months ago.

The original offices were in the home of the founder, the Rev. Danny Marrow.

The offices were moved to a vacant barn on Holland Road in May. The offices were temporarily moved back into Rev. Marrow's home in November until a suitable building could be found.

Broken Needles currently conducts a drug prevention program in the Norfolk city schools, a prison ministry, convalescent home ministry, personal and family counseling, job placement for those in the drug program, a 24-hour hotline and a tape ministry.

The organization plans to resume Bible studies and start Sunday morning services at the new location.

IMPROVEMENT CAN BE COSTLY

You can make a million mistakes trying to sell your own house. And one of them is making the wrong improvements. Many times, an expensive addition or repair can be the kind of thing that'll cost you far more than you get back.

True, the house should present a favorable appearance - mowed lawns, trimmed shrubs, and no obvious indications of neglect, but it's rare when a large financial undertaking will bring more money than its cost in the final selling price.

There is always the financial risk of miscalculation, too. Home repair costs frequently end up a lot higher than originally anticipated. You may end up with a faster sale and less inconvenience if you lower the selling price an equivalent amount.

Instead of guessing as to how much, if any, repair work to undertake, see a good Realtor. He can tell you what to do to make your home more salable. And what not to do so you won't lose money.

Thinking of selling your property? It makes sense to list it with Larasan where you can depend on complete professional service. Many qualified buyers are waiting to buy your property. Service does not stop when we list your property. Call today 340-3080.

For the people

The General Assembly approved in the session recently ended a stronger, less vague, version of the Virginia Freedom of Information Act.

Few people take note of this Act, perhaps misconstruing it as legislation designed to give the press more autonomy, when in truth it is designed to protect the people.

The FOI was enacted so the people might know what their elected officials are doing, where their tax dollars are being spent. This, after all, is their right as American citizens.

What the General Assembly has made into law for the people, and the news media, must now force into being. It was quite obvious by the violations of the previous Act that the public will seldom gain this information without legally forcing the issue. And the loose wording of the earlier Act jeopardized legal enforcement.

Much has now been changed. Explicitly worded amendments now spell out the people's rights. They can, and should, press for information due them. The news media should strive to see that the people get this information. There are sources available to force enactment. The Sigma Delta Chi journalism fraternity, for instance, is assembling a fund to help finance smaller newspapers in legal suits to combat closed door meetings.

The amended Act is printed in its entirety on this page so the people can see exactly what information is now legally available to them. Hopefully, the public will study it carefully. Their support of the news media will be important in months to come if they are to have access to governmental actions that affect them, as citizens and as taxpayers.

It takes little imagination to see how many so-called executive sessions will no longer stand up under the scrutiny of the new Freedom of Information Act.

It may work

"Necessity is the mother of invention."

And since necessity provokes the simplest solution to a complex problem, perhaps that is why government on any level seeks the expensively complex solutions rather than the economically simple.

The obvious, in other words, usually escapes the experts.

That may be what is happening in Virginia Beach. The plan devised by Private Citizen John Potter to implant offshore structures to correct the severe beach erosion problem could well be a solution so obviously simple no one thought it could work.

It is to City Council's credit that they decided to risk a $100,000 investment in metal fence-like devices this time rather than more funds for expendable sand replacement. Not that it is too much of a risk. Potter is so convinced he has the answer he committed the city to payment only if his idea works. Such odds are hard to beat.

There is probably not a Private Citizen in Virginia Beach who isn't pulling for Potter and his invention. First of all, they are hoping the devastation of beach erosion can be stopped once and for all. And secondly, they are hoping one of their own, not one of the experts, will reap the rewards of success for his ingenuity.

John Potter's offshore "sand fences" have considerable possibilities. Other states, Florida for instance, have successfully used similar devices, based on the same theory. The Potter Project may work here. We sure hope so.

Elusive solution

City Council has another of its dilemmas: Responding to the demands of the people vs. facing the inevitable court action.

The adversary this time, however, is the formidable Federal Government. Washington says close the Back Bay Wildlife Refuge to vehicle traffic to protect the ecology and the sand dune structure of this valuable natural wonderland. The people say open it to limited traffic...at least to property owners who have no other access to their homes and investments at the extreme southern end of Virginia Beach.

Both sides to this controversial issue have valid arguments. Pleasure-seekers certainly have no right to jeopardize the beauty and ecological balance of one of the few natural habitats left in Virginia Beach, or in Tidewater. But it is equally unjust to close a heretofore public access to private property.

Council is caught in the middle. A situation not unique to this city's governing body. Court suits have become the rule rather than the exception. But a court suit with the Federal Government? That's certainly an unenviable position. Especially when council isn't sure where justice really lies.

This problem has been pending for many long months. There must be a logical, compatible solution. Obviously more time is yet needed to find the thus far elusive answer.

Virginia's Freedom of Information Act

The Virginia Freedom of Information Act as amended by the 1973 session of the General Assembly will become effective in 90 days. The following is the Act in its entirety:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia, that the Code of Virginia be amended and reenacted as follows:

1. That (1) 2.1-343, 2.1-344, 2.1-345 and 2.1-346, as severally amended, of the Code of Virginia be amended and reenacted as follows:

2.1-343. Official records to be open to inspection; exceptions.—(a) Except as otherwise specifically provided by law, all official records shall be open to inspection and copying by any citizen of this State having a personal or legal interest in specified records during the regular office hours of the custodian of such records. Access to such records shall not be denied to any such citizen of this State, nor to representatives of newspapers and magazines with circulation in this State, and representatives of radio and television stations broadcasting in or into this State.

(b) The following records are excluded from the provisions of this chapter:

(1) Memoranda, correspondence, evidence and complaints related to criminal investigations, and reports submitted to the state and local police in confidence.

(2) Confidential records of all investigations of applications for licenses and all licenses made by or submitted to the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

(3) State income tax records, medical and mental records, scholastic records, except that such access shall not be denied to the person who is the subject thereof.

(4) Memoranda, working papers and correspondence held by the office of the Governor or the mayor or other chief executive officer of any political subdivision of the State.

(5) Memoranda, working papers and records compiled specifically for use in litigation and material furnished in confidence to said offices.

2.1-344. Meetings to be public except as otherwise provided; information as to time and place.—Except as otherwise specifically provided by law and except as provided in (1) 2.1-344 and 2.1-345, all meetings shall be public meetings. Minutes shall be recorded at all public meetings. Information as to the time and place of each meeting shall be furnished to any citizen of this State who requests such information.

2.1-345. Executive or closed meetings.—(a) Executive or closed meetings may be held only for the following purposes:

(1) Discussion of consideration of employment, assignment, appointment, promotion, demotion, salaries, disciplining or resignation of public officers, appointees or employees of any public body.

(2) Discussion or consideration of the condition, acquisition or use of real property for public purpose, or of the disposition of publicly held property.

(3) The protection of the privacy of individuals in personal matters not related to public business.

(4) Discussion concerning a prospective business or industry where no previous announcement has been made of the business' or industry's interest in locating in the community.

Stranded visitors found hospitality

To the Editor:

The business and civic community of Virginia Beach deserves some words of warm praise for the hospitality they showed some stranded guests during the snowstorm of Feb. 10.

When the heavy snow made streets and parking areas virtually impassable, several hundred delegates to the Virginia Circuit 1B assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses were stranded at the Virginia Beach Dome.

The management of the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge and Kona Kai Motel generously extended special rates to those delegates who had come to the Beach Borough unprepared for an overnight stay.

The Virginia Beach Police Department showed patience and kindness in providing transportation for these delegates from the Dome to their lodging facilities and in aiding others to negotiate their way out of the snowy parking lot and over the hazardous streets.

The management of the Dome cooperated by allowing many of our delegates to remain there overnight. And the Virginia Beach chapter of the American Red Cross helped in securing blankets for the Dome guests from the Army at Ft. Story.

It all seems to show that, even in the wintry "off-season," Virginia Beach people know the meaning of hospitality. I know I speak for all the delegates to our assembly in extending a collective thanks to all those who extended us aid and kindness.

Sincerely,
Maurice C. Brinkley
Assembly chairman

Rodgers for sheriff

To the Editor:

Please allow me to take this occasion to bring your attention to a matter which I feel that you and the citizens of Virginia Beach should be aware of, and concerned about, i.e., the impending elections in our city.

Several candidates have recently announced for the office of Sheriff. I am not acquainted with any of these gentlemen, and the purpose of this letter is not to speak against them, or to criticize Mr. Marr, the present Sheriff.

It, therefore, is my feeling that the man most qualified for Sheriff is Mr. Alvin L. "Sally" Rodgers, Chief Justice of the Peace for the City of Virginia Beach, a life-long resident. It is my belief, after speaking to "Sally", that he will seek the office of Sheriff as an independent candidate, and many of his friends and numerous citizens throughout the City are encouraging him to do so.

"Sally" has been affiliated with law enforcement most of his life, and his present office is located within the City Jail. He has recently completed a course in jail management with the State Board of Welfare and Institutions, and I understand has a certificate to certify this fact.

However, in view of the fact that Mr. Rodgers would be required to resign his present post as Chief Justice of the Peace in order to become a candidate, or enter into any political campaign, he is not at this time in a position to make any formal public announcement. I would greatly appreciate your bringing this to the attention of the citizens of Virginia Beach, and I hereby encourage all of "Sally's" friends, and the citizens of Virginia Beach to help him in any way they can. We need Sally Rodgers as Sheriff.

Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to express my opinion.

Very truly yours,
W.B. Hall, Jr.

As a Christian I won't oppose those of the world who desire to do this, however, I do resent, and am bitterly opposed to being forced into having my children taught this hedonistic garbage as endorsed and paid for by the government.

I become very concerned when the government makes "sex" a mandatory subject in a mandatory system. For people who want this kind of socialism I can only feel pity, but I won't deny them the right to participate in it. But "forcing" such rot on those who abhor it is a long way from the best "rights" commonly associated with a "free" people.

From the way some of the "modern" teachers teach, I doubt they could even teach "sex." But my worry isn't their inability to teach it, rather it's that they might and probably will teach it in the same shoddy (the world calls it unsophisticated) fashion as they

Sex training should be parents' responsibility

To the Editor:

I was pleased to read M. F. Woyt's reply to your February 1st article on the "Birthright organization." I'd like to add that the problem isn't just sex and abortion education or even birth control being taught in our schools; the real issue is, does the state or any other organization have the responsibility or the right to raise our children and determine what, where and how they are to be educated?

This type of education isn't even a responsibility of the church, at least not the church, Christ established; but then, a Christian shouldn't be faced with the problems of abortion, illicit sex, V.D., and if unmarried, birth control.

No, the right, as well as the responsibility for sex and moral training rests squarely on the shoulders of the parents. Some have gladly turned their rights of clothing, housing, feeding and entertaining their children over to the state. These people seem to have no fear of turning the rest of their responsibilities, including moral training, over to it. As a Christian I won't oppose those of the world who desire to do this, however, I do resent, and am bitterly opposed to being forced into having my children taught this hedonistic garbage as endorsed and paid for by the government.

Golda Meir: a woman of courage

BY CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 3, 1973 — What does Golda Meir have that most other heads of state do not have? To begin with she is a woman. Her only rival in Indira Gandhi, Prime Minister of India, Indira is more beautiful, more exotic, and captivating in her native land of rich material. With her dazzling black eyes and raven hair and its one conspicuous white streak off her forehead, she is an elegant picture. She is not above using her feminine guile and caustic language to captivate her audiences, mostly male.

But what of Golda? She is short, dumpy, old, homely, and Jewish — a union carpenter's daughter, brought up in Milwaukee where she became a school teacher, she rose rapidly as a community leader, and was discovered by the United Nations where she spoke frequently in defense of Israel. When that nation looked for a leader after the retirement of Prime Minister Ben-Gurion, it chose Golda. In her seventies, she exudes warmth, energy, compassion, wit and intelligence. If she is a tough administrator, she covers her toughness with persuasion. If she begs, she pleads to justify her cause.

It took great courage for her to keep her appointment to visit the United States as scheduled so soon after the shooting down of the Libyan plane over Israel. Her angling over the incident was evident in her remarks before a standing room excess audience at the National Press Club.

In explaining the situation in the Middle East, she says it is quite simple. "The Arabs must learn to love their children more than they hate the Jews." At present, she said, "There is no war, but there is no peace, but there is hope that we can negotiate. The state of Israel exists and we must learn to live together with our neighbors. Let us cooperate instead of fight," Mrs. Meir urged.

She continued: "The natives on both sides cannot afford war. So much money has been spent on destruction instead of the great advances Israel and Jordan could have made. We have managed to drain the swamps, plant trees, grow food, build schools and do many other things with the help of our friends. There are no Jewish refugees today," she said. "They come in rags and illiteracy to Israel, and we help them."

Speaking of the hope for negotiation the Prime Minister said, "There is no subject that our neighbors could put on the table that we would not agree to discuss, but negotiations can only be carried on when there is a difference of opinion. The purpose is to resolve the differences."

"We are not being shot at now," she said, "because our neighbors know that we are strong. The border crisis must be solved because they are essential for Israel's survival. We have not drawn a map of the borders, but we know we cannot come down from the Golan Heights, which is a perfect target from above. Certainly the Suez Canal and the plateau are places which are negotiable. The Sharm al-Sheikh is Israel's life line. Egypt doesn't use it except to cut off our shipping."

Even though the Press Club broke a rule and extended the time, there were too many questions. Seemingly tireless, this remarkable woman was obviously elated as she thanked the huge crowd for coming to hear her not to beg but to enlighten. She did her begging with President Nixon who assured her of aid.

Canada will run for lieutenant governor

State Sen. A. Joseph Canada has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination as lieutenant governor.

Canada grew up in Lynchburg, attended schools in Farmville and Richmond and now lives in Virginia Beach.

Canada also announced plans to conduct a "walking campaign" to talk to the people throughout the state and explain his views on current issues.

"I know that I am young and, in the eyes of some, a newcomer to the Virginia political scene,"

Sen. Canada

Canada said in announcing his candidacy, "but I would like to unequivocally make a commitment to you, the citizens of Virginia and the members of the Republican Party of the Commonwealth, that I will wage a vigorous and winning campaign in seeking this nomination in winning the lieutenant governor's race next fall."

Police numbers change

Lt. R.L. Robbins, C.O., Police Communications Section, advises telephone numbers for the Virginia Beach Police Communications Section have been changed. Those needing police assistance in emergencies should dial 427-5000. For information purposes dial 427-4251.

Schools close at noon on Friday

All Virginia Beach public schools will be closed at noon on Friday, March 9, for a special orientation program for teachers. The program, which will be conducted simultaneously in every school in the city, will be based on the new Standards of Quality in Education passed by the 1972 General Assembly.

The three-hour program is designed to increase the teachers' understanding of the standards and their objectives and to increase the teachers' efficiency in meeting the instructional needs of their students.

School Superintendent E.E. Brickell and School Board Chairman Robert H. Deford Jr., will give the more than 2,200 teachers an overview of the Standards of Quality via closed circuit television after which the teachers will participate in group discussions about some of the specific aspects of the Standards. Additional presentations about the standards will be made later in the day at each school.

Five snow days to be made up

All students in the city's public schools will attend school on Easter Monday, April 23, and Memorial Day, May 28, to partially make up the five days lost when school was closed because of snow.

In addition, elementary school children will attend school on Tuesday, April 3, and Wednesday, April 4, previously designated as parent conference days, and on Friday, June 8, a teachers' records day. The parent conference days will be rescheduled to Saturdays, April 7 and 14, and teachers' records day will be Saturday, June 9.

Secondary school students will also attend school on Friday, March 23, previously designated as teachers' in-service day, and on Thursday, June 7, and Friday, June 8, designated in-service and records days.

The March 23 in-service day has been changed to Saturday, April 7, and the June 7 and 8 in-service and records days have been rescheduled to Saturday, June 9, and Monday, June 11. The School Board voted approval of the plan proposed by E. E. Brickell to make up the five lost days at a special board meeting held last Thursday.

Announces for Sheriff

S.J. "Joe" Smith has announced his candidacy for sheriff of the City of Virginia Beach as an independent candidate.

Smith, who was a State Trooper for 27 years, would try to give the jail "a complete and different image—as soon as possible."

The image Smith would try to project, if elected, is similar to Portsmouth, Chesapeake, and Richmond city jails—jails which Smith feels are the most modern and up-to-date in the state.

As a State Trooper, Smith feels he has lived with jails, knows how they should operate, and sees the problem with the Virginia Beach City Jail personnel.

"Adequate personnel is a main criteria," Smith reported. "If you operate it (the jail) properly it is an open book—open to the eyes and ears of the public."

Smith feels the public has the right to know what goes on in the jail and how it operates. "I think we have to build a good image and then we should retain that image."

Building the image of a good jail, as Smith would do, means "bringing in outstanding sheriffs and penal officials to see what could be done and doing it....I have those people at my disposal," Smith continued.

"The idea is taking what you have now and making the best of it."

Smith, who is a Marine Corps veteran, claims to have broad support from both Democrats and Republicans.

Active for many years in the Kempville Baptist Church and Kempville Masonic Lodge, Smith sees the key to the election as meeting the people. He has given up his job as a State Trooper to campaign full time.

conformity existing buildings which might otherwise be non-conforming."

In explaining the reasoning behind the revisions Mote said, "The whole revamping has been aimed at eliminating as many non-conforming uses as possible, and keeping in mind not to downgrade property owners' people for years."

Mote also explained the revisions are designed to cover business districts under their present operations. He also pointed out consideration was also given to large amounts of farm lands in the Southern portion of the city. He said, "In the Blackwater and Pungo areas and agricultural districts we tried wherever possible to retain agricultural uses. We have tried to make everything in this area conforming as far as possible."

Copies of the CZO text will be available to the public in all public libraries, and offices of the City Manager and City Clerk, and Planning Department. The accompanying zoning maps will also be on public display in the Administration Building. Material will be available through Tuesday, March 20, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays, and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturdays, March 10 and 17.

The CZO and zoning maps will be the subject of a Planning Commission hearing Wednesday, March 21.

The last days must be made up for the school system to receive full funding, based on a 180-day school year.

City delays action on refuge closure

City Council Monday expressed mixed emotions over joining in legal action to block a proposed closure of a strip of beach at the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge. Action on the matter was deferred until next Monday.

The Department of Interior has proposed closing the four mile strip of beach, which for years has been used as an access route by property owners travelling behind Virginia and North Carolina.

The Committee of Concerned Citizens for Conservation and Recreation requested Council to endorse a resolution reaffirming opposition to the closure, and join in legal action, if necessary, to keep the area open.

CCCCR Chairman Walter J. Leveridge contended the City has created a public right-of-way of the area in question, and that the Federal Government has no right to close a City street.

To support his claim Leveridge cited State Code definitions of public highways and roadways, and City action which created a public right-of-way of the area.

Vice-Mayor F. Reid Ervin questioned whether you can establish a public right-of-way on federal property. Attorney Edward T. (Ned) Caton, III, representing CCCCC, reminded Ervin the right-of-way was created prior to the government's acquisition of the property.

Caton reassured Council his clients "want to see the area involved preserved." He was also assured by Ervin, "We want to see people who have rightful access to the area to have their rights protected."

Councilman J. Curtis Payne expressed the opinion, "If one person has the right to use that beach any person has that right."

The week's deferment resulted from Council's desire to investigate ramifications of legal action by the City, and to allow those favoring closure of the beach to present their views.

Motels need permits

City Council took action Monday to require a use permit in construction of motels in the Beach Borough, and to safeguard against such structures being used as apartment buildings.

This was accomplished through the amending of the existing Master Zoning Ordinance of the City of Virginia Beach, which presently covers only that portion of the city known as the Beach Borough, which presently does not require such a permit.

This provision was recently upheld in a Circuit Court test of the denial of a use permit by City Council for construction of such a structure.

The new Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance, which is being released publicly today, reportedly will establish such a requirement on a city-wide basis. Such permits are presently required in areas outside the Beach Borough, which is regulated by the former Princess Anne County Zoning Ordinance.

The amendment stipulates that constitutes motels, hotels, and/or apartments, by defining them in minimum and maximum lot size and dwelling unit size as well as amount of parking space which might be required.

Attorney Grover Wright, who reportedly drafted the amendment, in presenting it to Council said, "This is designed to close the flood gates on applications for motels..." until the new CZO becomes effective.

Wright also pointed out that under existing regulations, "Unless you want to build a single family or duplex dwelling (in the Beach Borough) you would have to get a use permit."

Councilman Donald H. Rhodes, pointing to lack of requiring a use permit outside the Beach Borough, questioned, "Why shouldn't we be uniform through the City? I think we'd be better off until we have the new CZO."

Rhodes motion to amend the proposal, seconded by Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield, Jr., was defeated.

The amendment was approved, on a motion from Councilman Charles W. Gardner seconded by Councilman John A. Baum, with Rhodes casting the only dissenting vote.

Water contract

Norfolk Mayor Roy B. Martin indicates terms of a contract for the sale of water to Virginia Beach may be finalized within the week.

The agreement, which reportedly meets desires of both cities, would end a moratorium on new water connections in Virginia Beach, and end some four years dispute between the cities.

Outstanding young educator sought

The Virginia Beach Jaycees have announced plans to select the outstanding young educator of Virginia Beach.

The search is part of a statewide Jaycee program to spotlight the achievements and dedication of professional educators, both male and female, between the ages of 21 and 35. Teachers, principals, supervisors and administrators in public and private schools will be considered.

Nominations may be made by anyone. Nominations will be judged locally by a panel of civic leaders. Local winners from throughout the state will be eligible for state competition, which will determine delegates to a national Outstanding Young Educator Program.

Nominations may be made by sending the nominee's name and school address to Bill Beverly, 618 32nd Street, Virginia Beach, Va. 23461.

Navy and local scouts wage clean-up campaign

The local Princess Anne-Virginia Beach (PAVB) district of Boy Scouts is participating in the 1973 Project SOAR (Save Our American Resources) Campaign in conjunction with the Naval Manpower and Material Analysis Center.

Last year's Project SOAR in Virginia Beach consisted of a total clean-up campaign of the beaches and surrounding areas. Glass recycling was collected for recycling.

This year's project will concentrate on recycling aluminum with help volunteered by Reynolds Metals in Richmond. The goal for each Scout will be to collect a minimum of 10 pounds of aluminum. A clean-up campaign will be waged on the city's roadsides.

Project SOAR will begin on Saturday, April 14. All citizens are asked to save their aluminum waste products and donate them to area Scouts. They may also bring aluminum to the Reynolds recycling truck which will be in the parking lot of the Princess Anne Theatre building on Virginia Beach Blvd. on April 14.

Pack 378 holds banquet

Cub Scout Pack 378 celebrated its 10th birthday with a Blue and Gold Banquet recently at Virginia Beach United Methodist Church.

Special guests were the Rev. Bernard Vise and the Rev. Donald Sealy, pastors of the church; Gomer E. Jones, Tidewater Council Scout Executive; Buddy Jordan, I.R. for Pack 378; Eugene Farrer, unit commissioner.

Cub William Mosley Jr. received a plaque for the pack for being the top Scout-A-Rama ticket salesman for the past three years and top salesman for the district for the past two years.

The pack welcomed Larry Smith and Ian Falvey as bobcats.

The following boys received Wolf awards: Randy Gillen, wolf badge and gold arrow; Kenny Vise, wolf badge and gold arrow; Mike Hylberg, wolf badge.

Denner cord went to James Pullen and assistant denner cord to Mike Hylberg. Don Miller received a denner cord and David Klingensmith an assistant denner cord. Both boys are in Den 4.

Camp for handicapped now taking applications

Camp Easter Seal has announced that it is now receiving applications from handicapped children for the coming summer.

Camp Easter Seal offers a variety of camping activities for physically handicapped children such as swimming, canoeing, horseback riding, arts and crafts, nature recreation, campfire programs, games, sports, and a variety of other special programs designed especially for special populations.

Camp will open on Sunday, June 10, with the following schedule of sessions: 1 two-week session for handicapped adults, 3 two-week sessions for handicapped children, 1 two-week session for mentally retarded children, 3 four-week sessions for children in need of speech therapy.

Camp Easter Seal urges prospective campers to apply early to be assured of acceptance. For the past several years, some late applications could not be accepted due to the great number of children applying.

For more information, please contact Camp Easter Seal, P.O. Box 5466, Roanoke, Va. 24012.

Telephone line for sale

The General Services Administration, Property Management and Disposal Service, Region 3, announced today that it is offering for sale and off-site removal (no land included) the remaining portion of the former U.S. Coast Guard telephone line between Virginia Beach to the North Carolina state line and a spur line from Sandbridge in Pungo.

The telephone line extends from the intersection of 34th Street and Atlantic Avenue to the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge.

The improvements for off-site removal include telephone poles, copper wire, crossarms, insulators and sundry apparatus.

Bids will be opened at 1 p.m. on March 23 at the GSA Regional Office Building, Room 170, Seventh and D Streets, S.W., Washington, DC 20007. Additional information and copies of the Bid Form No. GS-60-DR(S)-30024 may be obtained from the GSA Business Services Center at the above address.

Pack 434 has banquet

Cub Scout Pack 434, sponsored by the Windsor Woods PTA, held its Blue and Gold Banquet on February 23 at Plaza Junior High School. Richard Shepard, director of field services, was guest speaker.

Lenten programs set

Baylake United Methodist Church, 4300 Shore Drive, begins its observance of the season of Lent with an Ash Wednesday Communion service, and will continue with an ambitious program through Easter Sunday.

During Lent the congregation is observing a Tithing Adventure. Each member is asked to tithe for the six weeks from Ash Wednesday to Easter.

Also, the minister, the Rev. Byron E. Halstead, will hold Confirmation classes each Monday at 4 p.m. for young people and children planning to unite with the church on Palm Sunday. The emphasis for Lent is Key 7, a nationwide church program of "Calling Our Unborn to Christ."

Baylake United Methodist is participating in this program with other Tidewater churches.

Scholarships available

Virginia high school seniors who are interested in teaching and are eligible to apply for the Virginia Consumer Finance Association annual scholarships for teaching.

The scholarship funds will be presented to three deserving students. The first award is $5,000, second $2,000 and third $1,000.

Scholarship applicants must graduate with an above C average, show financial need, submit a written statement on "Why I Want to Become a Teacher" and submit a resume of extracurricular activities. Scholarship applications may be obtained from high school guidance counselors. Deadlines for applying is March 15.

Master plan announced

Old Dominion University has announced a new campus master plan for the University which anticipates an enrollment of approximately 15,000 students on a 140-acre campus by 1980.

As described in the 66-page document, the primary planning and design goal of the plan is the development of an efficient parking system and grouping of buildings designed for related subject areas.

The master plan was developed for the University by the architectural firm of Williams and Tasswell & Associates, Inc., Beasly, Dawson, DeMay Associates, Inc. of Watertown, Mass., were consultants.

Virginia Beach Board Of Realtors To Meet

The Virginia Beach Board of Realtors will meet on Thursday, March 15, 11:30 a.m., at the Ocean Heath Restaurant at Virginia Beach. Guest Speakers will be Mr. Alfred W. Wells, Regional Vice-President (Virginia Association of Realtors), and Mrs. Jackie Sievers, wife of Lt. Comdr. L. A. (Tony) Sievers, whose topic will be "How a Navy Wife who has moved twelve times in ten years views the Real Estate Business". Cocktails will precede luncheon. All members are urged to attend this interesting and informative meeting.

Former Virginia Beach Resident

To Direct Marketing For $15 Million Oceans Condominium

VIRGINIA BEACH, VA., March 7, 1973 — Appointment of Terence K. Booley as vice-president for marketing of Oceans Condominium Corp., developer of the 21-story luxury Condominium Tower and beach club in Virginia Beach, was announced today.

Mr. Booley will direct all sales and marketing operations for the $15 million residential enterprise. He joins Oceans after five years with Boise-Cascade Corp., as on-site staff sales manager for a major development in Ocean City, Md.

No stranger to Virginia Beach, he spent five years in the area as vice-president of a locally-based security consulting firm. His decision to return was prompted by the resort city's "progressive attitudes toward development of a year-round beachfront residential community," he said.

"Virginia Beach possesses some of the most beautiful residential sites in the country. But unlike many oceanfront communities which have become over-built and over-populated, the city has maintained an excellent balance in its development its natural beauty, plus its large permanent population and urban services, unique among resort cities, make Virginia Beach an ideal location for a service-oriented residence," Mr. Booley said.

A native of Towson, Md., Mr. Booley earned a bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of Maryland and has pursued graduate study at Georgetown University.

Realtor's Seminar Underway

The Virginia Beach Realtor's Seminar started March 6, at Princess Anne High School, with a filled to capacity crowd. Presented by the Virginia Beach Board of Realtors in cooperation with the Distributive Education Service of the Virginia Beach City Public Schools, there are six jam-packed sessions designed to introduce to newly licensed salesmen and principles that will help them begin their career in Real Estate. There are instructors from all phases of Real Estate, including Financing, Legal Aspects, Salesman and Client Relationships, etc. The Seminar will run Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7 to 10 p.m. through March 22nd. This is just one of three complete real estate programs offered by the Virginia Beach DE Service.

Million-Dollar Sales Club

Thirty-two Virginia Beach Real Estate Salesmen are members of the exclusive Million Dollar Sales Club of 1972. A joint project of the Norfolk and Virginia Beach Board of Realtors, the awards to seventy-four agents from Norfolk and Virginia Beach were presented at a banquet recently at Norfolk's Scope. The awards are made annually to sales agents having sold one-half million dollars or more of real estate during the calendar year.

Mrs. Frances R. Hedge, of Larasan Realty Corp., was selected Virginia Beach's "Salesman of the Year". Congratulations, Virginia Beach Realtors, on a job well done.

Did You See That Orange

Lawn-A-Mat Machine?

Yes, we've noticed those little tractor-combines rolling around Virginia Beach, creating quite a bit of interest when the Lawn-A-Mat operators put the machines to work on lawn areas for home owners and commercial establishments.

This machine, in one sweep, aerates the soil, seeds, fertilizes, applies insecticides, herbicides and fungicides and power rolls the soil.

"That's what amazes all the customers and makes them watch the operation," says Jimmy Spence, the Lawn-A-Mat dealer who has lived in the Tidewater area since 1955. "When the customers see all the work Tidewater area in 1957. Jimmie Spence said, "Our slogan is 'The Grass IS Greener on our side', and we give our services all we've got by using our automated service which distributes, with precision, the finest chemicals and seeds recommended for this area, by Turf Authorities, thus saving the home owner all the back breaking drudgery of having to do it himself. Tell them to call Lawn-A-Mat if they want to play golf instead of seed and fertilize!"

Pembroke Courts expand your consciousness and trim your tummy Apartments.

Our model up above is assuming the lotus seat, a yoga position designed to help concentration and meditation. We hasten to add that Pembroke Courts is not a religious retreat. Yoga training is only one of a dozen different activities going on in our club-house every week. It's part of the fun and learning program for our residents. (As unusual as our cluster styling is, one can't stay inside all the time).
People-oriented features like this are an important part of what Pembroke Courts offers. You have extra privacy because of environmental design and sound control construction. Kitchens are completely equipped. All utilities are included in the rent. We are in a wonderfully central location. And maintenance is simple... if anything needs fixing, you phone one of our maintenance engineers.
You may not live in an apartment all your life. But why not enjoy it more while you do?

THERE MUST BE A WAY TO GET ON THIS MISERABLE ANIMAL laughs Terry Lathrum after failing to mount his steed in half a dozen attempts. Since the rule was that you had to be seated on your mount when shooting, Lathrum tried and tried again until successful.

words of encouragement failed to get his donkey in position.

Coaches vs. athletes

Donkey basketball game at Kellam ended with 16 - 16

Probably the largest crowd to watch a basketball game this season at Kellam turned out last Friday night to see members of the Kellam High School coaching staff meet some of the Knight's finest athletes in a donkey basketball game. The charity tilt sellout crowd saw the coaches tie the score in the closing minute and hang on for the 16-16 tie.

The faculty team was led in scoring by the Peccia Brothers, "Jumping" Joe and "Dunking" Don. Other players on the faculty team were "Grinder" Vic Gregor, "Crusher" John Cooke, Roy "Amazon" Ammons, Jim "Smasher" Sereno, Wayne Sykes, and George Owens.

The athletes top scorer was Gene Bunn, who, after he finally learned how to shoot from a donkey, parked his mount under the basket and layed in a few setups. Casey Millard, Jay Payne, Terry Lathrum, Andy Hershey, Tony Davis, Sonny Blackmon, and Tim Terry were also on the student team.

The donkeys were given names by the promoters to coincide with their personalities, with one exception. The exception was Phyllis Diller, a donkey no doubt named for its appearance. The other donkeys were appropriately named LBJ, Elvis, Cassius Clay, Sad Sack, Sputnik, Earthquake, and Mighty Mouse. One lazy llama even got into the game.

Decoy carving contest nears

The Annual Decoy Carving Contest will be held Saturday and Sunday, March 17th and 18th, at Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge on Assateague Island. Highlight of the contest will be the Hand Tool Division, which perpetuates the ancient art of making hunting decoys with simple tools.

Contestants will enter decoys made from hand-sawed heads and bodies and completed with hand tools. Then each must make a mate on the spot using the same techniques. The carving and painting must be done in a six-hour span.

In the Painting Division, decoy enthusiasts who can't whittle but like to paint have their chance. The refuge will provide a block, and contestants will have one hour to paint from memory a scup drake in winter plumage.

Applications for entries may be obtained by writing Refuge Manager, Chincoteague Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Box 62, Chincoteague, Virginia, 22536.

The contest is open to the public. The contest offers a unique opportunity to watch practitioners of a vanishing art form do their thing.

Shamrock Day races planned by Rotarians

The Virginia Beach Rotary Club, in cooperation with the Tidewater Striders, will sponsor a Shamrock Marathon and other running events March 17, St. Patrick's Day.

The day will start at 10 a.m. with a Marathon covering 26 miles, 385 yards, beginning at the Norwegian Lady at 25th Street, extending along the boardwalk through the Seashore State Park nature trails and ending back at the Norwegian Lady. The race is open to all age groups.

There will also be a one mile "Run for Your Life" race open to all at 10:30 a.m.; a two mile race open to all at 10:45 a.m.; a six mile race for all ages at 11:15 a.m.; and another one

14.3 average for Smiley

Billy Smiley, a standout last season for Princess Anne High School, is the second-leading scorer on the ODU freshman team this season. His 14.3 per-game average is just two and a half points behind leader Rick Tackaberry's 16.8 average.

Princess Anne finishes second and hosts regionals this weekend

The Princess Anne High School girls' gymnastics team finished second in the Virginia Beach Girls' Gymnastics League this year with a very fine 4-1 record. Their only loss was to league-winner Kempsville, which finished with a perfect 5-0 mark. The Princess Anne loss to Kempsville was by less than a point, 55.55-54.64, but it was the difference in the final standings.

Princess Anne will host the regionals in girls' gymnastics competition this weekend. Starting Saturday, March 10th, at 9 a.m. in the Cavalier field house, the regionals will determine berths for the State Meet a week later.

Seventeen schools have entered the regionals. 156 gymnasts from the following schools will be competing: Princess Anne, Bayside, Cox, Kempsville, Kellam, First Colonial, Denbigh, Hampton, Ferguson, Kecoughtan, Menchville, Pembroke, Warwick, York, Churchland, Manor, and Wilson.

Gymnasts will participate in one of the two categories—beginner or general. The top three finishers in each of the general events will win a berth in the State Meet, to be held on Saturday, March 17th, at Fairfax's Woodson High School. The top three finishers in both categories will receive regional medals.

Admission to the Fifth Annual Eastern Regional Gymnastics Meet will be one dollar per person. The Meet is expected to last from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Virginia Beach schools should do very well in the regionals, according to one of our local coaches. It appears that the Beach schools are stronger overall and will have more girls in the general category than any other district. This should result in the Beach schools winning most of the State Meet berths.

The Princess Anne girls have been led this year by Nan Dick and Linda Croasy. Nan has scored 104.75 points in her five meets for a 20.95 average. Linda has earned 86.80 points for a 17.36 average.

Princess Anne averaged 59.58 points per meet to their opponent's 49.04.

Beach Borough Little League to hold tryouts

The Virginia Beach Little League will hold its annual tryouts and registration at the Virginia Beach Little League Field on Harpers Road on Saturday, March 10th and 17th. This will be the last chance for boys to register, and proof of age must be furnished.

Boys ages 12 and 15 will try-out between 9 and 10 a.m. 14 and 11 year-olds will try-out between 10 a.m. and 12 Noon. 13 year-olds will have try-outs between 1:30 and 3 p.m. All 10 year-olds must try-out between 1 and 3 p.m., and tryouts for 9 year-olds will be between 3 and 4:30 p.m.

Eight year old boys will not have to try-out since they will be placed on farm teams. Saturday, March 24th, has been set as the rain date if one of the next two Saturday registrations is rained out.

There are still openings for coaches, managers, umpires, groundkeepers, and women's auxiliary. For information about these openings, contact president B.R. Hembree at 425-5441 or auxiliary chairman Mrs. Geraldine Knapp at 428-1681.

Mrs. John Herbert Tietjen

Carol Richard weds John Herbert Tietjen

Carol Ann Richard became the bride of John Herbert Tietjen on March 6 at 1 p.m. in a nuptial mass at St. Gregory the Great Catholic Church with Father Alfred Grottinger officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Yvon J. Richard of Virginia Beach. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Tietjen of Virginia Beach.

The bride was given away by her father. He wore a white empire fitted gown of chantilly lace over satin. Her gown was accented with full sleeves of chantilly lace clasped and gathered at the wrists. Matching garters surrounded the slight scooped neckline. A panel of lace over satin was attached to the back of the fitted bodice and fell to the hemline. Her headpiece of chantilly lace and lily of the valley with shoulder-length illusion veil was accented with a V-shaped crystal center with an aurora borealis crystal centering her forehead. She carried a cascade of white roses.

the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a lavender gown of organza over satin with short puffed sleeves bordered with white chantilly lace. The high neckline was accented with chantilly lace overlay. She carried a bouquet of carnations and sweetheart roses.

Lorry Mondrella and Debbie Krohn of Virginia Beach served as bridesmaids. Their gowns were identical to the bride attendant's in a shade of pale blue.

Robert H. Tietjen served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Eric J. Tietjen, brother of the groom, and Robert P. Richard, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at the Little Creek Amphibious Base Club.

The bride is a graduate of Bayside High School. Prior to her marriage, she was a secretary for M.M. Gunter and Son, Inc.

The groom is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and is in the U.S. Air Force. The couple will reside in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Colie Livingston Dyson, Jr. smile happily at the reception in their honor.

Marriage announced

Mr. and Mrs. William Hatch Phillips of Virginia Beach announce the marriage of their daughter, Jean Ridgway Cox Phillips, to Colie Livingston Dyson, Jr., on August 29 in Elizabeth City, N.C.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Wiginton Cox and the late Dr. and Mrs. Henry Woodfin Phillips, all of Norfolk.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Colie Livingston Dyson and the late Mr. Dyson of Columbia, S.C.

The announcement of the marriage was made at a reception held at the home of the bride on February 17.

Mrs. J.E. Stout (right) and Mrs. G.E. Hughes won first and second place in the recent annual speech contest of the Seacoast Toastmistress Club. Mrs. Stout will compete in the Toastmistress Council contest in April.

ALPHA Brain Wave Function
PER OFFICIALS OF THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

On April 2nd a television network carried a science news special - "The Unexplained" by a well known narrator - in which one of the most fantastic breakthroughs in modern psychology was discussed. This new scientific breakthrough deals with the conscious control of one's brain waves. Researchers have demonstrated that with "Alpha" training a person can eliminate anxiety, tension, and frustration. Also they could enhance concentration, awareness and recall. In fact alpha control is accelerating the expansion of human development at a fantastic pace.

SILVA MIND CONTROL, using mental training exercises, has successfully trained over 75,000 individuals to use the Alpha Waves on and off at will and thus practice applications of this exciting new technique for developing a superior way of life.

Initial research was started by Mr. Jose Silva in 1944 with techniques being improved and refined to the point that a few hours of classroom instruction is all that is needed to be much more efficient in the routine of daily living. LEARN SPECIFIC TECHNIQUES. Once you have mastered the techniques of Silva Mind Control you can totally relax anytime you desire; you can eliminate insomnia, anxiety, tension; have greater vitality and energy; be more successful in your business and personal life; eliminate bad habits and create good habits; control your weight, smoking, etc.

IMPROVE YOUR SELF-CONFIDENCE AND ASSURANCE. ELIMINATE FEARS AND BECOME A TRULY HAPPY, EFFECTIVE PERSON. You will learn techniques to help your loved ones in dramatic and effective ways. Become a better student, parent, employee/employer; a more effective problem solver.

Our students learn techniques to become more sensitive to the feelings and emotional attitudes of others. Learn to become intuitive; learn to develop controlled ESP, and every-day practical applications of the so-called extra-sensory.

COME SHARE THE EXCITEMENT. THIS MAY WELL BE THE MOST INTERESTING, INFORMATIVE, AND STIMULATING LECTURE OF YOUR LIFE.

It's the Greatest Show on Earth!

An all-new edition of the Greatest Show on Earth comes to Norfolk Scope on Tuesday, March 20, with performances through Sunday, March 25.

The 103rd edition of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus is headlined by Gunter Gebel-Williams wild animal trainer.

Four other circus stars join in making their worldwide debuts. They are the death-defying Tsekovi Troupe from Bulgaria, Switzerland's sky-high duo the Nock Brothers, Europe's trapeze artists the Jupiters and America's airborne acrobats the Vickers.

The circus features five new spectacles this year. "Fanfare" is the opening featuring the entire cast. "The Eagle Calls" is a tribute to the American Indian. "Once Upon a Circus" provides a journey through the circus wonderland for two youngsters chosen from the audience. "2002: An Elephant Odyssey" features Gunter Gebel-Williams presiding over three herds of performing elephants. "And the Beat Goes On" is a timely finale to the 103rd edition.

Clubs to discuss science museum

The Tidewater Shell and Fossil Club invites representatives from nature, historical, education, cultural and civic organizations to a special meeting March 10 at 1:30 p.m. in the Village Playhouse to discuss the feasibility of opening a natural science museum in the Tidewater area.

The Village Playhouse is housed in the College Park Information Center, 6226 Providence Road. Guests, expected at the meeting include Dr. Paul Knappenberger, acting director of the Science Museum of Virginia; Col. Howard McCord, of the State Museum Commission; and William E. Old Jr., of the American Museum of Natural History, New York. Additional information may be obtained by calling Wylda Stephens at 499-1073.

Local Boys Choir named to American federation

The Virginia Boys Choir, directed by Edward L. Laskin, has accepted an invitation for charter membership in the American Boys Choir Federation, an association of boys choirs in the Western Hemisphere which serves as the regional affiliate of the International Federation of Boys Choirs.

Membership in the American federation entitles the local choir to membership in the international federation after a period of one year.

The Virginia Boys Choir contains members from the four Tidewater cities. Over half the members are from Virginia Beach. The choir's rehearsal center is LeKies United Methodist Church, Virginia Beach.

PUBLIC NOTICE

PROPOSED HAMPTON ROADS CROSSING INTERSTATE ROUTE 664

A Local Public Hearing will be held by representatives of the Virginia Department of Transportation on the proposed Hampton Roads Crossing of Interstate Route 664 in the City of Chesapeake, near the intersection of Interstate Route 664 and the proposed Hampton Roads Crossing. The hearing will be held on March 14, 1973, at 7:00 p.m. in the Hampton High School located at 1401 West Queen Street in Hampton, for the purpose of considering the proposed location in Interstate Route 664 from the proposed Western Freeway in Portsmouth to Interstate Route 664 in Hampton (near the Hampton Roads Crossing). This project is located in the Cities of Chesapeake, Nansemond, Portsmouth, Newport News and Hampton.

The same information will be presented at each of the above mentioned locations. The reason for the selection of two hearing sites is to afford all interested parties an opportunity to attend the most convenient location and present to the Department their comments and suggestions relative to the proposed highway improvement.

Maps, drawings, a draft environmental impact statement and other information are available for public review and copying in the Department of Highways Central Office located at 1221 East Broad Street in Richmond, in its District and Resident Offices located on Route 440 just north of Suffolk, and in other Resident Offices which are located at the intersection of Routes 13 and 148 in the City of Chesapeake and on Route 415 (Ironbound Road) just west of Williamsburg. This material is also available in the offices of the Southeastern Virginia and Peninsula Planning District Commissions, the City Manager for Nansemond, the City Engineer for Portsmouth and the Directors of Public Works for the Cities of Norfolk, Chesapeake, Newport News and Hampton.

In addition to the availability of information at the above mentioned locations, there will be a public information booth in the lobby of the Newport News City Hall located at Washington Avenue and 25th Street in Newport News, and an office trailer will be placed in the Churchland Shopping Center located on Churchland Boulevard in Portsmouth. These facilities will be operational from March 8th through March 11th, 1973. The information will be available with the exception of the office trailer at any time within ten days after the public hearings. At this location public hearing, relocation assistance programs will also be discussed.

Written statements and other exhibits relative to the proposed project may be presented in place of, or in addition to, oral statements at the hearing. Such written statements and exhibits may also be submitted to the Department of Highways at any time within ten days after the public hearings. At this location public hearing, relocation assistance programs will also be discussed.

Navy Show Band/East in concert

The Navy Show Band-East and the Navy's newest entertainment unit, the Rogues of Country Music, will present their Eighth Annual Family Day Concert at the Naval Amphibious Base Theatre on March 11 at 3:00 p.m.

Under the direction of Chief Warrant Officer John D. Fluck, the bands will perform music for all tastes, from pop and country, to rock, swing, and latin. Featured will be the Love Theme from "The Godfather," and a tribute to the group Chicago. Also included in the program will be "Swanee," "Maleguena," "Girl from Ipanema," and the country hits "Working Man's Blues," "Lodi," and "Lonely Woman." The concert is free and open to the public.

'Busybody' in rehearsal

Rehearsals are now in session for the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach production of "Busybody," directed by ChiChi Lively.

The play is a comedy-mystery in three acts written by Jack Poppelwell. It will open on Friday, March 30, to run on weekends during the month of April. Cast members are Suzanne McDaniel as Mrs. Piper, Ian Goodwin as Richard Marshall, Alan Barber as Detective Constable Goddard, Dave Lang as Detective Superintendent Baxter, Clavon Swertfeger as Claire Marshall, Lorne Leavy as Marian Selby, Paul Gaddis as Robert Westerby and Stephanie Robinett as Vickie Reynolds.

Reservations for "Busybody" may be made by calling the theatre at 428-9523.

K. James Crouch Jr. of People's Bank, treasurer of "Cavaliers for Vienna," receives a check for $100 from Mrs. Louise Frizzell, president, Virginia Beach Extension Homemaker's Council. The Princess Anne High School Cavaliers band is currently raising money to attend an international band conference this summer in Vienna.

'Victory gardens' aid costs

By J. R. STIFFLER
Just last week, Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan suggested that "victory gardens" would help drive down high food prices and said he planned to advise his wife to start one at their Long Island home.

Victory gardens were first grown in World War II to augment the domestic food supply. With prices what they are in supermarkets today—and little hope of them coming down, 1973 is an ideal time to plant your own victory vegetable garden. Most vegetables are so easy to raise in Virginia Beach, you may have been growing them for years. If you haven't or you're in a new home, plan a plot at least 10' x 12' to grow your own vegetables this summer.

Here's one reason vegetable prices are up: total vegetable output in 1973 was the same as the year before and only 1 per cent larger than in 1967. This is why vegetable prices have risen, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. During December 1972 and January 1973, fresh vegetables prices were 55 per cent higher than the 1967 average. Potatoes, sweet potatoes and dry beans were up 38 per cent.

The winter vegetable crop in the south is down 4 per cent this year, primarily due to reduced acreage of tomatoes and sweet corn—two of our most popular vegetables. This means higher prices before spring.

Right here at home, Virginia Tech has said "home gardening is big business." A recent survey reveals there are about 85 million home gardeners in the United States, with the building of new homes adding about 1 million new gardeners each year.

The recent trend in gardening is toward more vegetables and fruit, says VPI. With the recent increase in the price of food, home-grown vegetables and fruit help reduce cost. Easy and quick availability of vegetables from the garden also cuts down shopping time. Vegetables and fruit from the home garden may be harvested at the peak of maturity, so they taste better and are more nourishing. Another important advantage, says VPI, is that you may select varieties that you prefer and which may not be available on the local market. Young married couples are planting larger gardens to help stretch tight budgets. Gardening is a hobby they can enjoy together at a lower cost than many other recreational activities.

Best of all, VPI says that vegetables grown in the average garden have a value of at least $100 per year. Now if you're convinced to have a home vegetable garden this year, what do you do first? Vegetable plants can be put in areas that are difficult to mow or maintain. Be sure it's a sunny spot. Vegetables must have full sun to do well. Just one square yard is enough area to grow a squash plant or the border you've been using for row of lettuce.

Take a few minutes and survey your yard and check out some unused area for a mini-garden. It will surprise you the amount of money this little venture can save.

It's easy to grow tomatoes, cucumbers, radishes and a few peppers. Along the sunny side of your house or garage is an excellent place to put a half dozen tomato plants. They can be trained with wire or a heavy cord on a trellis structure. This is an efficient way of growing tomatoes for its keeps them off the ground. Or if you have a fence along any of your property, you can train tomatoes or cucumbers to grow on the fence. You could even plant pole beans—either snap or climbing lima—along the fence. Onions, lettuce, radishes and cabbage can be planted right in with a flowerbed or beside the back steps of your home.

In Virginia Beach, you can now sow in the open ground the following vegetables:—carrots, beets, onion sets, Irish potatoes, radish, early peas, spinach, turnips. Also cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce.

Do not plant sweetcorn, tomatoes, cucumbers or beans until all danger of frost has passed—next month is early enough.

It is recommended that these vegetables be put in the garden as plants—either started in peat pots in your home—or purchased from your favorite garden center:—tomatoes, cabbage, peppers.

Now is also a good time to plant asparagus roots; buy them from your garden center. You could also try some rhubarb although it usually does not grow well in Virginia Beach. Neither do carrots for that matter.

TWO IMPORTANT THINGS TO DO: Vegetables require the proper soil pH—so take a sample of the soil you want to use for vegetables to the Virginia Truck Experiment Station to see if you need lime. Be sure to lime the area properly if needed. Elsewhere on this page, we mention using wood ashes around flowers; on the vegetable garden is also a good place to put your wood ashes.

(2) Vegetables require adequate fertilizer. Work a good supply of 8-8-8 Plant Food Pellets into the soil before planting; then follow the directions on the bag for the remainder of the season.

Try some of the new All American varieties of vegetables:—the Aristocrat zucchini squash shown elsewhere on this page; the new Patio Pik cucumber that supply all sizes from gherkins to slicers later.

One of the benefits of a Virginia Beach Victory Vegetable Garden in 1973 can be home-canned vegetables like this. These particular vegetables were grown and canned by Rose Anne Cook, contributing editor for Better Homes and Gardens magazine. If you'd like any of the recipes, please write The Sun.

Questions & Answers

QUESTION:—I am disappointed because my dogwood blooms only sparingly each year. As a result, there are only a few red fruits. Can this be corrected?—James J., London Bridge.

ANSWER:—Dogwoods sometime fail to bloom or have only spotty blooms due to lack of sunlight or when growth is too rapid. Often this can be overcome by giving the dogwood more light by trimming the trees overhead. Don't expect too many blossoms from young dogwood trees, especially when they are growing rapidly.

QUESTION:—I just bought some rhododendrons for the first time. What do you recommend as a planting mix? Mrs. F., Bay Colony.

ANSWER:—A rhododendron nursery over on the peninsula says the best mix they've found for growing rhododendrons is one part each of Perlite, peat moss and dirt. Mix together thoroughly. Remember this is a shallow rooted plant so do not plant too deep. Our weather here is a little too warm for good rhododendron growth and our nearness to the ocean doesn't help either. Pennsylvania can grow much more beautiful plants than can we—but good luck.

QUESTION:—A friend gave me a Norfolk Island pine for Christmas. It is a beautiful tree. Can you tell me how to care for it? Mrs. L.K., Mayflower Apts.

ANSWER:—The Norfolk pine is not always an easy plant to grow indoors. It resists hot, dry conditions. It thrives best where the night temperature is about 55 F and by day only 5-15 degrees more. It is important to keep the soil evenly moist but not saturated. Watering is best done by immersing the pot in a pail of water for 15 minutes. Good light is important, though it need not be direct sunlight. In the height of summer, a little shade is helpful.

CZO: Proposed ordinance hits legal snag

By LES LEHIGH
The City's new Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance, released only one week ago, was challenged during Monday's City Council meeting. The CZO is scheduled to receive its first review in a hearing before the Planning Commission next Wednesday.
Attorney Grover Wright issued the challenge while representing Folen Associates in seeking a revision of a use permit issued last September.

Wright told Council if the CZO is adopted with its present density provisions, "...the Chesapeake House becomes non-conforming. If the building burns down, when it's rebuilt some peoples homes would not be allowed. You might consider revising the CZO density."

The Chesapeake House is a high-rise condominium being constructed near a site Folen Associates plans construction of a similar structure.
Wright told Council Folen received approval for the construction of a 27-story structure containing 192 motel-efficiency apartment condominiums. However when the use permit was issued, according to Wright, "efficiency apartment" had been stricken from the provisions. This would only permit a motel building, and prohibit condominiums which would be offered for sale.

Wright requested Council reconsider the permit to revise it to its approved form.
Wright also said the building had been redesigned to a height of 15 floors, and density reduced to 120 units, to conform to CZO height regulations of 150 feet maximum in that area.

Council approved a motion from Councilman Charles W. Gardner, seconded by Councilman D. Murray Malbon, to reconsider the use permit.
Council then approved a permit for a 15 story structure containing 120 units for sale on a motion from Malbon, seconded by Gardner.

Ken Stallings, Pat Ricks resign coaching positions

By JAY BRUMBLEY
Sports Editor
One-third of the head high school basketball coaches in Virginia Beach resigned this week. Announcing that they were stepping down from their head basketball coaching duties were Pat Ricks of First Colonial and Ken Stallings of Kellam.
Stallings is retiring after six years of coaching Kellam cage teams. After two years at the junior varsity level, he took over the varsity coaching duties.
"In eleven years, only one Kellam team has won over four games in a single season," Stallings commented. "We won seven games my first year as varsity coach. We were 1 and 17 this year, and it is very discouraging not to be able to field a winning team."

contender with this kind of situation," Stallings said.
Ricks has coached basketball at First Colonial for the past five seasons. He has been varsity coach for the past three years, compiling a 28-30 overall record. In his first year as varsity coach, the Patriots won the City championship and were seeded second in the Eastern District Tournament. His team won eight of their twenty games this season.
"Coaching is very demanding on my time," Ricks said. "I want to continue my education, and since basketball season covers a large part of both semesters, I just do not have the time to coach and take further college credits."

schools. They are merely stepping down as coaches.
In both schools, the assistant coach has been recommended for the head coaching job by both departing coaches. Alton Hill has been credited with doing an outstanding job as assistant varsity and head junior varsity coach for the Patriots. This year his team made the Eastern District Junior Varsity Tournament.
Johnny Morris has been head junior varsity and assistant varsity coach at Kellam for the past three seasons. His team went 10-4 last year and 11-4 this season. His most recent team had the best junior varsity win-loss record in Virginia Beach and was the only City team to reach the Eastern District semi-finals.

Surfing only in two areas

If you want to go surfing during the summer season—May 15 to September 30—between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., you have only two places to go with your surfboard: Camp Pendleton and Little Island Park.

City Council Monday placed a ban on surfing anywhere else in the city—including the 900-foot area at the Steel fishing pier.
At press time, the City Manager and the Parks and Recreation Department had not yet determined the full effects of the new surfing ordinance, which was proposed by Councilman Charles Gardner.

Surfers are still prohibited from surfing near the piers but the new regulation has been expanded to prohibit surfing to 300 feet on either side of the piers at any time.
Surfing in the federally-owned Back Bay Wildlife Refuge will be regulated by the federal government and the city's code 9-23, a water nuisance ordinance.

City starts art gallery

The City of Virginia Beach now has its own art gallery. Due to the efforts of the Department of General Services and the Department of Libraries, the foyer area on the third floor of the Administration Building, Princess Anne Station, has been turned into a municipal art gallery.
An exhibition of 18th century fashion prints combined with 19th century garden and mansion pictures are currently on view. The gallery will feature more than 30 prints by Goya throughout the month of April.

Exhibitions being presented are created for the gallery by the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in cooperation with the Virginia Beach Arts Center. The city has extended an invitation to the public to view the art works.

Council joins fight to keep refuge open

The City of Virginia Beach Monday became an intervenor in expected legal action to block proposed closure of the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge.
The action resulted from City Council's approval of a resolution favoring vehicular access to the refuge. Those voting against the resolution included Councilmen John A. Baum and Robert H. Callis, Jr., and vice mayor F. Reid Ervin. The U.S. Department of Interior has announced plans to prohibit vehicles from using a four mile beachfront route through the refuge in two weeks, as of March 30.

Walter J. Leveridge, president of Concerned Citizens for Conservation and Recreation, says legal action against the closure will be taken that same day. Leveridge says, "The COCR will take injunctive action until such time a suit can be heard in federal court."

alternate is provided, and if legal action is taken to preserve access, "...the City will intervene in the matter to insure that its views and the views of its citizens are fully explained and before the Court."

Councilman Donald H. Rhodes' motion to approve the resolution was seconded by Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield, Jr. Rhodes indicated he drafted the resolution.
Rhodes made it clear he felt the views of everyone concerned with refuge access should be presented in any litigation. He explained these not only included those who needed access to their property, and those wishing access for leisure enjoyment, but also interests of those charged with planning the City's development and growth.

New water proposal

City Manager Roger M. Scott says Norfolk's latest water contract proposal is being closely studied by Virginia Beach. However he was unable to say Wednesday when Virginia Beach City Council may convene to consider the agreement.

Norfolk's proposal, from City Manager G. Robert House, Jr., was hand delivered to Virginia Beach City Council during its informal session Monday.
The agreement reportedly contains most of the provisions requested by Virginia Beach some two weeks ago. Key factor is a rate of 48.5 cents per 1,000 gallons, as well as provisions to permit Virginia Beach to "buy out" of the contract in the event a regional water authority begins operations within the 30-year contract period.

Some 100 persons were in Council chambers to support access through the refuge. Their views were presented to Council by Edward T. (Ned) Cason, III, and J.A. Etheridge. Cason told Council, "The real issue is, will the City allow the Norfolk would benefit from an "escalation clause" to provide it with necessary funds if required improvements to that city's water system becomes necessary during the contract period.

Review of the contract also reportedly includes scrutiny by the resort city's bond consultants from the aspect of financing.
Norfolk City Council was informed Tuesday of the proposal's delivery to Virginia Beach but no action was taken.

7 million bond issue for city

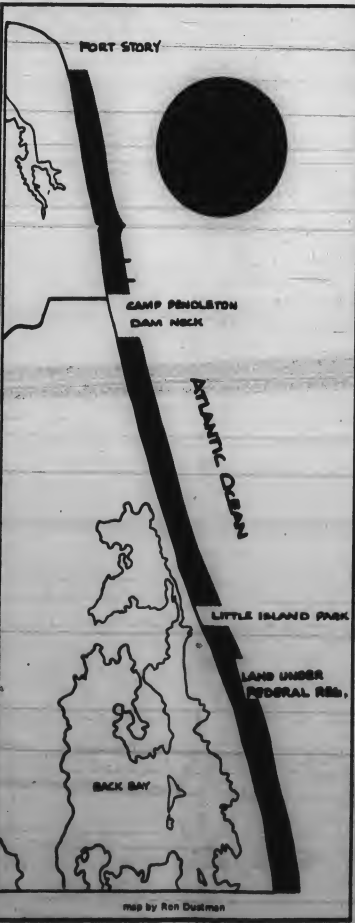

Seven million dollars worth of bonds were authorized issued by the Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon. Three million is earmarked for various public improvements, and the remaining four million dollars is tagged for water and sewer improvements.

The largest chunk of the public improvement bonds will go toward the "planning, construction, site improvements, enlargements, and equipping of municipal buildings, including public safety building, circuit and municipal court buildings, administration building, animal control building, and heating plant." These improvements are expected to cost $1,200,000.
The planning and construction of park and recreation facilities will cost $200,000. The construction of a boat ramp, bicycle trails, and the enlargement of the club house and other facilities at Red Wing Lake Municipal golf Course are included. Also, the cost of drawing the plans for the proposed Plaza area community center is included.

Fifty thousand dollars is earmarked for bulkhead along the oceanfront, and $250,000 will be used for site improvements for the community college site on Princess Anne Road. $1,145,000 will be used to improve and extend streets and highways within City limits.
The four million dollar water and sewer bond issue will be used to improve and extend water transmission and distribution lines and sewer lines and to acquire rights of way where needed. This must be done "in provide for the orderly growth and development of the City" according to the approved bond authorization ordinance.

Beach welcomes home four more POWs

By LES LEHIGH

Four more former POWs, whose families reside in Virginia Beach, returned home last Wednesday night expressing praise for their country, the American people, and President Richard M. Nixon.

Capt. Allen C. Brady, Cmdrs. John H. Fellows and Eugene B. McDannel, and Lt. Cmdr. Michael D. Christian had each spent approximately six years in captivity in North Vietnam. As the family reunions took place at Portsmouth Naval Hospital, each of the men paused to speak to well wishers who gathered to pay tribute to the men.

Capt. Brady reminded everyone that some Americans sent to Vietnam would never be returning. He said, "Today should be the happiest day of my life, and it is, but it's also a day of mixed emotions. So, I ask that as you share our joy with us, you also lend your hearts to the families of those who are not coming home."

"We want you to know we have never lost our faith in our families, our country, our President. There is no way we can express our gratitude to you. God bless you. We're proud to be Americans. It's great to be home."

Cmdr. Fellows reflected a feeling of pride in the sacrifice the ex-POWs made for United States. He said, "We went to Hanoi to do a job that had to be done. We were willing to stay until that job was done. Our fervent wish was to come with honor, President Nixon made that possible. I know how great it is to be an American. I consider myself the luckiest man on the face of the earth. This is the happiest day of my life. God bless you all."

Cmdr. McDannel praised Americans for writing letters to the North Vietnamese government urging better treatment for POWs, as well as their release. He said, "Today is the most exciting, most touching moment of my life. For six years I wanted to cry, but there wasn't time.

"We are returning from the gray, dingy walls to Hanoi to the greatest country in the world. For you, the American people, I want to thank you for your prayers, for safeguarding my beautiful family, for the support you gave me during the letter writing campaign of 1968. America has become my most treasured possession."

It was Lt. Cmdr. Christian who most directly credited the American people with freeing POWs. He said, "Hello. It's wonderful to be a free man again in the greatest country that ever existed. There are many things I want to say, but most of all thank you. Thank you for your concern, your prayers, but most of thank you for coming to get us. I always knew you would."

The reunions were shifted to Portsmouth after dense fog operations at North Naval Air Station. The plane bringing the men home was diverted to Oceana NAS, and the men were taken to Portsmouth by limousine.

Some 500 people had gathered at Norfolk to greet the men. The group included a delegation of more than 100 from the First Baptist Church of Virginia Beach, where McDannel is a deacon. The weather failed to dampen the spirits of the group as they sang hymns and anthems, waved American flags, and displayed signs and banners praising the ex-POWs.

The signs expressed sentiments such as, "POWs are America's best", "We love people who serve their country, like you", "We didn't forget you POWs", "We prayed for all of you, welcome home", and one particularly personal greeting, "Christ The King welcomes home Sharon Fellows dad."

Many of those on hand had waited some two hours for the POWs. The disappointing word the men had been diverted to Oceana NAS came from their wives. As they told the group the plane had landed in Virginia Beach they thanked everyone for coming with phrases such as, "I want to thank all who made this possible... Thank you with all my heart for coming, and God love all of you... It breaks my heart that they can't see all of you."

Plant a ground cover

By J.R. STYPLER

This headline is a bit misleading, for we should say, when grass won't grow, plant a ground cover.

Although hanks beauty carpeting, there's nothing like a carpet of green grass to set off a house. There are some places where grass just won't grow. At least without a lot of special attention. Examples are in the shade, close areas where the trees take most of the moisture out of the ground, on a clay bank. Plus many more you probably think of in your own mind.

In such situations, plant a good ground cover. For some reasons, ground covers aren't used as extensively in Virginia Beach as in many areas - but they do add beauty and ease of maintenance to many a landscape. Here are some good ones.

Native Ivy - you find it all over the woods in this area. Sometimes hard to transplant. If you can't get a start of native ivy, your garden center has it in stock. Does well in both sun or shade.

Alone - This purple bromeliad has a pretty spiky of blue in early spring and spreads rapidly. Does best in shade. Available at most garden centers where plants are sold. Blue Rug Juniper - One of the broadest low shrubs. Junipers. Ground covering, silvery-blue foliage provides a year round overgreen blanket of blue. Covers tough slopes and bare spots. Maintenance free.

Creeeping Phlox (subulate) grows great in Virginia Beach; plant in full sun. Barely 4 inches tall; moss-like foliage stays green in winter. In spring, completely covered with bright flowers; available in four colors; pink, red, white and blue.

Pachyandra - an outstanding overgreen ground cover, very popular further north. Spreads rapidly by runners. Grows 6-10 inches tall. Set 6 to 10 inches apart to start.

Lilly-of-the-valley - Here's a real winner that few people grow anymore; beautiful white, bell-like blooms in early spring that are very fragrant. Grows in shade and will do well in even heavy shade. Tops die back in winter.

Periwinkle (Vinca minor) This is an evergreen that has small blue flowers in spring. Good ground cover for sun or shade. Often used in civic center plantings.

There are a multitude of good ground covers that will do better than grass in those difficult locations. The ones above are just a few. We'll tell about more of them another week. Make sure you get one that is for either sun or shade, for many are not suited for both. Try a ground cover this year. You'll be glad you did.

Award-winning squash

One new vegetable variety - a hybrid zucchini squash called Aristocrat - has been honored by an All-America Award for 1973.

Aristocrat Hybrid Zucchini won a bronze medal for its extra earliness, prolific yields, and the quality of its handsome, dark green glossy fruits which don't fatten-up and spoil as fast as other varieties of zucchini. First fruits can be had within 48 days of sowing seed directly into the garden. Fruits are straight, with rounded ends and taste delicious.

Zucchini squash is one of America's most popular classes of vegetable and grows well in Virginia Beach. One of the easiest to mature and yield their fruit over a long period on bushy plants that don't take up much room in the garden. Plant in groups of 3 or 4 seeds spaced 2-1/2 feet apart, in fertile soil in a sunny spot.

Clippings FROM THE GARDENER'S DESK

Don't forget to read the notice of any meeting you wanted listed in the Sun and we'll put it in the garden meeting notices. Have you noticed how many special plant societies there are in Tidewater?...rhododendrons...iris. If you have a special interest in any of these plants, you're always welcome at these society meetings. Everyone goes to learn and new members are always welcomed. Such is the case of the Tidewater Men's Garden Club, now with almost 150 members. You gain, send your husband and he'll learn how to grow things. Each meeting day, the speaker appears on Mildred Alexander's TV show on Channel 3 at 1 p.m. - so you ladies can get a preview - then come your husband over to get the details - the first Tuesday of every month at the Botanical Garden. Good friend Fred Heutte tells me that Greenbriar Farms will have their groundbreaking ceremony on April 2. Fred's the landscape consultant on this master city-within-a-city and is truly one of the masters of landscape architecture. Be sure to watch the fertilizer sales on now - and buy all you need for the season before the sales end. Most of them run through March and you can save from 50 cents to $5, depending upon how much you need. It's an authorized sale and once it's over, the price goes back up...so it will pay you to take in a full season's supply now. A new garden center opened its doors last Saturday...the Old Dominion Garden Center on Northampton Blvd. near Jack Frost Road. Yours truly was asked to do the ribbon cutting; the garden center is operated by the Bunnas, known for their tree service in Tidewater. Stop by this week. JRS

NOW IS THE TIME TO...

+Plant some of those zucchini squash shown on this page. Seeds germinate in about 10 days; this the seedlings in each group to one strong healthy plant per hill. Remember the name - Aristocrat - it's an All American winner for 1973.

+Plant gladioli. Try to space your gladioli plantings about two weeks apart, so you'll have blooms over a longer period. There's no better flower for bouquets than the easy-to-grow gladiolus. Plant some bulbs today. Just one dozen will guarantee you at least that many good bouquets for.

+Plant some Irish potatoes. Most people don't do this anymore - but March is an ideal planting time. There's nothing tastier than new potatoes and new peas - cooked together. Try a row of potatoes in your garden this spring. You should have planted peas in your garden before now - but it's not too late. Hurry to your nearest garden center for seed potatoes and a package of green pea seed.

+Pick a bouquet of daffodils to brighten up your home. If you're one of the unfortunate who have no spring bulbs in your yard, make plans to plant some this fall. A bouquet of daffodils is like a breath of springtime.

+Plant that first row of radishes, lettuce and onions. They're your spring garden - and need to get in the ground early. Even the foe like we had last week won't hurt them. Get the seed into the ground now. And don't plant too thick.

+Visit your garden center this weekend. If the weather's bad, you can still see all the new products in stock - and make plans for what you want. Better yet, what I like to do is buy what is needed now - then you have it when the weather breaks.

+And be sure to keep feeding the birds. Berries are now gone from native bushes. The birds need to be fed - you'll see some unusual ones this time of year as migrating begins.

Start gardening by pruning

The coldest weather of the winter is past, we hope. It is time to prune shrubs and get them ready for summer growth. That is, you prune all of your shrubs except those which bloom during the spring.

Evergreen or deciduous shrubs, which are grown primarily for their foliage, should be pruned now. First remove any dead, broken, diseased, or insect-damaged branches and head back the bush to maintain a suitable size and form for its location.

Shrubs which develop numerous stems are pruned by a continuous renewal process. Several of the older stems should be removed each year. The top part of the remaining branches should be thinned out and headed back. This process will allow light to reach the young shoots which develop from the crown of the plant. As these stems mature, they will form the attractive part of the shrub and will in turn grow old and be removed.

Shrubs which have a somewhat dense growth with only one or a limited number of main stems are pruned by thinning out and heading back the side branches. Remove a few branches each year to thin out the top of the plant and allow light to penetrate. Cut back long branches to maintain an informal natural shape and a size which is suitable for the location.

Box shrubs should be pruned by thinning out the top half of the plant and cutting back the branches to retain the desired height. The thinning operation will allow light to penetrate into the bush and promote leaf development. This results in a natural, informal type growth with good branch extending to the center of the shrub.

In certain locations, and in hedges, you may prefer to shear your box into a smooth, rounded form. This is appropriate in a formal landscape setting but will result in a rather thin layer of leaves on the outside of the plant.

The low and horizontal type junipers should be pruned primarily from the top. Branches which extend upward should be cut back. Allow the lateral branches to develop into points around the plant to give a graceful spreading form. Very little lateral pruning should be done unless the long branches cause the shrub to become too large for its location.

Narrowed evergreen shrubs such as arbutus, erect, junipers and yew typically develop numerous branches. They can withstand relatively heavy pruning. Thin out the shrub by removing some of the older branches and cut back as needed to retain desired size and form.

Azalea, camellia, laurel, and rhododendron grow quite slowly and need very little pruning. The flower clusters should be removed at the end of the blooming season. Long stems which extend beyond the desired size and shape of the plant may be cut back.

Shrubs that bloom in the spring or early summer, should be pruned at the end of their blooming season. These early flowering shrubs include Red Bud, Japanese Quince, Forsythia and early white Spiraea. Don't prune them now. You may cut a few stems off to use as arrangements in the home. Wait until you have enjoyed them during their flowering period and then prune them by thinning out and heading back.

Peat supply short

Another important nursery commodity seriously hit by heavy rainfall is the industry's supply of peat moss. Abnormally wet weather during the July-Sept. period made the bogs so wet that drying, cutting, digging and other harvest process operations were impossible. The shortage varies from location to location and from bog to bog, but some are off 25 per cent, many as much as 50 per cent. Reliable sources project serious shortages of peat from late spring through summer 1974.

Seedling program

During March, Virginia 4-Hers will be lending a hand in doing something about the environmental crisis.

They will be planting tree seedlings donated by the Virginia Division of Forestry to aid in the reforestation of the state.

The program, which is sponsored by Virginia Tech's Cooperative Extension Service, will help in reducing soil erosion, preventing floods, providing cover for wildlife, and providing recreation areas for mankind.

Over 300,000 seedlings will be planted.

Questions and Answers

I planted tulips last year and had lots of nice blooms. This year, they're not even coming up. What's the matter? Mrs. J.P. Thalla

Answer: We're a little too far south for good tulip growth. A few varieties bloom year after year, but many do not. They come up and bloom the first year and then die. If you want to dig and replant them every year, you can have blooms every year. The Red Emperor, not considered a great tulip by many, is one variety that blooms early and will bloom every year in Virginia Beach. Try it this fall when bulb planting time rolls around. It's bright and colorful.

QUESTION: Every year our tomatoes have a lot of blossom end rot. What do you recommend, R.G. Oceana.

Answer: Dr. Charles Elstrodt, Virginia Truck Experiment Station, says "We all know that blossom end rot on tomatoes is a real problem in Tidewater. Test your soil. You probably need lime. Get it and apply now. As the season progresses, try to avoid any stress periods for the tomatoes. If it's dry, water frequently. Stress is one cause of blossom end rot. Do what you can to avoid stress on the tomato plants."

Ways you can save on taxes

It's income tax season so here are a few ideas to think about as you pore over your 1041 forms. First, test through them, fire or accident may be covered by your insurance, or they may be tax-deductible to the extent that the loss reduces your property value.

Are you planning a social affair, indoor or out, that's worthy of deduction with living plants? You can buy container plants to grace your gathering, then donate the plants to a park, school, or other non-profit group and claim a deduction.

Living memorials of trees and shrubs planted on appropriate land in memory of loved ones are also deductible.

But remember first to check with an accountant or some other appropriate tax expert.

Water soon flows

It appears that by the time this editorial reaches print, or shortly thereafter, the City of Virginia Beach will have its water contract with the City of Norfolk.

This has been an overly-long negotiation that has been muddled by politics, personalities and procrastination. Much of the conflict and confrontation has been so unnecessary.

Affronts to this city and its officials by the neighboring city and its officials still make that "other cheek" burn with swallowed pride. But if a solution has now been found then at least the swallowing will not have been completely in vain.

It is only hoped that the latest, apparently final, contact will not only satisfy Mr. House and Mr. Scott and the councils of both Virginia Beach and Norfolk but will also be beneficial and acceptable to the citizens of both cities.

That, after all, is where the secret to a successful water agreement truly lies.

Dollars well spent

The Virginia Beach Safety Council has initiated a project that all parents of young bicyclists should heed. The council has on sale at various outlets red triangles of heavy duty styrene that will call attention to cyclists either daytime or nighttime.

With the growing number of cyclists, especially of the young age variety, now using the highways, the purchase of a large red triangle, which is attached to the rear of the bike seat, is not asking much. It is a one dollar insurance policy that provides a youngster an extra ounce of precaution against injury, possible death, from a motorist who may be blinded by oncoming headlights and simply cannot see the unsteady bicycle on the road ahead.

It requires a purchase. The council is not financially able to provide these safety devices free of charge for it is not an organization of fund-raising projects. The group has made available a supply of the triangles for a very low cost. One dollar. Such a small price to pay for a life, the prevention of painful injury.

Is there a profit? Not much. But what extra dollars the council does collect from these red triangles will go into other safety projects.

The dollar spent today will not only protect the bicyclist. It will tomorrow help protect the swimmer or the boater. Even the motorist.

Where else can a dollar provide so much?

Wounded knee

A new chapter in American history is unfolding at Wounded Knee, South Dakota. An Indian uprising in the 20th century. Hardly an incident to be proud of.

What is happening at Wounded Knee seemed so simple in the beginning. A group of Indians asking that they be allowed to elect a representative to the Bureau of Indian Affairs, rather than accept one appointed for them. The replacement of one man. The possible death of many before the chapter ends.

Where is the logic? Should not these Americans be entitled to elect their own voice, their own preferred representation, to the agency that so closely controls their lives?

Americans the country over are beginning to feel the impact of this power struggle between federal officials and a minority group that fights merely for their rights as Americans.

Wounded Knee certainly should provoke some deep thoughts and some painful realizations, on the true status of the American Indian.

Hopefully Americans who care about their country and their fellow countrymen will make their thoughts heard. If they speak loudly enough, quickly enough, perhaps American blood will not again be shed on American soil.

Waiting

The POW bracelets have very special meaning: a close, almost personal, attachment to the men, and their families, whose names are engraved on the silver band.

There's much rejoicing as bracelet-wearers spot the name of their POW on the list of returnees. But not all can rejoice. Their faith is still shrouded in uncertainty.

"Capt. Arthur Ecklund, 4-3-66".
Why has there been no word? His silver bracelet, remains on my wrist. Waiting.

False Cape should be privately owned

To The Editor:
The State, Federal and City Governments now own almost one-half of the City of Virginia Beach's oceanfrontage, of which only about 1.6 miles of such ownership are used for public park purposes.

Before any further taking of privately-owned oceanfronting property in the False Cape area of the City of Virginia Beach for public use, it would appear to be in the vital interests of all Virginia Beach citizens that their local public authority should at once demand a careful evaluation - and proof - of the public necessity of the use to which the Federal and State present oceanfront holdings are being put. Fair guesses are that the Department of Defense would be delighted to release Fort Story; that the State would be delighted to release Camp Pendleton; that at least one-third of the oceanfrontage of the Dam Neck facility would be revealed as surplus; and that the coastal sand area of the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge could be utilized for day-use recreation without any ecological disturbance to the actual refuge portion of that vast holding. For both day and longer-stay park users, there are already 17.5 miles of oceanfronting State and Federal-owned land - quite similar to the False Cape area and within a two-hour automobile drive of Virginia Beach.

President Nixon in a February 1971 environment message to Congress pointed out that "one-third of the land in the United States is owned by the Federal government, that thousands of acres in the heart of metropolitan areas are reserved for only minimal use by federal installations and that such land should be evaluated for transfer, sale or conversion to a better use." He also promised to "establish a program to establish, for the first time, a program for relocating federal installations that occupy locations that could be better used for other purposes in the particular community."

I find it difficult to believe that Fort Story could be shown to be even remotely necessary to the U.S. defense and even more difficult to believe that a comprehensively-controlled, day-use of the coastal sand area of the Back Bay refuge and a highway along the coastal sand to connect with an N.C. highway coming from the South would create an ecological disturbance or interfere with the permanent or migratory waterfowl or other wildlife using the marsh and water areas of the refuge.

Perhaps the two overriding reasons why the citizens of Virginia Beach should not permit any further taking of their oceanfrontage for park use are (1) the privately-owned oceanfrontage is already the most expensive kind of land in the City and is therefore the greatest kind of tax revenue generator for schools (and such land also provides sites for the City's only significant industry - serving vacationers and tourists) and (2) if this already most expensive kind of land is further shortened in privately-owned supply by government taking (thus reducing the tax base and increasing the tax bill for all taxpayers in the City), only the lucky present owners of such land and their heirs and the very affluent will have even a slight hope of ever being able to own or even rent such increasingly expensive property. Anthropologists, behavioral scientists, ecologists et al., are telling us more clearly every day that for the animals and human beings, personally-controlled (owned) territories (housing) of the individual's choice (brist patch, meadow, mountain, seashore or other) are quite significant in determining the quality of their mental and physical health. Federal Housing Administration is persuaded of the validity of such "territorial imperative" and is now emphasizing programs that will encourage ownership by lower income individuals rather than prior programs of subsidized public rental housing, rent supplements etc.

As President Nixon and his ecologists have also noted "... the argument is increasingly heard that a fundamental contradiction has arisen between economic growth and the quality of life - so that to have one we must forsake the other." He believes that the answer is not to abandon growth, but to redirect it and that we "should turn inward ending congestion and eliminating the by-product of our refuse and thus 'enrich life and enhance our planet as a place hospitable to man.'" He also stated, "... no matter how many national parks we buy and develop, the truly significant environment for each of us is that in which we spend perhaps 90 percent of our time - that is, our homes, our places of work, and the streets over which we pass."

A concern that we should address the "total environment" - consisting of not only the ecological, but the social and economic factors of a region - has been expressed by almost every authority (from former Interior Secretary Udell to Vice President Agnew, from FitzGerald Bemis to Dr. Eugene F. Odum) and not to a piecemeal approach, such as individual campaigns against billboards, against the aerial garbage of overhead utility lines and, I would add, movements by a park authority to establish and protect undeveloped areas is at the moment handy. (One of the upward perils with respect to projecting an ecologically-oriented park near a metropolitan area is the likely prospect that such park will become a sort of grotesque ecological Disneyland - or - visitation there would have to be so strictly constrained that the cost-benefit ratio would be unacceptable and would-be visitors would probably have a more enjoyable and valid experience from seeing a good ecological film in color.)

While we could all agree that it is eminently proper that public parks should be provided, where private property is to be taken by the public for whatever purpose, the obligation of the State to show public necessity would seem to be clear, certain, correct and settled long ago. The bold and arrogant power potentials implicit in the Park Conservation Act would not seem to be warranted simply on the grounds that public parks are desirable, since even the most righteous and dedicated of men - which I am confident our State's Department of Parks has - can err in judgment and, therefore, in decisions regarding size, number and location of parks and their relationship to what already is in public ownership, such decisions must be made subject to review by the local citizens affected.

The False Cape area represents an opportunity to not only provide oceanic, year-round living for many people, it is eminently proper that public parks should be provided, where private property is to be taken by the public for whatever purpose, the obligation of the State to show public necessity would seem to be clear, certain, correct and settled long ago. The bold and arrogant power potentials implicit in the Park Conservation Act would not seem to be warranted simply on the grounds that public parks are desirable, since even the most righteous and dedicated of men - which I am confident our State's Department of Parks has - can err in judgment and, therefore, in decisions regarding size, number and location of parks and their relationship to what already is in public ownership, such decisions must be made subject to review by the local citizens affected.

Police morale low

To The Editor:
Several factors contribute to low morale in the Virginia Beach police department. It is not going to improve because of lack of publicity.

Long hours, extra work without overtime pay, dispersal from the public, but it could also be an ocean-oriented resort... the kind of "industry" that most communities can only dream of having; one that would generate great amounts of net tax revenue (tourists and vacationers require no tax fund expenditures, welfare etc.). There seems to be no reason to doubt that a carefully-controlled plan, with conservation priorities and ecological considerations surrounding all of the development elements, could be designed with a non-noise zoning and building code written specifically for the False Cape area that would avoid the typical continued development to the point of high density and eroded pleasure. Scientists have recently learned that marshes are critical links in the chain of ecology and we are now just beginning to fully realize that the assumption of ecological balance is limited and that the costs of avoiding environmental damage will have to be worked into the pricing system... and these items that are then too high priced will simply be eliminated.

The False Cape area could be made, I believe, a viable, showcase model of how man can occupy his interstitial niche within a geographic area and not be harmful to the environment and to other species. Such a showcase community could be of world-wide interest on America's 200th birthday - just three years from now. If the U.S. population is to increase by 100 million in the next 60 years, and if the population is geographically distributed about as it is now (70 percent of the people living in the continental coastal states' coastal areas), then a model such as the False Cape is already way past due.

Some of our citizens, in their quite understandable concern with ecological balance, will speak against the development of the False Cape area for human occupancy, but more and more concerned citizens are fast becoming aware that undeveloped areas can be developed for human occupancy without ecological disruption by the imposition of shoreline zoning and building regulations designed for the specific area and more and more concerned citizens are now demanding of their public officials that effective planning efforts be exerted to correct the environmental disruption already existing in the developed areas.

It appears that the local authorities have so far flopped back and forth between rather dilute and simplistic positions in the matter of the proposed State taking in the False Cape area and that could have resulted because the citizens of Virginia Beach have not given said authority a clear signal of how they feel, and the lack of such signals may have resulted from citizens not being aware that such taking is overwhelmingly in their disfavor. Therefore, I urge the Council of Virginia Beach to enjoin the State from further negotiations or "contamination" in the False Cape area and to then determine if Fort Story can be acquired, and even to the State for managing State Seashore Park and, if successful, the False Cape properties already "taken" from the owners should be conveyed back to them by the State.

Respectfully yours,
Donald Webb

House and Senate bills

How our congressmen voted

By SONJA HILLGREN
Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on roll call votes between March 5-9.

HOUSE: Adopted, 370 for and 27 against, rule to open to the public all House committee and subcommittee meetings unless members vote in open session to close them.

Some Members have advocated an even stronger rule that would have prohibited all closed sessions, including markup sessions at which legislation is put into final form.

Proponents said openness is needed to insure public confidence in the Congress.

Opponents said closed sessions give Members a chance to discuss privately the credibility of committee witnesses and to iron out legislative quarrels.

Reps. G. William Whitehurst, R-Norfolk, and Robert W. Daniel Jr., R-Spring Grove, voted for. Agreed to, 301 for and 166 against, amendment to the anti-secrecy rule to allow representatives of the executive branch to sit in at closed markup sessions.

The amendment was aimed at the needs of the Armed Services and Ways and Means committees which sit in military and fiscal affairs to answer technical questions during markup sessions.

Without the amendment, proponents said, those committees would be forced to switch every few minutes between closed and open sessions in order to get technical expertise from the executive departments.

Opponents said if executive branch representatives sit in at markup sessions, the public ought to know what advice they give to legislators.

Whitehurst and Daniel voted for.

Blocked, 197 for and 196 against, move to change House rules to allow the minority party (now Republicans) to control one third of the committee staff positions.

Republicans proponents charged that at the same time some Democrats advocate congressional reform they refuse to allow Republicans their proportionate share of committee staffs.

Democratic opponents said that as the elected majority they are responsible for the legislative program of the House.

A vote "for" was a vote to kill the Republican request for more staff.

Whitehurst and Daniel voted against.

Passed, 318 for and 27 against, bill authorizing $2.6 billion for three years for handicapped job training and rehabilitation.

The vote marked another confrontation between the Administration and Congress over spending. The bill is similar to one President Nixon vetoed last fall after Congress adjourned.

Whitehurst and Daniel voted against.

Rejected, 215 against and 148 for, a substitute $1.9 billion bill for handicapped job training.

At issue was the White House claim, made at the time of last fall's veto of the handicapped job bill, that the bill costs too much and duplicates existing programs.

Proponents of the less extensive substitute said their bill had White House support.

Opponents said the compromise cutbacks eliminated special programs for blindness, spinal cord, injuries and kidney disease.

The Administration advocated those programs when the original bill was drawn up, opponents said.

Whitehurst and Daniel voted for.

SENATE: Rejected, 67 against and 88 for, rule that would have required Senate committee session for marking up bills be open to the public unless the members voted to close them.

The vote paved the way for unanimous passage of a more narrow rule allowing each committee to decide for itself if its sessions should be open.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. and William L. Scott voted against.

Passed, 96 for and 3 against, $1.3 billion veterans' package, including two programs the President vetoed last fall.

The bill expands Veterans Administration hospital benefits to wives and children of the totally disabled, creates a drug and alcohol treatment and rehabilitation program and authorizes a fund to bury former servicemen not buried in the national cemeteries.

Byrd and Scott voted for.

Vandals' parents should pay costs

The people of Virginia Beach apparently feel very strongly about public funds being spent to repair damage caused by vandalism. Response to the question of the past two weeks made this point perfectly clear.

Only one reader responded unfavorably to the question "Should the State Code be amended to raise the reimbursement for vandalism from $300 to $1,000?"

And that reader indicated on the questionnaire that the opposition vote was made because the statement did not include vandalism "by children."

Despite the fact that the question appeared the first week with a typographical error - it read from $300 to $3,000 rather than the proposed $1,000 - most readers approved of the higher amount.

In fact, most approved of even higher penalties. One suggested that it be $5,000. Another noted definite approval of $5,000 "by all means" and yet another who at the test minute apparently jotted his comment on the sealed envelope, said quite vehemently "YEA, and MORE IF NEEDED" (but the mailman wondered what that was all about!)

Some believed there should be no financial limitations at all. "Why the limit?" asked one, who went on to say the reimbursement for vandalism should "cover extent of damage or replacement cost."

Another comment: "Why the State Law arbitrarily limits parents' responsibility to the magic figure of $300 is legally puzzling. It would make more sense to change the legal figure to full recovery for vandalism damages."

In an aside note, the same reader commented on the "clever cartoon" published in last week's issue of the Sun. It was unfortunate that we were unable to credit the handwork of the artist but the sketch came to us in the mail, unsigned.

"They say a picture (cartoon) is worth a thousand words in educating and making people aware," this reader wrote. "We greatly appreciate the time and effort the reader took in making suggestions for future cartoons. The suggestions are all well founded and though future work cannot be the work of the same artist, since he/she is anonymous, the editor will take the ideas submitted to the Sun's art director and see what he comes up with. Many thanks.

We're bringing out another one of the slides this week. It has been just about a year since this question first ran and the responses were overwhelming. Will it be as explosive this time? City Council's move Monday to keep the refuge open should provoke some interest. We'll see.

Planners approve new medical facility

By DONNA HENDRICK
The Planning Commission Tuesday approved a use permit for construction of a 100-bed convalescent and extended care facility near the General Hospital of Virginia Beach over opposition from the hospital and another extended care center in the area.

The Commission approved the application of United Medical Associates Ltd. for the second time Tuesday. The Commission had previously approved the use permit, but City Council had referred the application back to the Commission on February 12. Council had questioned some of the details of the approved application, including dedication of right of way, traffic congestion in the area and the need for another medical facility there.

Attorney Grover Wright, representing the General Hospital of Virginia Beach, said that Council sent the application back to the Commission partly because no recommendations had been received from the Tidewater Regional Health Planning Council on the new facility.

"We're not in opposition," Wright said, "but we're here to endorse good health planning. We ask that a decision be deferred until the information is from the Health Planning Council."

Edward Brogan, representing the applicant, said that United Medical Associates had written to the Health Planning Council on February 22 asking for its recommendations, but had received no reply.

Jesse Dunwoody, representing Medicenters of America, also opposed the application. Dunwoody said that Medicenters operates an extended care facility in the hospital area with only a 22 per cent bed occupancy rate. He said that the proposed new medical facility would cause a "definite duplication of services."

APPROVED
The Commission also approved applications for:
+Harley V. Cole for a use permit to operate retail trailer sales and service at Lynn Shores Drive and Bonney Road.
+A change of zoning from residence suburban to general commercial for Helen Lee DeFord for a shopping center north of Virginia Beach Blvd., across from Baker Road and east of Newtown Road.
+Lynhaven Lounge for a use permit for dancing and live entertainment in the South Lynhaven Mini Mall.
+Herbert D. Smith for a change of zoning from residence suburban to general industrial for an electrical business in the Loudon Bridge area on Potters Road.
+A use permit for Robert L. Barnes to keep two calves on his property in the Woods Corner area of Kempville.
+Powell and Huntley, Inc., for a use permit to build 125 townhouses in the College Park area of Kempville. The applicant requested 155 townhouses.
+A change of zoning from limited commercial to general industrial for Brooks Warehouse Corp. in the Airport Industrial Park.
+Frank P. Grier for a change of zoning from residence suburban to limited commercial for property west of Kempville Road and south of Indian River Road in the Bonney's Corner area of Kempville.

+A change of zoning from residence suburban to limited commercial to correct a nonconforming use of property belonging to Henry and Betty Bailey at the intersection of Newtown Road, Hagood Road and Sullivan Blvd. near Aragona Village.
+Hassell E. Perrell for a change of zoning from residence duplex to multiple family residence and a use permit to build 80 apartments on Pleasure House Road near Greenwell Road in Bayside Borough. The applicant requested 88 apartments.
+Another change of zoning and use permit for Hassell E. Perrell from residence suburban to multiple family to build 12 additional apartments, in conjunction with existing apartments, north of Shore Drive and west of Pleasure House Road in the Chesapeake Beach-Bradford Terrace area of Bayside Borough. The applicant requested 24 apartments.
+A change of zoning from rural to suburban residence for Walke Farm Assoc. for property in the Witchduck Point area of Bayside Borough.
+A change of zoning from residence duplex to limited commercial for Marion Ennis for a real estate office in the Hilltop Manor area on the corner of Hilltop Road and Laskin Road.
+A use permit for Chrysler Realty Corp. to operate new car sales and service on Virginia Beach Blvd. and 7th Street.

DENIED
The Commission denied applications for:
+James Proferes for a change of zoning from one family residence to motel-hotel for his property on Lake Holly on Arctic Avenue in the Beach Borough.
+A change of zoning from residence suburban to multiple family for Jack H. Harris and Albert Lee Bonney Jr. and a use permit to build 180 townhouses and apartments on property south of Princess Anne Road near Forest Street.
+A change of zoning from suburban to duplex for Carroll and Josephine Danforth for property north of Maryland Court and west of South Surfside Avenue in the Croatan Beach area.
+J.D. Baker for a use permit to stable two horses on property north of Normandy Avenue and east of Avalon Avenue in Kempville.
+A change of zoning from multiple family and retail business to general business for Harvey W. Ginn for a Time Giant on the corner of Norfolk and Cypress Avenues.
+A change of zoning from residence suburban to limited commercial for Joseph V. Anderson for an office park south of Princess Anne Road and west of Kempville Road in the Kempville-Fairfield area.
+A change of zoning from residence duplex to multiple family for Wm. E. Conley for property north of Ship's Corner Road and west of Holland Road in Princess Anne Borough.

SPECIAL MONTH — March has been proclaimed by Mayor Robert B. Cromwell, Jr., as "Social Workers Month". Hampton-Roads Chapter National Association Social Workers representatives Sandra Quarles (left) and Reba Hicks witness the signing.

New political group formed

The United Citizen Group of Virginia Beach was founded as an active political organization at the first meeting March 4 at Union Kempville Baptist Church.

The organization will take an active part in political action throughout the city, such as voter's registration, endorsing candidates for public office and drafting members of the black community to run for public office.

Officers elected at the organizational meeting are: president, Harry L. Robinson; vice president, Augusta Brown; financial secretary, Alexander Woodhouse; treasurer, Robert Sparrow; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Virginia Taylor; recording secretary, Merlin Bell; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Rose Washington.

Merkle is candidate

Jimmie Merkle, 40, a native of Princess Anne County, has announced his candidacy for sheriff of the City of Virginia Beach.

Merkle has owned a private detective bureau since 1949 in the city and will base his campaign on a new administrative program he hopes to implement in the city jail.

Merkle's plan for the jail includes: A grievance committee for prisoners, a work release program, a pre-work release program to be established through the Virginia Employment Commission, an updated prison library system, extended visiting hours for prisoners, guidance and counseling, expanded recreation and exercise programs using public school recreation facilities.

The projected jail programs would not cost taxpayers additional money, according to Merkle.

"I have worked in the investigative field and have gained wide experience in this field and in the field of management," Merkle said.

feel that my experience qualifies me for the office of sheriff. It is time for new, independent blood in the operation of this most important office."

City of tomorrow must be planned

"The city of 2005 will be the result of decisions made today," was the thrust of Robert Kirby's speech to the Virginia Beach Development Council's Annual Banquet. Kirby is the Director of the Division of State Planning and Community Affairs, and spoke to the council last Thursday at the Hilton Conference Center.

In his half-hour speech, Kirby congratulated the group on active community participation in government affairs. "Many fine citizens have things to say," he told the 30 some people in attendance.

Kirby urged the group to continue on its path of "participatory government" stating that "governmental groups don't have all the answers."

Explaining to the group that "the decisions made by governmental groups have a permanent effect on the city," Kirby proposed that the Development Council, along with other area civic groups, propose the needs and development potential of the area.

"Develop a set of goals," Kirby said, "set goals of 5, 10, and 25 years." He feels that with a set-of-goals the city could see what direction it is headed. Both private and public concerns should undertake the development of such a system the veteran of some 15 years of community planning told the Council.

Kirby told the Council to "suggest public meetings, give the people the opportunity to express what's on their mind."

"What do the people want in the city in the next five to 25 years?"

The speech went on to explain that the meetings should be held at times convenient to the public and that the findings of the meetings should be transmitted to City Council.

"You would have a public statement of (citizen) priorities," he explained. With this type of statement, the council would have an idea of what citizens feel are the most pressing needs in a certain time frame.

Kirby stressed the need for close ties between civic groups and the planning department—and the cooperation of local governments and regional planners.

"Look at governmental problems on a regional basis," he stated and suggested that regional planning have no official connection with what local governments do—acting only in an advisory capacity.

Civic center rates approved

City Council approved a schedule of rental rates for the Virginia Beach Civic Center at Monday's session. The rates were effective as of January 1st, 1973.

According to the rate schedule, most rentals will fall into the $200 to $300 category, depending upon the use requested. The most expensive rate is for the Saturday night usage of the Dome for a private dance or banquet, for which a $400 charge will be levied.

The rental rates for private dances and banquets varies between three and four hundred dollars per day. Benefits, charity dances and parties can use the Dome for $200-$250. Rents for trade shows will be $200 or $300.

Commercial show promotions must pay $350 or twelve percent of their gross after taxes, while non-commercial music or art shows can use the center for $200 or $250, $200 or $250 will be charged if the Dome is to be used for Civic meetings and ceremonies.

State or federal government sponsored events can be held there for either a $125 or $200 rental fee. Sporting event promoters must pay between two and three hundred dollars.

Conventions will have free use of the facilities if their delegates pay for two hundred motel rooms in the City for the night. If the 200-room minimum is not met, conventions will be charged either $200 or $250.

City government sanctioned events will be able to use the facility at no charge if approved by the City Manager. Meeting rooms will be set up for $25, $50, or $75, depending on the time used.

Man killed

The resort city recorded its fourth traffic fatality of the year Sunday evening.

Officials say Tony Arzo Collins was struck down by an auto as he attempted to cross the 700 block of S. Military Highway. Collins, 47, of Reon Drive, was pronounced dead on arrival at Virginia Beach General Hospital.

Veteran hiring week declared

Mayor Robert B. Cromwell Jr. has declared the week of March 18 Hire the Veteran Week in Virginia Beach. The week marks the second anniversary of the Virginia Beach Mayor's Jobs for Veterans Task Force.

Refuge

to decide if the City has the right to limit vehicular access and/or eliminate it.

Etheridge reminded Council of its ten year effort to assist wildlife in Back Bay and added, "Without your efforts the refuge would not be what it is today."

Those favoring closure of the refuge included Robert Casan, representing ODU ECOS. Reminding Council of the years ECOS proposed refuge closure he summed up his position by saying, "We feel there is nothing new to say."

Closure support also came from Mrs. Elizabeth Sills and Mrs. Joan Skeppstrom, both of the Conservation Council of Virginia. Mrs. Sills said, "The closure is long overdue, and totally in line with procedures in other national parks. It is, in fact, the duty of the Department of Interior to protect national parks."

Mrs. Skeppstrom said her organization had, "...and to support the Department of Interior in any legal action..." resulting from the scheduled closure.

Sports speakers

The Virginia Beach Sports Club will be briefed on the physical education program in the city's public schools when it meets Tuesday at the ocean Hearsh Restaurant.

Guest speakers for the 12:30 p.m. meeting will be Stephen Chipok and William Garrison, respective Supervisors of physical education and health in the city's elementary and secondary schools.

VIRGINIA BEACH. Where The Living Is Lovely

ESTES COMPLETES MANAGEMENT COURSE

ALBANY, NEW YORK — Realtor Ray Estes, GRI, of Virginia Beach, Virginia, recently completed a real estate management course. The course, "How to Manage a Real Estate Office Successfully" was sponsored by the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers (NIREB) which is an institute of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The advanced course is designed to improve the management capabilities of real estate brokers and management personnel.

NIREB consists of two specialized divisions: Commercial - Investment and Residential. Realtor Estes is a member of both. He plans to continue participation in numerous NIREB courses offered throughout the United States.

TOT FINDERS

Pembroke Realty & Insurance Agency, Inc. of Virginia Beach are now part of the TOT FINDER Program in conjunction with the Insurance Company of North America.

Kurt Hammaker, Manager of the Fire & Casualty Insurance Department stated that TOT FINDER is geared to help save lives... the lives of all ages and tastes to enjoy themselves. For those interested in staking out small plots of sand for sunbathing, there are miles of white sand-drenched shoreline. For the more energetic there is surfing, fishing and charter boats that will take you out after the big ones.

Pembroke Realty provides a "highly visible" deal that makes a child's room from the outside window, as well as the inside door of the room. TOT FINDER signals fire rescue personnel to clear this area first. The decals are visible during daylight and reflect from a light source during nighttime hours.

Through local community support and with the aid of the fire departments, the more than one-third of residential casualties that are children can be stopped. Pembroke Realty is one of the first in the Virginia Beach area to introduce this program to the public. If only one life is saved, TOT FINDER is working!

VIRGINIA BEACH IS FOR EVERYONE

Virginia Beach, Virginia's renowned seashore playground, offers countless ways for people of all ages and tastes to enjoy themselves. For those interested in staking out small plots of sand for sunbathing, there are miles of white sand-drenched shoreline. For the more energetic there is surfing, fishing and charter boats that will take you out after the big ones.

For the athletic, there is horseback riding, tennis and golf on championship courses. For the romantic, there is dancing under the stars to the music of name bands. For the children, there is an amusement park with an assortment of delights to pass many an hour. For those who desire just to sit and rock, there are rockers. For everyone, young and old, there is Seashore State Park, where they can walk beneath a lacy canopy of Spanish moss around a lake of black cypress water nestling among pine-topped sand dunes. When at last you decide to lay down your head, there are outstanding hotels and motels that will accommodate all pocketbooks. So come on in - to Virginia Beach that is - the water's fine.

It feels so good!

You're looking for an apartment? And you're shopping for reasonable price, location and what goodie the man throws in? Hang it all up and sort it out. Frederick J. Napolitano

CHAIRMAN NAHB LUMBER STUDY TASK FORCE

Frederick J. Napolitano, Virginia Beach builder, has been named chairman of the National Association of Home Builders' Lumber Study Task Force.

This task force has assumed major significance in view of the current crisis over soaring prices of lumber and plywood. The appointment was made by NAHB President George C. Martin of Louisville, Kentucky.

The Lumber Study Task Force was established early in 1972 by Stanley Waranch of Norfolk, (then President of NAHB) to look into rapidly rising prices of lumber and plywood, which have added $1,200 to the price of a typical single-family home within the past six months. According to Mr. Martin, if this trend continues, adequate housing will only be available to the wealthy and the majority of people in this country will be unable to find shelter at a price they can afford. The job facing this Task Force is enormous, but—hopefully—through meeting with Congress and the White House, some relief to the problem will be seen.

Napolitano was asked to head this committee because of his work on the Executive Committee of the National Association of Home Builders for the past three years. Mr. Napolitano is a principal of the Terry Corporation of Virginia, which builds homes, shopping centers, apartments and office buildings and is very knowledgeable in the problems with lumber in this country.

"BUNNY" FERER JOINS ESTES TEAM

Mrs. Anna M. "Bunny" Ferer recently joined the Residential Sales Division of Estes Realty Corporation. Mrs. Ferer is the wife of Harmon Ferer, a Sales Manager for Park-Davis and Co., Pharmacuticals.

Mrs. Ferer, a resident of Lake Smith Terrace, is currently enrolled in the Girls' Regional Gymnastics Meet

Ten Beach girls going to State Meet

Ten Virginia Beach girls will journey to the State Gymnastics Meet this Saturday at Woodson High School in Fairfax. The March 17th trip to the State Meet was earned by placing in the Eastern Regional Gymnastics Meet at Princess Anne High School last weekend.

156 gymnasts from seventeen Eastern region schools took part in last Saturday's State meet preliminary. Girls from all six of the Beach high schools won berths in the State tourney.

Bayside qualified three girls for the State meet. Cox and First Colonial will be sending two girls each, and Princess Anne, Kellam, and Kempville will each send one.

Virginia Beach girls took first place in all five events and in the very important Best All-Around category. As expected, Beach girls dominated the regional competition.

Nan Dick of Princess Anne and Sandy Conkwright of Cox won five first places and led the list of Beach winners. Cox's Kathy Rineker won the other first.

Nan won firsts in free exercise, in vaulting, and in tumbling. She also placed fourth in the balance beam competition.

Sandy won first in the Best All-Around category and first on the uneven parallel bars. She also finished second on the balance beam and tied for third in free exercise.

Kathy took first place on the balance beam and placed second in free exercise.

First Colonial's Bonnie Brown finished fourth on the uneven parallel bars and was awarded second place in the Best All-Around judging. On the uneven parallel bars, Vickie Barr of Bayside finished third, Kempville's Sharon James took fifth place, and Roxanne Wagner of Kellam finished sixth.

Bayside's Debbie Cox won second-place in vaulting, and teammate Anne Weatherly took third in tumbling. Lisa Wallace of First Colonial finished second in tumbling.

All ten of the girls will go to the State Meet, since they were the top finishers in the general division. Winners in the beginner division do not qualify for further competition.

Top finishers in both the general and the beginner divisions are listed below. Virginia Beach winners are capitalized.

Ed Diehl a starter at Chowan

Virginia Beach's Eddie Diehl has made the starting nine at Chowan College. Diehl started at shortstop when the Murfreesboro, North Carolina, team took the field last Tuesday in their season's opener with Chesapeake College.

Chowan has six lettermen back from last year's team, which was eliminated from championship play in their last Cavalier-Tarheel Conference game of the season. Coach Jerry Hawkins judges the Braves to be improved defensively over last year. "If the hitting and pitching develop adequately," Hawkins commented, "the Braves will be permanent contenders again this season."

William Petree, also from Virginia Beach, is a strong candidate for the starting catcher slot. Although competition is tough for this position, Petree will see a lot of action during the season, even if he does not win the starting assignment.

Women's Bowling Tournament will be largest ever for State

The Sixteenth Annual Virginia State Women's Bowling Association Tournament will be held in Virginia Beach, which will be the largest ever in the history of the State Bowling Association. Officially there are 2,000 bowlers entered. Unofficially there are 2,000 bowlers and 4,000 spectators.

The 1973 tourney will be held quite an increase over last year's event, which was held in Lynchburg. In the 1972 event, there were 724 bowlers, 1747 doubles, and 3494 spectators.

The tournament will be held over six weekends between April 14 and May 20, excluding Easter weekend, which is April 15 and 16. The tournament is handicapped, two-thirds the difference of the individual's average and 190, and is divided into three divisions.

Team events will be bowled at Brunswick Plaza Bowl on both Saturday and Sunday of each weekend. Doubles and singles will be rolled both days of each tourney weekend at the Brunswick River Lanes. Both bowling lanes are located in Virginia Beach.

Opening ceremonies will take place at Brunswick Plaza Bowl on April 14, at 1:30 p.m. Bud Kest, WAVY-TV's Mr. Sports, will serve as the master of ceremonies. G. William "Bill" Whitehurst, 2nd District Congressman, will speak Saturday and roll out the first ball. Girl Scout Troop 820 of Virginia Beach will present the colors. Everyone is invited to the ceremonies.

On Saturday, May 12th, the Annual Convention of the Virginia State Women's Bowling Association will be held at the Sheraton Inn at Military Circle. Eighty delegates from the different associations and twenty-three members of the board of directors are expected for the convention.

The objectives of the State Tournament is fun, sportsmanship, fitness, fellowship, and competition among the women bowlers of Virginia. It is an annual event and is scheduled in different association cities within Virginia. The 1974 State Tournament and Convention will be held in Roanoke. The Tidewater Women's Bowling Association made their bid for the 1973 tourney at the State Convention in Portsmouth two years ago. The Tidewater Association includes the cities of Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, Cape Charles, and Norfolk. Approximately 7,500 members are in the local group.

Don Hauck is "one of best freshmen ever" for ODU baseball team

Don Hauck, a former standout at Kempville High School, has looked extra sharp in spring baseball drills at Old Dominion University. According to his coach, Bud Metheny, "Hauck is real aggressive at the plate and makes good contact with the ball." Metheny commented last week. "He has excellent speed and good baserunning ability."

Metheny also stated that Hauck is one of the best freshmen he has ever coached. Hauck played on Kempville's State championship team last spring and then starred in American Legion play during the summer.

Old Dominion opens its home baseball season Saturday, March 17th, with a doubleheader against the always tough Big Green of Dartmouth College. Their season officially opens a day earlier with a twinnish in Raleigh with North Carolina State.

It looks like another good season for ODU's Big Blue. Metheny rates his pitching depth as "the best it has been in a long time." Hitting is some question with the long-time ODU baseball coach, but with three over .300 hitters back and a host of promising newcomers, the hitting department looks pretty solid.

Dribble and Shoot preliminary planned

The 1973 Dribble and Shoot Competition, sponsored by the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held at 2 p.m. on Sunday, March 18th, in the Kempville High School fieldhouse. The competition is held annually to promote physical fitness, to stimulate interest in improving basketball skills, and to provide constructive fun.

The event will be open to boys from eight through sixteen years of age. Registration will be held before the competition begins, and there is no cost to the entrant nor to the parent or sponsor of the entrant. Entrants will be divided into four classes according to age and will earn points in three events — foul shooting, speed dribbling, and speed shooting. Winners of each class will receive trophies and advance to statewide competition. All participants must wear sneakers during the competition. No street shoes will be permitted.

Jimmy Ellis

Jimmy Ellis top golfer at Ga. Southern

Georgia Southern's golf team put together three solid rounds to capture second place in the 26-man Seminole Classic in Tallahassee last weekend; however, the big news was the superior performance of Eagle senior Jimmy Ellis from Va. Beach, who captured the low medalist honors for the three-day tourney.

The Eagle golfer fired rounds of 70-69-69 for a 208 total — a new Seminole Tournament record by three shots. Ellis finished three shots ahead of the University of Florida's Gary Koch, the nation's third-ranking amateur, and four shots ahead of another Gator, Andy Bean, who was tied for first going into the final round.

On the final day, Ellis turned the front nine in a torrid three-under par while Bean turned at one over. The Eagle golfer then parred the final nine holes to take the tourney individual title. Meanwhile, Koch began the day in 10th place but fired a red-hot 67 to finish second to Ellis with 211.

The medalist title represents the second for Ellis this season.

Beach roller skaters do well in Invitational

The Virginia Beach Roller Skating Club was well represented in last weekend's Invitational Rollerskating Championships. Fifty-two contestants from the Beach club made the trip to Roanoke to participate in the Saturday and Sunday championship event.

Twenty-five skaters from the Beach group made the finals, and ten placed in the championship round. Four cham-ionships were won by the group, which is based at the College Park Skating Center. Mark Wyrick won the American Elementary Men's Figures. Terri Weller won the Beginner Ladies' Figures. Ursula Jones won the Exquire Ladies' Figures, and Karen Sarlo took first place in the Freshman International Ladies' Figures competition.

A complete list of Virginia Beach winners follows. American Junior-Senior Dance: Wayne Mowbray and Susan Mowbray, third. American Sophomore Dance:

Ronnie Sarlo and Terri Weller, second.

American Elementary Men's Figures: Mark Wyrick, first. American Elementary Ladies' Figures: Sharon Smith, second.

Beginner Ladies' Figures: Terri Weller, first; Doris Skeeter, second; Barbie Barnes, third.

Exquire Ladies' Figures: Ursula Jones, first. Sophomore International Men's Figures: Ronnie Sarlo, third.

Freshman International Ladies' Figures: Karen Sarlo, first.

Central Bayside AA announces first invitational cage tournament

The First Annual Invitational Basketball Tournament (featuring teams largely from the midget and intermediate divisions of the Virginia Beach Community League) will be held March 23rd, 24th, and 25th. The tournament is sponsored by the Central Bayside Athletic Association and will be held in the Bayside Junior High School fieldhouse on Newtown Road.

Midget play will feature ten, eleven, and twelve year-olds from eight area teams: Arrowhead, Cooke, Great Neck, Kempville, Kings Grant, Plaza, Thoroughgood, and W.W. Houston.

Intermediate teams involved are from Arrowhead, Cooke, Diamond Springs, Great Neck, Kings Grant, Norfolk (the Panthers), Plaza, Woodstock, Thoroughgood, and W.W. Houston. Intermediate teams are made up of thirteen and fourteen year-old boys.

The tournament will open Friday, March 23rd, with games at 6:30, and 9 p.m. Games will start at 10 and 11 a.m., 12 Noon, 1:30, 4:30, and 7 p.m. on Saturday, March 24th. The championship rounds on Sunday, March 25th, will begin at 2, 3:30, and 5 p.m.

Trophies will be awarded the winning teams. No admission will be charged, but donations will be accepted at the gate to help defray expenses of the sponsoring Central Bayside Athletic Association. The SUN will list the tournament pairings next Thursday.

"Redskins Remember Lombardi" second golfing weekend planned

"REDSKINS REMEMBER LOMBARDI"
Second golfing weekend planned

The Washington Redskins are coming to Virginia Beach in May—not to play football, but to swing golf balls around the City's Red Wing Lake course.

The night before they take to the golf course, the Redskins and their wives will table hop at a dance in the Virginia Beach Civic Center.

It's all part of the second annual "Redskins Remember Lombardi" affair in the Resort City, and the weekend is sponsored by a number of sports-minded citizens.

The dates are May 11th and 12th. The dancing will begin 8:30 p.m. on the 11th, and the golfing will begin at 8 a.m. the next day.

As the name implies, the event is dedicated to the late Coach Vince Lombardi, whose arrival in Washington signaled a new era of success for the Redskins.

Sponsors hope to raise at least $25,000, all of which is to be donated to the Lombardi Research Cancer Center in Georgetown.

About fifty Redskins players, coaches, and alumni (retired linebacker Sam Huff, for one) are expected to participate in the event.

Some of the other big names scheduled to appear are Larry Brown, Pat Fischer, Jack Pardee, Roy Jefferson, Mike Bass and Chris Hanburger.

Mrs. Marie Lombardi, widow of Coach Lombardi, will also be on hand.

Tickets for the dance will be priced at $25 per couple. Those who attend will get a chance to spend part of the evening meeting and talking with the Redskins and their wives.

To play golf in a foursome that will include one Redskin will cost $50 per person. The public can watch the golf matches for any small donation.

E.K. Phillips, a Virginia Beach insurance man who is chairman of the sponsoring group, said tickets are selling briskly and advised anyone who plans to attend to make reservations as quickly as possible.

Information and reservations may be obtained in person at the Virginia Beach Civic Center, 19th Street and Pacific Avenue, Virginia Beach, Virginia, 23458, or by phoning 428-9000.

Eastern speedway events scheduled

CHARLOTTE MOTOR SPEEDWAY in Charlotte, N.C. will feature two full days of drag racing activity on Saturday and Sunday, March 24th and 25th. Headlining the weekend are the powerful funny cars and fuel-burning motorcycles. The World Record Championship Drag Meet, sanctioned by the International Hot Rod Association, is the opening event of the speedway's 1973 season. Time trial and record runs begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, and the runs will continue until 5 p.m. Competition qualifying will be held from 2 until 5 p.m., and pro stock qualifying will be between 4 and 9 p.m. Class runs are set from 6 to 10 p.m. Top fuel bikes will have their qualifying runs at 7 and 9 p.m., and funny cars will begin qualifying at 6 p.m. On Sunday, final time trials will be held between 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., and final eliminations for all classes will start at 1 p.m. Tickets are $5 Saturday and $7 Sunday, or a two-day ticket can be had for $10.

THE REBEL 500 has grown up. Darlington Raceway began the Rebel as a 300-mile convertible race and then changed it into a 400-mile hardtop event. Now the South Carolina track has made it into the Rebel 500.

and the "Big Iron" of NASCAR will run the 500-mile event. The race will carry a full FIA sanction, meaning that drivers from USAC are eligible to run at Darlington for the first time. The Rebel 500 will get the starter's flag at 1 p.m. on Sunday, April 15th.

THE JOE WEATHERLY STOCK CAR MUSEUM, which is located at Darlington Raceway, will open April 1st, two weeks before the running of the Rebel 500. Open seven days a week, the museum houses the largest collection of stock racing cars in the world.

MARTINSVILLE SPEEDWAY'S DOGWOOD 500 CLASSIC will get under way at 1 p.m. on Sunday, March 25th. The unique double-header will feature the National Championship Late Model Sportman race and a 250-lap NASCAR National Championship Modified race. The late model sportman will run first at the Virginia track. Carl "Bugs" Stevens, who won the modified half of the race last season, will be back to defend his title with a 1972 Vega. He drove a 1936 coupe last year, but he seems to be following the NASCAR trend that is seeing old coupe bodies replaced by the late models. Richmond's Sonny Hutchins is the late model sportman-defending champion, and he will be driving an Emanuel Zervakis Chevelle.

Bayside Little League baseball registration

Bayside Little League baseball registration will be held Thursday, March 15th, and Saturday, March 17th. Boys eight through twelve years of age are eligible.

Thursday's registration will be held at Thoroughgood Elementary School between 7 and 9 p.m. Boys living in the following areas should register at that time: Thoroughgood, Thoroughgood Estates, Lake Smith Terrace, Lake Smith Terrace West, Chesapeake Beach, Ocean Park, Kellam Park, Baylake Pines, Bayville Park, Bradford Areas, and Witcheuck Point.

Saturday's registration will be held in two different locations. Those boys living in Lake View Shores, Lakeview Park, Bradford Terrace, Lake Shores, and the Naval Amphibious Base housing areas will register at 1 p.m. on the Amphibious Base.

Boys living in Gardenwood Park, Sajo Farms, Burton Station, Diamond Lake Estates, L & J Gardens, Lawson Forest, and Diamond Springs must register at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Bayside Elementary School.

Each candidate must present acceptable proof of age at the time of registration and be accompanied by a parent. To be eligible boys must be eight years of age before August 1st, 1973, and must not attain the age of thirteen before August 1st, 1973.

YMCA classes set

Registrations are now being accepted by the Norfolk YMCA for their spring programs, which are open to the public and start the week of March 31st. Swimming instruction for beginners, boys and girls, between the ages of six and twelve will be held on Saturdays and on Tuesday afternoons. Held in the indoor, heated pool, the series of ten lessons costs $10. Some of the Saturday classes offer bus transportation from various points in Virginia Beach, and a call to the YMCA will give you times and routes.

Other programs being offered this spring include junior and senior lifesaving, scuba diving, tennis, fencing, karate, judo, gymnastics, and guitar. A brochure describing the various programs is available by calling the YMCA, 622-6328.

Three baseball skill programs will be offered boys in grades three through six, beginning on Saturday, April 7th. The eight-week program will be held on the Princess Anne High School baseball field and on the field adjacent to the Kempville Elementary School.

The primary purpose of the program is to teach basic fundamentals of baseball, including batting, catching, throwing, and fielding. Boys in grades two and three will be taught softball from 7:30 to 10:30 a.m., and boys in grades four through six will be taught baseball from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Boys should provide their own gloves. No cleated shoes are permitted. All other equipment will be provided by the YMCA. The eight-week baseball clinic costs $8, and registrations may be made by mail or in person at the YMCA, 312 West Bute Street, Norfolk, Virginia, 23510.

New rules relaxed for inmates' correspondence

New regulations have been issued by the Virginia Department of Welfare and Institutions' Division of Corrections which give greater freedom to inmates in mailing letters and receiving publications.

In general, the relaxed rules were drafted to conform with the Uniform Correctional Policies and Procedures issued last year by the Association of State Correctional Administrators.

W.K. Cunningham, Jr., Director of the Division of Corrections, said that, generally speaking, there will be no censorship or reading of the private correspondence of an inmate, but letters will be inspected for contraband.

In exceptional circumstances, he added, mail would be read for content "in cases where there is reasonable cause to believe that an individual inmate is using the mails for purposes which directly threaten the security of the institution." Such exceptions would require Cunningham's approval.

In revised rules relating to publications which can be received by inmates, Cunningham said a publications committee that would include a representative from the Virginia State Library was being established. Its purpose will be to determine which publications may be received by inmates.

Beach fund raisers set

Nine Virginia Beach team captains for the annual "Friends of Virginia Wesleyan College" program have been named, according to an announcement by William J. Fanney, general chairman of the 1973 Friends program.

Selected to work with Virginia Beach Chairman James P. Sadler are James G. Konapane, Thomas J. Lyons, Mrs. Cameron Menden, Raymond E. Brann Jr., John S. Waller, Howard M. Welsberg, William E. Wood, Clinton W. Shanks and Taylor W. Johnson Jr.

general competition will take place at Bayside High School on Wednesday, March 21, starting at 3:30 p.m.

In the skill contest students will compete in masonry, auto mechanics, electricity, electronics, auto body, carpentry, cosmetology, practical nursing, mechanical drawing, architectural drawing, and machine shop activities at the Virginia Beach Vo-Tech Center. Norfolk will host the welding and offset printing competition.

The general competition at Bayside High School on March 21, will include such categories as club business procedures, extemporaneous speaking, posters, displays, exhibits, and student of the year.

First, second and third place awards will be given in all categories of both the skill and general competition as the students compete for trophies, cash awards, and scholarships.

Maria Lugo, C&P Telephone Operator

She can talk you out of your money.

As soon as this operator says "Operator," your call usually costs you a little more money. But when you dial your number direct, without the operator's assistance, your call costs you less. It's faster, too. If you don't use the operator's assistance, you shouldn't have to pay for it. That's why the rates are lower for direct-dialed calls. We'd much rather talk you into dialing your calls direct. Than to have our operators talk you out of your money.

The more you know about your telephone, the more it's worth.

Dial-direct rates do not apply to coin, credit-card, collect, person-to-person, hotel-guest calls, calls charged to another number, or calls to Hawaii and Alaska.

Motorists who've moved may miss '73 license plates

Commissioner Vern L. Hill of the Division of Motor Vehicles, warns Virginia motorists who moved their residence last year and failed to notify the Division, that they must inform DMV of their new address promptly, or expect to experience delays in buying 1973 license plates.

"We have had thousands of the recently mailed renewal applications returned to us by the Post Office," says Hill, "because the car owner no longer resides at the indicated address."

To avoid last-minute delays or long waits at Division offices, vehicle owners should notify a local DMV license agent, branch office, or the Central Office in Richmond immediately. Change of address notification should include all 1972 license numbers, as well as both old and new addresses, including zip codes.

"Owners should also make certain they check the proper box on the renewal application for insurance coverage and their applications have to be returned - thereby causing delays and expense to both the motorist and to the Division. An extra minute or two to make sure the application is complete and properly signed, will save time and trouble."

Any mailing to the Central Office in Richmond should be addressed to Division of Motor Vehicles, P.O. Box 27412, Richmond, Virginia, 23269.

Good Citizenship Award annual competition open

Second District Congressman William Whitehurst (R-Va.) recently announced plans for conducting the Good Citizenship Award competition in the high schools of Norfolk and Virginia Beach. It is the fourth annual competition.

The award is a means of recognizing high school senior students who have been contributing toward a better community by working with civic groups, schools, and other organizations. It is given in cooperation with Norfolk School Superintendent A. L. Ayers, Virginia Beach School Superintendent E.E. Brickell, and the Mayor's Committee of Norfolk Mayor Roy Martin, and Virginia Beach Mayor Robert Cromwell. The award is an all expense paid day in Washington as the guest of Congressman Whitehurst.

Selection will be made on the basis of the student's volunteer work, leadership or participation in a community service project such as a church, scout, civic or political organization, and the leadership or participation in school activities. The contest closes March 28. Application forms will be available at the high school's Guidance Department. A Faculty Committee at each school will select a student from the applicants by April 4 to represent the school before the Mayor's Committee. The Committee will select the final winner to represent the city from the school nominees by April 14. The two winners fly to Washington May 7 as the guest of Congressman Whitehurst, attending Committee hearings and meeting Congressional leaders.

Deadline for filing applications and required material is Wednesday, March 28.

Society fails to utilize women as major resource

Society is failing to utilize one of its major resources because of myths, tradition, and an abundance of false information concerning women, according to Ralph E. Anderson, associate professor of business management at Old Dominion University.

In the future, myths that have been perpetuated about women will be unacceptable to better-educated men and women, Anderson contends. The belief that women do not work as long or as regularly as men due to illness and "female problems" is not supported by the facts. He cites a study by the Public Health Service which indicates that women miss 5.9 days per year for illness or injury as compared to 5.2 days per year for men. In addition, the average period of work for a single woman is 46 years as compared to 43 years for men.

Another erroneous impression is that men refuse to work for female supervisors, Anderson stated. "Most men who complain about women supervisors have never worked for a woman."

Anderson said most women are not being utilized to their full capacity which results in a loss to our society in an article, "Working Women: America's Greatest Underutilized Resource," published in the February issue of Business Horizons. Anderson co-authored the article with Richard J. Tersine, associate professor of business management at ODU.

Brenda Anne Lehr became the bride of George Henry Hogge, Jr. and Susan Marie Lehr became the bride of James Grumman Clark in a double ceremony on March 10 at the Little Creek Amphibious Base Chapel with Chaplain J.C. Rittenhouse officiating.

Brenda Anne and Susan Marie Lehr are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Loren Lehr of Virginia Beach. Mr. Hogge is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Hogge Sr. of Norfolk. Mr. Clark is the son of J. Arthur Clark and Mrs. Charles Rhue of Virginia Beach.

The brides were escorted and given away by their father. They wore individual gowns and their attendants wore identical gowns.

Brenda Anne's gown of white satin with old-fashioned lace featured a satin waistband and matching elbow-length veil. She carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses with white orchid corsage in the center.

Susan Marie's gown of white satin and chantilly lace was accented with seed pearls. Her elbow length veil was fashioned of chantilly lace with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and orchids.

The honor attendants wore violet chiffon gowns and carried bouquets of orchids. The bridesmaids wore orchid chiffon, gowns and carried bouquets of violets.

Donna Raye Doane of Richmond, cousin of the bride, served as Brenda Anne's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Patricia Anne Jacoby of Norfolk, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Sherran Williams of Chesapeake, the groom's sister. George Henry Hogge Sr. served as his son's best man. Mr. Hogge's ushers were Stephen Arthur Lehr, brother of the bride, and Brad Forbes of Norfolk.

Susan Marie's honor attendant was Mrs. Colette West of Virginia Beach. Her bridesmaids were Mr. Debra Clark of Virginia Beach and Mrs. Judy Downs of Virginia Beach.

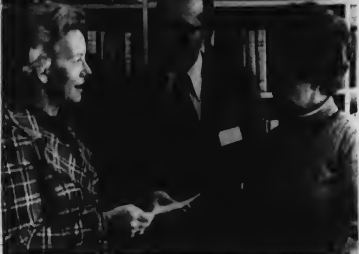

David M. Clark of Virginia Beach served as his brother's best man. Mr. Clark's ushers were Richard Cox and Robert L. Etheridge Jr., both of Virginia Beach.

Brenda Anne is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and is employed by Home Beneficial Life Insurance Company. Susan Marie is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and is employed by the City of Virginia Beach in the data processing department.

Mr. Hogge graduated from Maury High School, attended Old Dominion University and is presently employed by Home Beneficial Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Clark is a graduate of Virginia Beach High School and is employed by Sears, Roebuck and Co.

A reception was held for the bride couples at the Wheel House, Little Creek Amphibious Base. After a wedding trip to Sugar Mountain, N.C., Mr. and Mrs. Hogge will live in Norfolk. After a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Clark will live in Virginia Beach.

GIFT TO COLLEGE—The Women of Wesleyan officially wrapped up the fourth annual Flea Market recently when Mrs. L.C. Brennan (left), Flea Market chairwoman, presented a check for $3,000 to Virginia Wesleyan College President Lambuth M. Clarke. Looking on is Mrs. John W. Mason Jr., Women of Wesleyan president.

HOMEMAKERS COUNCIL—Mrs. C.H. Frizzell (right), Extension Homemakers Council of Virginia Beach city president, welcomes the Aragona club to the council by presenting Mrs. C.W. Kemble, Aragona club president, with the council yearbook.

The welcome mat was out Sunday afternoon for Richard E. Lawson, new headmaster of Friends School. He'll assume his duties July 1. In the photo to the left, with Lloyd Leiten and Charles Hofheimer. Mrs. Wilson has been acting principal for two years.

I was pretty hard on the staff to await their turn at the punch bowl. Serving the headmaster's nephews, Matt and Mark Paulsen and his niece, Lori Lawson, was Miss Linda Lamm, a teacher.

Ocean Park Woman's Club

Fifteen-year tradition cheers patients at Hospital

By HELEN CRIST

It was a day for thinking of others. Last Thursday, at Eastern State Hospital, that's when the Ocean Park Woman's Club, true to a 15-year-old tradition, made its monthly visit to Williamsburg, to brighten the day for 24 patients of Building 22.

Fog hung heavy and gray as Mrs. William (Gale) Sherman's station wagon approached the Hampton Roads Tunnel. With her were Mrs. J.L. (Gertrude) Eley, Mrs. Charles (Mae) Hiller, Mrs. Leonard (Elmer) Felton and Mrs. E.F. (Nancy) Irwin.

The back of the station wagon was loaded with party fixings: homemade cheese biscuits, brownies, cherry bread; pretzels and strawberry punch. They arrived too early for the scheduled 2 p.m. party, so the women walked and browsed about the always fascinating shops of Williamsburg.

There was luncheon at the Chickadee House, and a stop at the Fashion Shop on the hospital grounds to leave boxes of clothes for the patients.

It's with a feeling of independence that the patients receive chits for the Fashion Shop, where they select their own clothes if they need them. At present, there's a need for women's dresses in the larger sizes, from 22 to 26½.

The club women entered the hospital building, where the patients were eagerly waiting for them. They set up the tables quickly, poured punch over ice cubes in a bowl and arranged the food.

"Come have some refreshments," they said.

They responded at once, filling their plates, then taking a seat around the sides of the recreation room.

There were short curtains which Gertrude Eley had made for the windows. "We wanted to brighten the room a little," she said.

Individual conversations were the order, as the women visited with the patients, and the talking was lively.

Mrs. Erlene Mason, psychiatric aide at the building said that most all of the patients are able to do for themselves. And she expressed an affection for them all.

"I've been here 13 years, and I hope to be here 13 more and then some. All of the women are nice. I wouldn't do for one what I wouldn't do for all of them."

They take bus trips to Newport News, Yorktown and other places of interest.

"And we can go home too," said one middle-aged woman, of cheerful personality.

But home simply doesn't exist for most of them. There's no place to go and no one to take them.

Strangely, while they speak hopefully of going home, one senses that it is at the hospital where they feel most secure; that it is, indeed, their home and the only one they will ever know again.

It was time for the singing of hymns. The club women passed out the hymnals.

Above the other voices, came one, unmistakably that of a woman who sang with joy and a measure of talent.

There she sat, tiny 62-year-old Mamie, a black woman, in a green sweater, white apron over a black dress, clutching her book close to her failing eyes.

She harmonized, she sang alto in a true pitch, she thumbed through the book until she found what she wanted.

"There Were Ninety and Nine" Mamie sang, as the others listened. . . and they knew that she remembered that song from a childhood long gone but still there in memory.

Then the party was over.

"Time to leave," said the club women as they cleaned up the table, embracing and shaking hands with the patients.

They left the big room with promises to return, and the patients thanked them profusely and the women waved goodbye.

As they went from the room, it followed them out . . . the plaintive true notes of Mamie, lost in her happiness of remembering, still singing, "There Were Ninety and Nine" . . . again and again and again.

Social Workers

Month proclaimed

Mayor Robert B. Cromwell Jr. has proclaimed the month of March as National Social Workers Month. The proclamation is sponsored by the National Association of Social Workers, which has been instrumental in adopting a code of professional ethics, publishing professional up-to-date articles, a journal and books, instituting professional educational programs and a paid professional lobbyist to present views of the profession on pending legislation.

The House of Zenith

"We give a written guarantee that our prices are lower than anywhere else in Tidewater—or else we will make up the difference" is the philosophy of The House of Zenith, formerly Lamberts TV, according to Leonard Bellinger one of the two owners.

The House of Zenith is a combination of the efforts of two young men, Leonard Bellinger and Calvin L. Lambert who together, have formed the "largest Zenith outlet in the Tidewater area. The new center is located at 4113 Virginia Beach Blvd.—the same location as the old Len's TV. Lambert's TV will continue operating at its present location at 3709 East Indian River Road in Virginia Beach.

The two young men hope to find housing elsewhere in the beach but feel the bargains that a customer receives at their store is worth a crowded showroom.

Business students to meet

Members of the Future Business Leaders of America, Southeastern Virginia district, will meet for a day of conferences and competitions, 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., March 24, in Old Dominion University's Webb Center cafeteria. Approximately 300 business students from 33 Virginia high schools are expected to attend.

According to Earl W. Bracy, associate professor of business education at ODU and regional director for the district, activities will include an address by Del Albert Teich, ODU professor of business management, who will speak on the 1973 session of the General Assembly.

After the address, a series of competitions based on business skills will be held to establish regional winners who will travel to a state competition. Judges for the contests will be local businessmen and members of the ODU faculty.

Following lunch—in the University's dormitories, the group will hold a business meeting, and elect and install its officers.

Although only members of the group may participate in the contests, any interested person is invited to observe the day's events.

For further information, contact Bracy at 498-8000, ext. 335.

Morse appointed

Mind Your Money By Peter Weaver

Slowly but surely, bite by bite, we're going to learn something about the nutritional value of the food we're eating.

The Food and Drug Administration has called for voluntary nutritional labeling which would tell us how much of a "recommended daily allowance" of protein, vitamins and minerals we're getting.

The labeling will be mandatory whenever a food manufacturer makes a nutritional claim or adds some nutrient to its product. This means milk producers must have nutrition labels on milk cartons if vitamin A or D is added. "Diet" soft drinks (low calorie) will also have to use nutrition labels even if it means a series of blank spaces.

Margarine manufacturers will be included because they add vitamin A and sometimes D. Bread manufacturers who use enriched flour will have to use nutritional labels as well as fruit-drink bottlers who add vitamin C. Breakfast-food manufacturers have used various forms of nutrition labeling for some time.

Some manufacturers who would not be required to use nutrition labels under FDA's rules are already doing so voluntarily. Pillsbury was the first to put nutrition labels on some of its products. Del Monte, Best Foods (Hellman's mayonnaise, Skippy peanut butter, Karo syrup) and Smuckers have all come out with some form of nutritional labeling. Others will soon follow.

Each nutrition label must give serving size, amount of calories per serving and amounts of various nutrients per serving. The nutrients will be listed as percentages of the government's "recommended daily allowance" which includes such nutrients as protein, vitamins A and C, calcium, iron and various B vitamins.

It will be almost impossible, however, to try to note all the nutrient percentages in order to come up with a complete daily allowance score.

Actually, the nutrition labels should be used as a point of balance comparison shopping guide. For example, when you compare cans of soup you'll find that some give far more of a nutritional buy than others. Some are quite high in protein, others are almost flavored water.

Another way to use nutritional labels for comparison shopping is to compare nutrients in national brands with those in local brands. If the nutrition lists are the same, then you can buy the least expensive brand—unless there's a big taste difference, why pay more?

Item—Cheese pizza will emerge as a much more nutritious food than most of us imagined. One modest wedge contains good amounts of protein and calcium and fairly good amounts of vitamin C, vitamin A and the B vitamins.

Item—Cantaloupe and watermelon will emerge as extraordinary nutritional buys. One slice of cantaloupe contains more than half the vitamins A we need for the day, half the vitamin C and has only 30 calories. Watermelon has large amounts of vitamin C, and A plus iron and some B vitamins.

When comparing nutritional labels of similar products, the trick is to get the most nutrition for the least amount of calories.

Pillsbury has a good booklet, "The Label is More Than Decoration," which helps decode the new labels item by item. It also lists the required nutrients and why we need them. You can get a free copy by writing: Dept. of Nutrition, 640C Pillsbury Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn. 55402.

Presgraves new manager

Max R. Presgraves, of Hemlock Avenue, has been named manager of the new full line Montgomery Ward store scheduled to open next month on Victory Blvd., in Portsmouth. He was formerly store manager of the Ward's retail store in Fredericksburg, Va.

A native of Clarke County, Presgraves joined Ward's in 1964 as a salesman. In 1967 he was appointed a department manager in Winchester, Va. He progressed through positions of increasing responsibility and in 1968 was named manager of the automotive center in Winchester. He later served as operating manager in several large Ward stores before being named manager of Fredericksburg in 1970. Presgraves and his wife, Norma Faye, have two children, Max, Jr., 16, and Kenneth, 13.

'Barefoot in the Park': professional and hilarious

Tidewater Dinner Theatre has opened perhaps the most professional production of Neil Simon's hilarious comedy "Barefoot in the Park" yet to be seen in this area.

It is professional from its set-which effectively and elaborately utilizes the theatre's plant stage-to its delightful cast, a combination of New York and local talent.

Christopher Cooney has done an excellent job in directing this show, bringing out the best in the performers and giving full room to Simon's quick, sharp humor.

Chris Rhodes, who has starred in a number of area dinner theatre productions, truly comes into her own in "Barefoot." She literally shines as the strong-willed wife who, on only six days of marriage, sees her lawyer-husband as a "stuffed shirt" simply because he doesn't conform to her own kooky life style. Not that she really wants him to be a weirdo; she merely wants him to show her a little more of his own kooky life style. That's the way she wants him. She thinks.

Miss Rhodes is a bundle of lovely energy as she bounces about the large stage. Her interpretation and execution of this challenging role is a perfect blend of good talent and fine direction.

Tom Weller as the struggling young lawyer who is awarded six cents on his first jury case is appropriately stuffy, even slightly wooden, in act one. But he easily slips into the warm and, yes, drunk and uninhibited person the role demands in the last act. He's an appealing young actor, perfectly cast.

Denise Derenque, as the bride's very proper mother who tries diligently to fit in as one of the guys, is a true professional. She overcame a slipped wig

'Barefoot' expanded

"Barefoot in the Park," Neil Simon's hit Broadway comedy, has been expanded to play Wednesdays through Sundays at Tidewater Dinner Theatre. The comedy is playing in repertory with Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" which will now play on Tuesdays only. "Virginia Woolf" was originally slated to play Tuesdays through Thursdays, but lack of interest in that show and advance sales for "Barefoot" indicate that audiences prefer to see "Barefoot," according to Alan Sader, owner-manager of the theatre. Reservations for either play may be made by calling 420-0933.

Jeanne Davis places first in art show

Jeanne M. Davis of Virginia Beach, a senior art major at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, received a $300 purchase award as first prize in the fourth annual State Student Art Competition held at the school and open to students from colleges and universities throughout the state.

Miss Davis won first place for an untitled mixed media painting and an honorable mention for a second untitled painting. She won over 100 students from 14 other colleges and universities who exhibited entries in various categories. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Davis of East Bay Shore Drive.

Schertle Gallery exhibits Tenney and Hurley works

This month's double-feature show at the Schertle Art Gallery features works by John B. Tenney of Norfolk and Claire Hurley of Virginia Beach.

Hurley is a versatile artist with unique works, including silk screen, abstracts, realistic works and "fish prints" which use an old Chinese art form.

Ms. Hurley's works are more traditional landscapes and portraits in acrylics and oils. The exhibit is open to the public at the Schertle Gallery, 402 Virginia Beach Blvd., one block west of Pembroke Mall. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

The Tenney-Hurley exhibit will be on view through the month of March and may be held over until April, according to Burton H. Jones, gallery president.

Local dancers to perform

Jenna Anne Liles and Jane Carrie Taylor, both of Virginia Beach, are members of Orchesis, the modern dance group at the College of William and Mary, which will present "An Evening of Dance," March 21 and 22 in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

A selection of nine dances, choreographed by members of Orchesis, will represent a variety of moods from serious to whimsical.

situation opening night with so much aplomb that the mishap merely added to the show's hilarity. I'm actually sorry other audiences will not have an opportunity to enjoy the fun of watching "mother" regain her dignity with a lopsided hair style! It was a lucky day for Cooney, and Tidewater Dinner Theatre, when he found this accomplished actress in New York.

The role of the slightly aging, but sex-conscious, neighbor of the young couple is one that invariably seems to provoke excessiveness: overacting, overaccenting, etc. But Mark Costigan in this production finds the happy medium. His characterization of Victor Velasco is the best I've seen; even better than Charles Boyer's screen role. Costigan plays it for laughs but not to such extreme as to become tiresome or ridiculous. He plays Victor as a warm, lonely man who finally drops his shield of wit and charm and lets his hair, to begin acting his age. The only other role in this comedy is that of the telephone repairman and I have yet to see "Barefoot" when this minor role didn't almost pull the spotlight out from under the leads. And so it is with John Perkins' performance at Tidewater. His breathlessness at tackling the six flights to the couple's apartment, his rapid fire comments, even his expressions, are simply perfect. He's a scream.

Even if you have seen this play before you will enjoy it with new vigor this go around. This is a package of good entertainment, the food, the play, the performances. It's Neil Simon at his best. And Tidewater Dinner Theatre does it full justice.

—Ruby Jean Phillips

The talk is sponsored by ODU's Committee on Visiting Scholars and Artists and the American Institute of Biological Sciences.

Lehman, deputy director of the U.S. Department of Commerce's Office of Ecology and Environmental Conservation, will hold informal discussions in several ODU biology classes

Scouts help Easter Seal Campaign

Twenty-eight Girl Scouts of Troop 134, from the Plaza area of Virginia Beach, are working diligently towards earning a troop proficiency badge by helping the Virginia Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults prepare for its annual Easter Campaign.

After school and on Saturdays, the girls report to the new Easter Seal Center at 3101 Magic Hollow Boulevard to package Easter Seals for mailing to volunteers who will distribute them from door to door and accept contributions.

The girls, who range in age from 12 to 15, designed the Troop Badge to be earned in this instance. They decided to do a community service project for handicapped people as a troop effort and name the badge to be earned "Scouting Together."

Dee Dallman, Arline Boyle and Isabel Hennick are housewives and leaders of Troop 134. Aside from homemaking they have devoted much of their time to developing an interesting program for their Girl Scouts.

Dee Dallman explained that the girls are most eager to take on the many scouting projects in their manual as well as outside ones such as the Easter Seal program. "Last year the girls earned 150 badges and one of the troop, Pam McComas, made First Class Scout before the end of her three years as a Cadette." First Class Scout is the highest plateau that can be attained in the Girl Scouts.

Troop 134 has so far completed more than two thousand envelopes for mailing for the Virginia Easter Seal Society.

A.M. Kamp, Jr., Regional Director for the Society stated, "The Girl Scouts are doing an excellent job for which we are most grateful. It is refreshing to observe the efficiency and the responsible actions of these girls working together. Their leaders are to be congratulated."

Pack 411 holds banquet

Cub Scout Pack 411 held its Blue and Gold Banquet recently at Thalia Trinity Presbyterian Church, followed by the regular pack meeting.

Mrs. Gay Rice and Mrs. Norman Moffett co-ordinated the banquet. J.A. Richendollar of the PAVAB District Office was the speaker.

Scouts selling the most tickets to the recent Scout-A-Rama were presented special awards. They were Keith Hartman, Steven Hayes and Brian Harrell.

Ricky Lue and Andy Leib were welcomed into the pack as Bobcats. Peter Aranyi received a Wolf badge and Steven Hayes received a silver arrow under wolf. David Arriss received a one-year pin with perfect attendance and a gold arrow under wolf. David Weiner was elected denner and Larry Mansfield assistant denner.

David Balako graduated into Webelos awards went to Mike Harrell, who also received a two-year pin, geologist pin and was elected for perfect attendance. Nick Hopkins received a scholar award and Pat Tetterton a geologist badge.

Sixty boys earned salesmanship badges by selling allotted amount of Scout-A-Rama tickets. Cubmaster Early Hopkins presided at the meeting.

Man shot at Beach

Marshall R. Woodhouse, Jr., 30, of Blackwater Loop, has been charged with the murder of Randolph H. Christian, 34, of Route 4, Blackwater.

Christian was shot early Saturday morning on 17th Street and apparently walked a block to 17th and Mediterranean before collapsing, according to police. His body was found on the sidewalk on 17th and Mediterranean.

Court proceedings against Woodhouse are pending.

Cab driver slain

James Patton Anderson II, 23, of Ferry Plantation Road, and two juveniles, 14 and 15, were charged Sunday with murder and armed robbery in connection with the robbery-slaying of a cab driver, Harold Allen Waterfield, 44, of Route 2, Smithfield.

The driver was slain Friday night in Blackwater Borough. The three suspects are all from Virginia Beach. Anderson is being held in the Virginia Beach Jail in lieu of $75,000 bail. The two youths are in the Chesapeake detention home. Police said that Waterfield was shot once in the back of the head with a small-caliber weapon. His wallet had been emptied of cash, police said. Waterfield's body was found in his cab on Indian Creek Road Friday night after a resident reported to police that the cab had hit a tree.

Meat boycott urged

Beach housewives angry

By DONNA HENDRICK

President Nixon has stated that consumer boycotts are ineffective uses of "people power."

Mrs. Virginia Knauer, the President's top adviser on consumer affairs, has said that consumers should buy cheaper cuts of meat until meat prices come down.

Experts predict that meat prices will not be lowered until the mid-1970s. But many consumers feel that they and their pocketbooks cannot wait until then.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tate and Mrs. Linda Hall of Virginia

Beach are now calling for Tidewater-area consumers to join in the nationwide meat boycott the week of April 1.

Mrs. Tate and Mrs. Hall are not especially militant, radical or even organized. They're just angry.

"I'm mad because I can't afford to feed my family meat," Mrs. Hall said. "And my husband makes $200 a week, which is a pretty decent salary."

Mrs. Hall is not a member of any professional consumer group, nor is she acting on the part of any group to publicize the boycott. She is simply trying to call as many friends as she can to ask them to join the boycott. She is doing the footwork and preparing flyers to be distributed to shoppers asking them to help. But she has hit a snag as far as the City of Virginia Beach is concerned.

"I called Virginia Beach, Norfolk and Chesapeake about distributing our flyers," Mrs. Hall said, "and of the three, Norfolk is the only one that said they couldn't care less what we do with our flyers. But Chesapeake and Virginia Beach say we can't distribute them because of the anti-litter laws."

The specific code Mrs. Hall has run up against is City Code 3-1, amended July, 1971, by ordinance 351, which makes it unlawful to "scatter or cause to be scattered" handbills or anything that litter the city's streets or sidewalks.

But Mrs. Hall is undaunted. The meat boycott will start April 1 in Tidewater, handbills or no handbills. During the boycott, which will be in effect from Sunday, April 1, through Saturday, April 7, consumers are asked not to buy meat or meat products of any kind.

This includes all fresh cuts of meat, poultry, TV dinners, canned dinners, lunch meats, bacon, hot dogs and anything else canned, frozen or fresh, containing meat of any kind.

Mrs. Hall pointed out that fish, which is not included in the boycott, is a good meat substitute, although fish prices have been rising steadily, too.

She also said that the boycott should extend to all business establishments selling meat - including the various commissaries in the area.

"Meat is high in the commissaries, too, even if it is a little bit lower than in the supermarkets," Mrs. Hall said.

EMOTIONAL HOMECOMING - Each arrival of a new group of former POWs seems to grow in emotional intensity, as evidenced by the deep feeling reflected by these young people on

Brickell is top Administrator

Virginia Beach School Superintendent E.E. Brickell has been selected as the state's "Educational Administrator of the Year" by the Executive Board of the Virginia Association of Educational Secretaries. With the selection comes a nomination for the National Educational Administrator of the Year award.

In selecting Brickell and nominating him for the national honor, the Virginia Association cited the Virginia Beach educator for his integrity, sincerity, professionalism, and compassion.

"Mr. Brickell," says the official nomination, "...is always available for discussion of any problems."

The Board also praised Brickell for his active interest in the personal and professional well-being of educational office personnel and added, "Since becoming superintendent in 1968, he has worked tirelessly to improve the professional status of educational office personnel."

This, the Board said, is evidenced by the adoption of a classified salary scale by the Virginia Beach School Board and the granting of a special increase for secretaries holding professional certificates.

In concluding their nomination of Brickell for the national administrator title, the secretaries' association said, "The sincere interest and concern displayed by Mr. Brickell for all educational office personnel has promoted a close working relationship and a mutual understanding and respect between our Administrator and his secretaries."

Court Friends meeting tonight

The Virginia Beach Juvenile Court Friends, a new organization which assists children who come before the Virginia Beach Court, will hold a general meeting on Thursday, March 22, at 7:30 p.m. at the Princess Anne High School Auditorium.

The group was formed in November to assist the Court in certain areas where help is desperately needed. One of the group's goals is to provide temporary foster home for children who cannot remain at home but who should not be placed in detention homes.

The group is also interested in providing probation homes for juvenile residence after the Court makes a final decision on the future of so-called "incorrigible" children.

Gilbert Wilson, a Virginia Beach attorney, is serving as temporary chairman of the Court Friends. Ten temporary members of the board of directors are Gilbert H. Wilson, Ramona B. Stenzhorn, Madge M. Gilbert, Frances E. Runzo, Ralph G. Garner, Daniel J. Arris, Pattie Rinehart, Carolyn Pollie, Robert Kantner and Frank W. Kellam. The 10 will serve until the group is officially chartered.

All persons interested in the problems of children who come before the Court are urged to attend tonight's meeting.

McLeskey fill not in violation

By LES LEHIGH

Questions were renewed this week as to whether any wrong-doings are involved in placing sand on developer F. Wayne McLeskey's property bordering Pleasure House Creek in the Ocean Park area.

The answer according to federal and city officials is no. Of concern is the presence of work crews spreading additional sand on the property which was acquired as a "spoils site" in the 1967 dredging of the Lynnhaven River.

Frank Clarke, a monitor for the Central Atlantic Environment Service, Wash., D.C., questioned whether sand was being placed on wetlands contained in McLeskey's property in violation of the federal Wetlands Act, and if the work was being performed without the issuance of a use permit.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers discounted any violation of the Wetlands Act involving any marshlands coming under their jurisdiction. He said, "The line of jurisdiction is the mean highwater shore line. We do not have jurisdiction shoreward of that line, and the working area is shoreward of that line."

"While the area contains some marsh this is high marsh, meaning higher than the high water shore line. The area being worked now is under State law and could come under the Virginia Beach Wetlands Board."

Clarke's question of wetlands violation was also discussed with William Fleming, City Community Services Director, who said, "As far as I'm concerned this all began prior to the Wetlands Act and is covered under the (Continued on Page 2)"

Whitehurst will be featured speaker at a mass meeting, 2 p.m. at Little Island City Park at Sandbridge, sponsored by the Concerned Citizens for Conservation and Recreation in opposition of closing the Refuge.

Other invited guests concerned with issue include North Carolina Congressman Walter B. Jones.

Of concern is prohibiting vehicular traffic from a four mile beachfront strip of the Refuge, as well as North Carolina's Outer Banks.

CZO linked to taxes

The newly revised Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance, according to Roger Newell of the Planning Department, has raised concern over the CZO's affect on taxes.

Newell, who assisted in answering questions during the past two weeks public review of the CZO and accompanying maps, said, "Many people are confusing zoning and tax assessments that they've just received. They feel the assessments are based on zoning."

Newell explained, "In a lot of cases zoning doesn't affect taxes that much. Proposed zoning changes doesn't affect taxes at all. Existing zoning would affect taxes if zoning and marketability of land were related." He indicated this affect would result from increasing property values by increased commercialization of any area.

The construction of Old Donation Road, according to Newell has also raised some concern. He said, "The people in Little Neck in particular are becoming aware of the fact that old Donation Road is going to be built across Little Neck. They're asking how this affects zoning of their property."

In discussing overall reaction to the CZO revisions Newell said, "The Planning Commission's proposals are sufficiently similar to existing zoning no one is terribly upset over what he got."

Newell expressed what can be interpreted as public apathy over the new CZO and maps. He said, "There has been less public reaction than anticipated. People simply check on their own piece of property and are not concerned with the city's overall picture."

Protest rally

G. William Whitehurst, 2nd District Representative, is expected this Sunday to ask for keeping the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge open to people and vehicular traffic.

Whitehurst will be featured speaker at a mass meeting, 2 p.m. at Little Island City Park at Sandbridge, sponsored by the Concerned Citizens for Conservation and Recreation in opposition of closing the Refuge.

Other invited guests concerned with issue include North Carolina Congressman Walter B. Jones.

Surfing still okay near fishing pier

The city does still permit surfing in the area of the Steel Pier near Rudee Inlet, according to a statement released Monday.

The communique from the city's office of public information explained the mix-up this way:

"In compiling this year's surfing area list, the Steel Pier site was inadvertently deleted from the list of these acceptable surfing sites. As in the past, surfing is to be permitted in the vicinity of the Steel Pier.

"Surfing will be permitted from sunrise to sunset in that area located between 3rd Street and 5th Street. It has never been the intention of the city to limit surfing in this area."

Male volunteers prove asset to Beach Hospital

By HELEN CRIST

Does it surprise you to learn that there are male volunteers at the General Hospital of Virginia Beach?

It really shouldn't. As Miss

Sue Brooke, chairman of Volunteer Services says: "We had male volunteers even when we were in the old building."

It is, Miss Brooke says that

With the hospital growing as naturally they have more places in which male services are used.

She lists six men now serving: Frank Israel and Robert Korff, gift shop; Charles McCormick, business office; Henry Stearns, central sterile supply; Michael Perkins and Gary Weiler, emergency room.

As for the gift shop, it becomes a team service, with husband and wife, Frank and Eloise ("Squee") Israel, taking the Sunday and Monday evening shift, and Robert and Janet Korff, reporting in on Thursday night.

The Korffs also work as a team at the London Bridge Hardware Co., where Janet keeps the books for the family-owned business.

The most amazing items are sold at the hospital gift shop, Frank Israel said.

"Anything from a 3-cent piece of candy to a $50 Italian linen bed sheet and pillow case set will go."

The shop is open day and night. Business has increased since its removal from the coffee shop to its present entrance at the right of the main entrance. Fifteen volunteers staff it.

The Israel family makes many of the crafts in the gift shop shelves: Christmas and Easter ornaments, terrariums, live orchids.

Orchids are Israel's specialty. The founder and first president of Tidewater Orchid Society, and now employed by Lord and Burnham Greenhouse Corp., Israel created the orchid garden in the hospital lobby.

"My wife was a patient there two years ago. After she recovered and left the hospital I thought it would be a nice gesture to put in a live garden."

So he secured permission and brought in the orchids, ferns and other flowers. He tends the garden himself every other night "...come rain, snow, sleet or whatever."

So beautiful are the orchids, that the question is often asked: "Are they real?"

Israel says that the garden is self-contained. When an orchid bloom fades, he removes and replaces the plant. The ferns, too, require attention every 24 hours, if they are to remain moist and healthy.

A side benefit of the garden is the fountain, into which people throw pennies.

"All the money goes toward the Coronary Care Unit - there's been about $500 in two years," he says.

Israel says it's been his sincere pleasure to work in a volunteer capacity for the hospital.

Brickell reappointed as division superintendent

E.E. Brickell, division superintendent of Virginia Beach Public Schools, was unanimously reappointed to a four-year term by the School Board at its regular meeting Tuesday.

Brickell thanked the board for their appointment, saying, "I thank you all for the support you have given to the administrative staff. I'm very, very happy to be a part of this school system."

The appointment came shortly after Brickell was named Administrator of the Year by the executive board of the Virginia Association of Educational Secretaries.

Charles McCormick, who has chalked up 512 hours in five months. His is the only daytime work by the male volunteers.

Assigned to the business office, he was, until his retirement, in the administrative field at the Welding Shipyard Division National Oil Carriers, Norfolk.

"I felt for some time back that if the opportunity ever presented itself, I'd like to do volunteer work in a hospital," he says.

McCormick himself, was a hospital patient last June at the Virginia Beach Hospital. It was determined then, that he had suffered an aneurysm of the aorta, resulting in its replacement with a plastic artery.

In the interim his wife died. His only child, Janet, is a music supervisor in Chester County, Pa.

"I didn't care to stay home as much by myself then, and being active for about 60 years, I felt it would be good therapy and make some contribution through service to others, if I did some volunteer work," he says.

So he began his duties at the hospital in the business office in late September, 1972.

Has he been successful? Miss Brooks says that after he'd been there a few weeks, she inquired of staff members how he was getting along. "They told me that he had already finished work that they had been behind on for months."

So the volunteer work is a mutual benefit, it appears...and it's even non-discriminatory.

Take the case of the Auxiliary to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach Gift Shop. An impressive title, this, but it was even more so when it carried the prefix "Women's" before the name.

Very quietly, Miss Brooks said: "We thought it would be a good idea to remove that word so we could use the male volunteers too."

Brickell told member of the school board that a brochure explaining the new kindergarten program in the city's schools will go out to every home in Virginia Beach within the next few days.

Included in the brochure is information on eligibility, attendance, school calendar, participating schools, transportation, hours of attendance, curriculum, class size, dress and registration. Kindergarten registration will be held at the same time as the regular first grade registration program on April 5, 6 and 7 in all of the city's elementary schools except Kemps Landing and Bettie F. Williams, which have no primary grades.

TITLE II FUNDS

The Virginia Beach city schools received $54,742 this year under Title II of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Schools Act. The funds are to be used for library materials and visual aids. Brickell reported that $30,000 will go to the Educational Media Center and the balance of the funds will be distributed on a per pupil basis throughout the schools, including funds to

SEWAGE IMPROVEMENTS

SQUARE DANCING IN SCHOOLS

The Board deferred for 30 days action on a request by two square dance clubs to continue to hold dances in Bayside and Kempsville High Schools. The Board determined that present school policy does not allow so-called "outside" groups to hold dances in the schools and charge admission. The Board considered the feasibility of providing adult square dance instruction under the direction of the Department of Parks and Recreation, which would allow the clubs to continue to meet at the schools.

the property owner remove all fill material from the marshes and restore wetlands to original configuration and elevation, and if necessary to accomplish this refer the matter to the U.S. Attorney. The Corps source replied, "We have looked into it and the decision was there was insufficient evidence to refer it to the U.S. Attorney."

In answering the question of why City work crews and equipment are spreading sand over privately owned property Berger replied, "Because the Army did not put the sand back in the right area. This is now the responsibility of the City, and this is what is being done."

Berger also said that since the current work is a direct result of the initial agreement reached in acquiring a "spoil site" no further permit is required.

Reverend Robert B. Newland, Chairman, City Wetlands Board, cited the above actions as basis for the Board not becoming involved in the matter.

Clarke also questioned why the Army hasn't followed recommendations of the U.S. Department of Interior of last December. Specifically that Booths will be judged on Thursday. The fair will be open to the public on Thursday from 5 to 9:30 p.m., Friday from 5 to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Abernathy appointed to international post

H.S. Abernathy, the Virginia Beach Public School's Assistant Superintendent for Business Affairs, has been appointed to the Accounting and Finance Research Committee of the Association of School Business Officials of the United States and Canada.

Abernathy, the former Superintendent of Nansmond County Schools, had been a teacher, principal, and administrator in the Virginia public schools for more than 30 years. He has been with the Virginia Beach Public School System since 1968.

He will serve a three year term with the Association of School Business Officials which is an international professional education organization dedicated to researching, determining, and disseminating better methods of school business administration. The organization's major purpose is to identify and promote the use of the most effective budgetary and accountability practices.

Broken Needles sets Drug Awareness Week

Mayor Robert B. Cromwell Jr. has proclaimed April 2 through April 8 as "Broken Needles Drug Awareness Week."

Broken Needles, now at its new home at 5445 Connie Lane, is a non-profit, Christian organization dedicated to helping drug abusers.

During the special week, the Broken Needles Hotline will be open to persons who have questions about drug abuse in addition to being open to drug addicts and abusers.

On the last two days of the week, April 7 and 8, Broken Needles will sponsor an exhibit on drug abuse. The exhibit will be held from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the new Broken Needles center.

Many area police bureaus will join Broken Needles in presenting the exhibit. The Chesapeake and Virginia Beach Narcotics Squads will send a display and a representative. The Norfolk Narcotics Squad will send audio-visual aids and display materials.

The Virginia Beach Youth Bureau will have a display correlating drug abuse and juvenile delinquency. Youth Bureau representatives will also be at the exhibit to answer questions.

The U.S. Customs Bureau Norfolk office will have a display on drug smuggling. Customs officers will also be present to answer questions.

OF THE TRAILER-POX!

WE HAVE A BAD CASE OF THE... "TRAILER-POX"

That's a disease we're afflicted with quite often. The symptoms are easily recognized. FIRST...the victim notices a plot of land, which must be cleared up immediately.

SECOND...there is that funny growth -- called a "trailer" -- which suddenly appears on the cleared plot of land.

THIRD...if that funny growth is not restricted, it eventually takes the form of an "office."

FOURTH...and final, you'll notice an accumulation of white and red cells around the funny growth. A group of these cells is called a "human."

Our most recent out-break of TRAILER-POX can be seen at 6213 Indian River Road. Within a few months, our "trailer" will be carefully removed, and a new "office"

— called PEOPLE'S BANK IF VIRGINIA BEACH — will appear.

Incidentally, we're very contagious. The human form is highly susceptible to our friendly, personal way of banking. So, unless you want to become addicted to us... LOOK OUT!...or you might develop a case of the PEOPLE'S-POX.

Midshipman First Class Louis L. McGinty has been named one of six battalion sub-commanders at the U.S. Naval Academy.

Marine Pvt. John E. Crow is enrolled in the Center Area Course at the San Diego Marine Corps Recruit Depot.

Navy Petty Officer Third Class William R. Stock has returned to his homeport at the Naval Weapons Station, Concord, Calif.

Petty Officer Second Class Ray M. Peachhouse has been elected president of the Norfolk chapter of the Naval Enlisted Reserve Association.

Teen cooks in contest

Teenage barbecue chefs from throughout Virginia are being invited to compete in the second annual Virginia chicken barbecue championship for youth, part of the Virginia Poultry Festival in Harrisonburg in May.

Using approved charcoal barbecuing methods and their own sauce concoctions, the young people will vie for honors at the Rockingham County Fairgrounds, beginning at 10:00 a.m. Saturday, May 19.

Deadline for entries is April 1, according to John Martin of Harrisonburg, chairman of the event. Martin has headed the huge chicken barbecue at the Rockingham County Fair for a number of years.

Martin said that eligibility is limited to ages 14-19, sponsored by recognized youth organizations. Each contestant will furnish his own grill, barbecue sauce and utensils, but chicken and charcoal will be furnished for the participants.

Judges who are experts in barbecuing and other food preparation areas are being selected for the championship, the chairman continued.

Special trophies are being provided by the Virginia Poultry Federation, Martin said. In addition, winners will receive nationwide publicity and may receive special gifts.

Entry forms have been mailed to Extension Agents, Home Economics teachers and Vocational Agriculture instructors throughout the Old Dominion, Martin said.

Cmdr. McDaniel is greeted by happy neighbors.

"Welcome Home Red"

Navy Cmdr. Eugene B. (Red) McDaniel last Wednesday returned to his Virginia Beach home, after spending nearly six years as a North Vietnamese POW, and a warm reception by hundreds of neighbors and well-wishers.

The spirit of the moment was reflected by handmade signs carrying messages such as, "Welcome Home Red", "It's nice to have you back", and "Happiness is the green, green grass of home—Welcome".

Nearly a half mile of the roadway leading to McDaniel's Alantone home was lined with people, many of them in their teens and younger. As McDaniel's auto moved past them he was greeted by cheers and applause.

As McDaniel and his wife Dorothy, who accompanied him on the drive from Fort Meade Naval Hospital, emerged from the auto he was rushed by the young people. As he walked towards the porch of his home to join waiting members of his family McDaniel reached out to shake hands with those surrounding him.

McDaniel's face reflected his joy in being home as he told those on hand, "God bless you all. It's really great to be home. In fact, it's almost worth those many years of experience this, almost, but not quite."

Referring briefly to his life as a POW, he said, "In Hanoi we clung to values we believed to be true. They were family, God, and red, white, and blue. It's people like you that make those many years worth while."

Noting that dense fog which covered the area for more than a week, and which forced diversion of the plane McDaniel came home on, Oceana from Norfolk Naval Air Station a week earlier, had cleared and the sun was shining he said, "My sun's been shining for 10 days and will go on shining for a long time."

It was just 10 days earlier that McDaniel had been released by his North Vietnam captors.

Dr. Sidney Oman guest speaker

Dr. Sidney S. Oman, director and general manager of Twiford Funeral Home, will speak on "Human and Public Relations" at the March meeting of the Association of American Medical Assistants, Wednesday, March 28, in the MediCenter on First Colonial Road. Cocktail hour begins at 6:30 p.m., dinner is at 7:30 p.m.

Daffodil show opens in April

The 39th Annual Daffodil Show of the Garden Club of Virginia opens April 7 in Gloucester County.

The show begins at 9 p.m. on Saturday, April 7, and closes at 8 p.m. on Sunday, April 8. It will be held in the gymnasium of the Gloucester High School.

Pickett will run

Incumbent Democratic Delegate Owen B. Pickett announced last week that he will seek re-election to the seat he now holds in the House of Delegates, representing Virginia Beach, subject to the Democratic primary.

Pickett was unable to attend the press conference scheduled last Thursday to announce his candidacy due to the critical illness of his mother. But his campaign manager, H. W. Cunningham, released for him Pickett's prepared statement:

"Two years ago when I announced as a candidate for one of the then newly created seats, I stated that I intended to conduct an independent campaign in the Democratic primary and dedicate myself to effectively representing the City of Virginia Beach in the Virginia House of Delegates."

"Since being elected to the House of Delegates, I have worked for programs to conserve public expenditures, particularly in the area of welfare payments. I have sponsored and worked for legislation to eliminate tolls in the Tidewater area; I have sponsored and worked for programs to aid the elderly; I have sponsored and worked for legislation to benefit the consumer, and I have supported programs for property tax reform."

"There is still much work to be done in the areas which I have already mentioned as well as new and expanded efforts to bring under control over ever-increasing expenditures for education, improved and meaningful programs for prison reform and rehabilitation of convicts, effective and lasting improvements to the quality of our environment, recreational facilities and leisure time activities for citizens of all ages, an enlightened and far-reaching transportation policy to conserve our resources and improve the quality of our lives, adequate sewer and water facilities to serve our citizens, a revised system for compensating victims of automobile accidents and more effective utilization of our resources at the State level."

"Having had the privilege and opportunity of serving as a delegate, I believe I have a keener understanding and appreciation of the many problems that effect our community and can make a valuable contribution toward solving them. I ask the support of all the people of Virginia Beach for this opportunity."

Financial aid may be cut

Federal financial assistance for students at Old Dominion University may have to be restructured in light of a possible cutback, according to Dana Burnett, director of financial aid and placement at the university.

Until some definitive action is taken by Congress on the status of federal assistance to college students, financial aid officers across the nation are in a quandary of unknown facts and figures, Burnett said.

"There are three major federal assistance programs for college students," Burnett said, "and the federal government has plans for a fourth."

"The problem is, the (Nixon) Administration wants to do away with two of the programs, cut back on one of them and set up this new one, and no one seems to know what will happen or when," he said.

Dr. Chester Swor is guest speaker

Dr. Chester Swor will be guest speaker March 25-30 at King's Grant Baptist Church, 873 Little Neck Road.

Dr. Swor will speak at 7:30 p.m. nightly except Sunday when services will begin at 7 p.m. A nursery will be provided for all services. Area youth choirs will sing nightly.

Dr. Swor has degrees from four universities, has written seven books and is a favorite speaker to youth. The public is invited to attend.

Save the children

In today's busy world, when life seems to be dominated by meetings, it is easy to shrug aside yet another meeting in favor of a quiet evening of television or family dinners or a gathering of friends.

But there is a meeting scheduled tonight that deserves the attention of those concerned about our youth.

The Virginia Beach Juvenile Court Friends, a newly formed group designed to assist youngsters who come before the Virginia Beach Court, will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Princess Anne High School Auditorium. This organization needs the support, and participation, of people who care about the problems of young people.

Of particular interest to this group are the plight of youngsters, especially girls, who must be held in the Tidewater Detention Home prior to court action and those who have no appropriate place to go once a court decision has been made. In many cases the charges stem from incorrigibility. Which means that the child cannot adapt to a home situation and the home environment may not be in the best interests of the child. In either case, a new residence is required, either group or individual foster homes.

Homes are needed for these children. Homes and family environments where they can escape lives and situations that have adversely affected them. A place to start over, to find themselves, to learn to understand.

There is also a need for tutoring. And employment opportunities, a very critical need. And adult male and female relationships for youngsters with a maternal or paternal identity void.

Most of these young people are victims of circumstances beyond their control. Yet, they are charged with the penalties. Their lives are yet in the formative stage; so much can yet be done to provide them with a happy, productive future. If they receive in time the love and care and understanding they so desperately need.

Here, in the Friends of the Juvenile Court, is an opportunity for sincerely concerned citizens to contribute in the most valuable, and rewarding, way possible to the future of Virginia Beach, to America. Through a helping hand to the young people who will one day be the leaders.

The meeting is tonight at 7:30 at Princess Anne High School. The need for help is 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Schedules are overburdened but when the need is so crucial, a few precious minutes can be spared by those who truly care about tomorrow. And the youth of today.

Letter tells it all

Mass tragedy that happens to others across the world, even to fellow Americans in other states, is far removed. Until it is brought home in a very personal way.

Such is the case of a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. R.S. Rydell of Virginia Beach from Mrs. Rydell's sister, Miss Cassie Rydell, who is now working with the American Red Cross in Chinandega, Nicaragua. In a letter dated mid-February, Miss Cassie described the devastation, the human suffering, inflicted by the giant earthquake that hit Managua, Nicaragua during the holidays.

In the following letter, reprinted with the permission of the Rydells, Miss Cassie reveals what she has seen and experienced. She lives with the Calleja family, other of Nicaragua's victims, and it is this letter that she refers to as "the house." She also refers to Frank Calleja, brother of the vice president.

Miss Cassie's letter suddenly makes the Managua earthquake tragedy very close, very personal.

"We arrived one hour late in Managua. Arriving over Managua they directed the city as we were able to get a very good view of the ruins. When we got to the city we were told that when we touched down the runways were rather bumpy and the terminal in bad shape. Everything was quiet, not much activity, where before there was music and people running around happy and gay. They had a make-shift thing, for customers didn't seem interested in what you had in your luggage...just acted sort of stunned, in a daze like Frank and his wife met us and said they were giving us a tour of a city in ruins. They both seemed to still be rather keyed up, under a lot of stress and strain. First we started from the airport; only a small part of the terminal was in use. Actually we shouldn't have been in there because it was cracked up a little more shake and it would go. As we rode down the highway into town you could see ruins on both sides and the nearer you came to Managua the worse it was. The airport is miles out of town. Finally we got to the worst part of the city. Our own risk because there were some people stealing, holding up people and, of course, there were soldiers around. Naturally we carried weapons in the car with us. It was hot, dry, dusty, morbid, smelly, offensive odors and everywhere you could see everything was in shambles. Some people still sitting through the rubble looking for things lost. They looked like I did in another world. The massive task it was to clean it up! I know I have never seen in my lifetime anything like it. I hardly believed it was actually seeing it. It was the worse thing I've ever seen, absolutely unbelievable. The decomposed bodies! You hear about a lot of incidents that happen, about different ones being buried alive, some burned, some shot, whole families being uncovered dead. There seems to be no end to it. The collapsed and shattered buildings; burned, destroyed homes...the human suffering. A little old lady sitting and crying on the curb, who pointed to the pile of rubble which had been her home and where her whole family and all their worldly possessions were buried. Another man who lost his children and home in the quake. When the man was shown a gun someone had found he asked to see it. He took it, he shot his wife, then shot himself. The town, in most areas, is encircled by barbed wire fences. A city of tents; thousands of them have been set up by the Facts on poison prevention

This is National Poison Prevention Week, an observance that has been widely publicized in recent days. But such an important observance deserves yet another reminder. For it is at the heart of families, especially those with young children, and every word that is printed may reach some parent, save some small life.

A special word of praise is due the pharmaceutical profession which has waged its own war on accidental poisonings.

Perhaps the most significant information to come out of the proposed national publicity is the "Editor's Fast Sheet 1973." And it is reprinted here in question and answer form in hopes it will arouse some small measure of awareness in this tragic problem.

Read it carefully. Post it in the bathroom next to the medicine cabinet. It may one day save a life in your own home.

Q. Now that the law requires many hazardous products to be in "childproof" packages, may I assume that I no longer have to worry about keeping things out of children's reach?

A. None of the so-called childproof packages is absolutely safe. Remember that children are ingenious and can figure out ways to gain entry — ways that we might not have thought of ourselves. The law itself recognized this in that it requires that the special packaging be difficult for most children to get into, but not all. The testing procedure takes this into account by requiring that a minimum of 90 per cent of these children tested shall be inhibited from opening the package.

Q. There are no small children in my home. Why do I have to use these hard-to-open safety packages?

A. The law allows each manufacturer to make a single size package that doesn't comply with the safety packaging standard for people who are either elderly or infirm. In the case of prescription drugs, the purchaser (or the physician who prescribes the medication) may indicate an option for either the safety or regular package. We hope, however, that people will use these safety packages because, so often, grandchildren or visitors with small children come into the home.

Q. Why aren't all household products in safety packages?

A. Right now, over half of the 30 most frequently ingested products are required to be in special packaging. The law is specific in stating that these household substances which have been involved in serious personal injury or illness among young children be specially packaged. Obviously, not all household products fall into this category. In addition, the law specifies that, in order to be considered for special packaging, such packaging must be feasible in that the technical superior exists to develop and produce such packaging; must be practicable in that such packaging lends itself to mass production; and must be appropriate in that the substance will be compatible with the type of container.

Q. I notice that aspirin are still available in the "old" type of container even though I understand that this product is now required to be in special packaging.

A. The law specifies that special packaging is required for what is packaged after the specified date. These products packaged prior to the effective date (in the case of aspirin, August 14, 1972) may continue to be sold. Furthermore, as indicated above, one "non-complying" size package will still be permitted.

Q. How will the consumer know if this safety packaging is effective?

A. Manufacturers of these products which are required to be specially packaged must submit samples to the Government of those packages which they are marketing. In addition, many manufacturers submit results of their data that are used to judge the effectiveness of the package, according to regulations specified by the Government. It is important to remember however, that the law specifies that the package be difficult for most children to open — not all. In addition, it is very important that the adult who uses the package use it properly — not only in getting it open but in being certain that it is resealed after use.

Q. What kind of products can I expect to find in special packaging?

A. In 1972, aspirin, certain types of liquid furniture polish (with a petroleum base), oil of wintergreen, and those drugs which are normally associated with drug abuse were required to be in special packaging. This year, certain preparations using lye, charcoal and cigarette lighter fluids, turpentine, methyl alcohol, sulfuric acid, prescription drugs (in oral dosage form), iron salt preparations, pesticides, and paint solvents are among those products which are or will be covered.

Q. If I find my youngster playing with a bottle of medicine, or a cleaner, how do I tell if he swallowed some and will become sick?

A. Reactions vary, depending on the product. In some instances, he may vomit. In others, he may appear to be drowsy or sluggish for no apparent reason; you may notice that the contents have been reduced, you may notice some of the residue (if it were a liquid, for example) around his mouth and teeth. It is important to get medical advice, even if you only suspect that he has ingested a potentially toxic product.

Q. Are there some first aid measures I can take when an ingestion takes place?

A. The first thing to do is to read the label. In many instances, first aid procedures suggest that the child be made to vomit. (Incidentally, in this connection, you should ask your pharmacist about getting a supply of Syrup of Ipecac in the home; this is used to induce vomiting and eliminate the necessity of using a spoon or some other gagging effort.) If the product which your child has ingested contains a lye or caustic, or a petroleum distillate, vomiting should not be induced. Other instances where vomiting should not be forced are when the child is either unconscious or in convulsions. We emphasize the necessity of reading the label. It will not only tell you what is in the product (so you will know if vomiting is desirable), but it also helps the doctor in being positive about his diagnosis and treatment. The label also will give first aid information.

Q. I have noticed that some poison control centers are not listed in the telephone directory; others are. Why is there a difference?

A. Each poison control center is locally operated. The center makes its own rules. Therefore, there are differences among the centers in how much distribution they wish to make of their telephone number and their services. In some areas, for example, the services of the poison control center are limited to the medical profession.

Q. We have been talking about poisonings among children. Do adults get poisoned accidentally?

A. Yes. Most often, it is due to carelessness — carelessness such as giving or taking medicine in the dark, mistaking one container for another, or putting a hazardous substance in a container used for drinking. We should store internal medicines separately from other household products; we should always use the original container. These actions will go a long way towards preventing not only accidents among adults, but among children as well.

Q. I have read that some children get lead poisoning from paint. What is paint?

A. Paint is a covering for unsuitable foods such as chalk, ash, paint chips. Lead poisoning among children is often associated with paint because they eat paint chips.

Q. Lead in paint is a serious problem if a child should ingest it. What is being done to correct this problem?

A. Starting in January, 1973 paint will be limited as to their lead content. This order will also apply to any toy or article intended for use by children which bears any paint or similar coating material.

Q. What about water-based, or latex type paints? Are there any hazards with these?

A. At least there is no lead. However, there may be preservatives, or fungicides that could cause problems. Ingredients such as these should be listed on the label.

Q. For years, my family has been taking vitamin supplements. I have read recently that these can be harmful. A. Vitamins, taken as directed on the label, can be considered safe. They should, however, as with all drugs, be kept out of reach of children.

Q. Does the banning of DDT mean that it is the only harmful insecticide that has been available to the public?

A. No. There are many pesticides that can cause poisoning. DDT was banned because it tends not to deteriorate and to accumulate in our environment.

Q. Are there any good housekeeping rules I can use to prevent poisoning accidents?

A. Keep all household products and medicines out of reach of youngsters and, preferably, locked up when not in use. When they are in use, they should never be out of sight of adults — even if it involves taking the product with them when answering the telephone or the doorbell.

Internal medicines should be stored separately from other household products.

Items should be kept in their original containers — never in cups or soft drink bottles.

All products should be properly labeled, and the label read before using.

The light should always be on when giving or taking medicines.

We should avoid taking medicines in front of children, since youngsters tend to imitate adults.

We should refer to medicines as medicines — not candy. Finally, the medicine cabinet should be cleaned out periodically. Prescription drugs no longer needed should be emptied down the drain, the container rinsed, and then discarded.

Q. Are there any antidotes that should be kept at home?

A. Every household with children should have a one-ounce container of Syrup of Ipecac for inducing vomiting. Activated charcoal should be kept on hand for administering first aid. (Check with your physician before you give them in a child.)

Q. Why are so many accidental poisonings related to children under 5 years of age?

A. Children under the age of 5 are in stages of growth and development where they are constantly exploring and investigating the world around them. This is the way they learn. It is a normal characteristic and should not be discouraged. Unfortunately, what children see and reach for, they place into their mouths. It is this hazard which we must seek to prevent.

Encroachment on citizens' rights

To the Editor:

I most certainly approve of the Council's decision to intervene on behalf of the citizens in keeping Back Bay Wildlife Refuge open to vehicular traffic.

The encroachment of the Federal government on the right of citizens is a terrifying thing. Town property and look forward to using the home I have on that property. My only access is by vehicle.

Keep refuge open

To the Editor:

I'm glad to see you conducting a survey on the matter of beach closure through Back Bay Wildlife Refuge.

I am just one small property owner in the development south of the Refuge and I recent the action by the U.S. Department of Interior in shutting me off from access to my property.

I have written to members of Congress to this effect and have received favorable replies from them. I have also government to help accommodate the homeless survivors. The Red Cross is there helping with food and other things. They kill all cats and dogs to keep down typhus fever. Help is still coming from other countries all the time. Managua is about the size of Tampa (Fla.).

Meanwhile, most of the people of Managua are still dazed, stunned, in shock by the tragedy that virtually wiped out their city and all they had dear in their lives. They are picking up the pieces, trying to build all over again.

After leaving Managua, going over to Chinandega, which is 30 miles North, it seems to be all right. There are thousands of extra people in Chinandega. At times I didn't know if my room would be full or not. But, luckily, it had been saved for me. Although there are 15-20 extra people staying there in the house.

Last week we had a terrible thing happen here at the house. A man, one of their cousins, about 45 years old, who had lost his business and home, shot himself. Couldn't bear to start life over again (I guess). He left three sons, a daughter and wife all staying at the house.

They food around 18 adults at mealtime. I don't know how many children!

The people in Nicaragua, as a whole, are all in a turmoil as to what to do. They just seem to wander around, going back to Managua, then coming back to Chinandega. Lots of things are in a mass confusion but I guess it will work itself out. It always does. Some people are putting up little huts around.

None of the Calleja family lost anything or anyone in the quake. They had all just moved down to the beach that afternoon.

Of course, the U.S. has disasters all the time, but we have lots of cities where Nicaragua only had one. You probably get more news than we do...no TV, no newspaper. I do have a radio. I suppose it takes a lot of planning to build a new city. But I'm sure they will make it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Deadlines

Run readers are reminded that the deadline for submitting articles for publication is Monday 10 a.m. Material received by 5 p.m. Friday, however, is greatly appreciated.

Those who sent information in by mail are encouraged, indeed urged, to mail it in ample time to reach the Sun office by Monday. Many notices of meetings and events are not appearing in the Sun because they are not received until Wednesday or Thursday.

Letters to the editor should be reasonable in length, written in good taste and MUST be signed. It is also desirable (but not necessary) to include a telephone number along with letters are never edited without the writer's permission.

The Virginia Beach Safety Council's drive to sell red triangular safety emblems for bicycles, devices that can easily be seen by motorists at both day and night, is now in its final stages. The drive is being conducted by the Virginia Beach Police Division, 1 wholeheartedly and enthusiastically endorse the Bicycle Safety Campaign which has been inaugurated by the Virginia Beach Safety Council.

The promotion of these bicycle safety emblems, which will have high visibility both in the daylight and at night, should in our estimation, curb the injury rate and perhaps the fatality rate of bicyclists in the City of Virginia Beach.

"The promotion of these bicycle safety emblems, which will have high visibility both in the daylight and at night, should in our estimation, curb the injury rate and perhaps the fatality rate of bicyclists in the City of Virginia Beach."

"In 1971, 9 bicyclists were involved in accidents, resulting in 65 injuries and 3 deaths.

"Compared to the three previous years, it is estimated that the death of bicyclists increased by 34 per cent in 1971 and injuries were up 37 per cent, nationwide.

"In 1972 bicyclists were involved in 96 accidents, resulting in 14 injuries and 1 fatality in Virginia Beach.

"Nationally, 9 out of every 10 bicyclists killed in traffic are between the ages of five and fourteen, and for every cyclist killed in traffic, 113 are injured.

"Bicycle riders generally precipitate accidents by unsafe actions, such as, falling to yield on entering a roadway and by riding against the traffic stream.

"To conclude, I commend the Virginia Beach Safety Council for their efforts to bring about a public awareness in the area of bicycle safety and urge every 'concerned citizens' and their off-the-road vehicles."

"It appears that those members of council who voted in favor of the city joining the protesting group are only catering to the desire of a few selfish, wealthy people who try to represent themselves as sportsmen when they are really only vandals."

"If the city takes legal action, it should be on the side of the conservationists and ecologists—not the Beach Buggy crowd."

On the other side of the ledger, one proponent made this suggestion: "I would suggest a license for beach vehicles—say about $10 a year, reversible for violations."

Another said quite simply: "Please keep the Back Bay Wildlife Refuge open to vehicle traffic."

As has been done in the past, the petitions will be turned over to City Council. And with another week to go on this question it seems likely there will be a number for council to consider. Especially if the conservationists get active.

Reassessment challenged

Recent reassessment of real estate by the City of Virginia Beach has been challenged as being illegal in a suit filed in Circuit Court.

Attorney Joseph L. Lyle, Jr., says that although the complainants in the suit are NOVAB Development Corp. and Hilltop Square Associates, "This is a class action on behalf of all real estate owners in the city."

Lyle is contending the assessments are illegal because they were not completed within the time span required by law. Lyle cites that portion of the City Code governing "Assessment Procedure" which says, "Except with respect to new construction and other cases where the same is not practicable, such assessments shall be completed not later than the 30th day of September of the year preceding the year for which the same shall be effective, and taxes for each year on such real estate shall be made on the basis of the last assessment made prior to such year, subject to such changes as may have been lawfully made."

Lyle points out "new construction..." is not involved in the challenged assessments.

This deadline of Sept. 30 for assessments is the main point of Lyle's action. He indicates he was told the "reassessment was not completed until on or about the 15th day of December 1972..." This clearly exceeds the deadline as prescribed by the City Code, according to Lyle.

Lyle further contends the agreement reached with Wingate Appraisal Service for the assessment of some 38,000 parcels of property violated the City Code deadline. To substantiate this Lyle cites records showing City Council on Aug. 30, 1971 accepted Wingate's offer for property assessment, at a cost of $196,000, which specified completion no later than Dec. 1, 1972, approximately 75 days beyond the required deadline.

The suit also contends City Code provisions regarding "Equalization of Assessments - Hearings to be Held" were also violated. These provisions state "...the City real estate assessor shall hold hearings as often as may be necessary between Oct. 1st and Nov. 30th in each year..." with property owners to evaluate grievances requesting equalization of assessments.

The suit contends "...that the affected parties were not notified thereof (the reassessed real estate value) until after Jan. 1, 1973." Lyle's suit is summarized in two main points, "... (1) your complainants contend the entire reassessment is void as being in violation of law, and (2) the equalization procedures are designed to relieve the inequality, rather than the basic validity, of reassessments."

America due home

On June 5, the USS AMERICA (CVA-66) departed Norfolk for a third period of extended operations in Southeast Asia. Now, almost 10 months later, the carrier and embarked Air Wing EIGHT are returning home. She will arrive at Norfolk Naval Station's Pier 12 on Saturday, March 24, at 11:15 a.m.

With arrival time rapidly approaching, members of the AMERICA Enlisted Wives' Club are actively engaged in a variety of homecoming projects. One such task is the painting of large banners carrying such greetings as "Welcome Home Lovers", "We're the Happiest Girls in the Whole USA" and "AMERICA'S Home", which will be displayed on the side of the host ship, the carrier USS JOHN F. KENNEDY (CVA-67).

Posters, bearing similar messages, will be held aloft by families and friends anxiously waiting on the pier. A billboard, located just off Hampton Boulevard near Gate 2, will convey the homecoming slogan "USS AMERICA Returns Home in Peace". Bumper stickers portraying the same message will be sold at Pier 12 Saturday morning.

To aid the wives in their endeavor, local merchants are also displaying welcome messages on their billboards and posters and Scope's television will flash homecoming greetings.

Pierside activities will promote the carnival atmosphere of this event. McDonald's clown, Ronald McDonald, equipped with 1000 balloons and the Kampus Klowners from Old Dominion University will be on hand to amuse the children. Honored guests and members of the AMERICA Enlisted Wives' Club will be wearing red, white and blue corsages made by the wives.

Additional entertainment will be provided by the Commander Naval Air Forces, U.S. Atlantic Fleet (COMNAVAIRLANT) Band, the Cox High School Naval Junior ROTC Drill Team and the Chiefsains band from Kempville High School. Refreshments will be available on the pier.

Although the ship's homecoming is of primary interest to the AMERICA families, anyone interested in participating in the festivities is invited and encouraged to attend.

Dillon to seek seat

Danny Dillon, Republican city chairman and an active GOP worker for the past four years, is the first Republican to announce his candidacy for the House of Delegates.

Dillon said his is only the first announcement, that another Republican will announce for the House "within the next two weeks."

There are four delegate seats at stake in the November election: the three Virginia Beach seats presently held by B.R. "Bev" Middleton, Glenn McClanahan and Owen Pickett and a new at-large seat to represent Virginia Beach, Chesapeake and Portsmouth.

Of the incumbents, only Pickett has announced he will seek re-election. However, Middleton and McClanahan are expected to run.

Dillon said he will seek one of the Beach seats, not the at-large seat.

Dog license crack down

Virginia Beach Police Chief W.W. Davis has announced re-implementation of door-to-door enforcement of the city's dog license ordinance.

Effective Monday, March 26, Animal Control Bureau dog wardens will canvas high density dog population neighborhoods to determine if dogs are properly licensed.

Two reasons underlie this policy re-implementation: Increasing number of dog bites in the city and ever present danger of rabies.

Dog licenses may be purchased from the City Treasurer's Office. Prices are $2 for a single dog, $15 for kennel of 20 dogs, $25 for kennel of 50 dogs.

Prior to receiving a dog license, the owner must have proof that the dog has been properly inoculated against rabies.

Failure to have a dog license may result in a fine of not less than $2 nor more than $10.

Studded tire use illegal April 1

Use of studded tires will be illegal in Virginia from April 1, to November 1, Colonel H.W. Burgess, Superintendent of State Police, warned recently.

He said that formerly the permissive dates for studded tires were from October 15 to April 15 but that the 1972 General Assembly changed these dates to November 1 and April 1.

Colonel Burgess continued in saying that there is concern among highway engineers as to whether these tires damage road surfaces to the extent that the safety potential is outweighed and that the Highway Department is conducting a continuing study on the matter.

Nominations open for Virginian of the Year

Readers of the Sun are invited to nominate a Virginian, no longer a resident of the state, who has brought honor to himself and thereby distinction to the Old Dominion, for the "Virginian of the Year" award of the Virginia Press Association.

The 1973 recipient will join such other illustrious former Virginians as U.S. Senator Hugh Scott; Ross R. Milliser, president of Philip Morris, U.S.A.; Frank McCarthy, producer of the multi-Oscar winning movie "Patton"; Christopher C. Kraft, Jr., director of the nation's Manned Space Flight Program; Dr. John G. Coli, Jr., president of Allied Chemical Corporation; and C. Vernon Cowan, vice-president of the C & O-B & O Railroads.

Deadline for nominations is May 15. Letters should be brief and to the point, should include the correct name, title and present mailing address of the nominee.

A nominee for the award should be a native Virginian no longer resident of the state, or a former resident of no less than 10 years duration prior to leaving Virginia, whose place of business or professional occupation is outside of the state. Personal accomplishments creating national prominence and reflecting favorable public attention to Virginia are the basic requirements for consideration.

The award is known as the Parks-Mason Memorial Award in memory of William Parks, the first Colonial Virginia printer, and George Mason, author of the Virginia Declaration of Rights which contained freedom of the press as one of its sections, the forerunner of the Federal Bill of Rights.

You have a lot going for you with today's electricity.

And you decide how much.

Because until you flip the switch or push in the plug, the washer doesn't wash, the dryer doesn't dry, the toaster doesn't toast—and the meter doesn't turn. But sometimes that can be hard to remember. Because today's appliances are so convenient that it's easy to forget them once you put them away—which makes it just as easy to forget the electricity you used to put them to work. And at Vepco we think that's only natural. Because all our thousands of trained people and the billions of dollars in equipment and technology are here for just one reason: to make sure you always have the economical electricity you need—whenever you decide to use it. And all you have to do is flip a switch or push in a plug. But if you ever do think about electricity—and especially if you only think about it when the bill comes—we hope you'll remember that you decide how much you're going to use. We're here to see that you get all you require.

We make what it takes to make it all work.

VIRGINIA BEACH. Where The Living Is Lovely

Realtors De Graduates

Three Virginia Beach Realtors received awards at the Virginia Beach Board of Realtors meeting Thursday, March 15. Mr. Cliff Lewis, with the Virginia Beach School Board's Distributive Education Program, presented awards for completion of 100 hours of Adult Distributive Education to Mr. Beverly Allen, Estes Realty; Lucille M. Salkowski, Pembroke Realty and Insurance, and D.A. "Jim" Meyer, Estes Realty.

"Dev" Allen is a native of Norfolk; he retired in 1969 after 21 years in the U.S. Army. He has been with Estes Realty since its beginning in September, 1971. He and his family reside in Pembroke Manor. Lucille Salkowski, Residential Rental Agent with Pembroke Realty and Insurance Agency, Inc. is a licensed real estate saleswoman and has been with Pembroke for the past three years. She is also a Property Management Specialist. Mrs. Salkowski attended Norfolk Business College, is a native of Norfolk, and has been a resident of Virginia Beach since 1960. She resides in Thoroughgood with her husband, CDR. Wm. F. Salkowski (ret. U.S.N.).

"Jim" Meyer, a native of Grand Rapids, Minnesota, retired in Virginia Beach after 21 years in the U.S. Navy as a naval aviator. He, his wife, and two children have made their home in Lake Smith Terrace (West) since November 1968. Licensed as a Real Estate Salesman in December 1971, "Jim" joined Estes Realty Corporation where he was awarded a trophy as Salesman of the Year for 1972. Having completed the Distributive Education Diploma Program, he has registered for the April GRI "A" course in Charlottesville. Future plans include designation as GRI and eventual designation as a Certified Residential Broker (CRB).

Local Realtors Attend Convention

The president of a national marketing network of Realtors holding its annual convention at the New Orleans Marriott, told an audience of 1,200 persons that to be successful in the ever-changing climate of real estate necessitates a progressive look to the 1970's.

Geo. P. Shafran, of Arlington, Va., speaking before Realtor representatives of 725 member offices of National Multi List Service's Home For Living Network, said changing times have encompassed the real estate profession along with everything else.

Attending the convention from Higgins Realty, Inc. were: C.M. Harrison, George D. Johnston, Murry L. Buck and James E. Cochrane.

The HFL Network programs include each member's publishing of Homes for Living magazine displaying photos, prices and descriptions of homes available in each market area, an Industry Relations Program assailing major corporate transfers, an Equity Purchasing Plan guaranteeing the equity of a seller's home thus eliminating the red tape of selling and moving.

A Guaranteed Home Trade-In Program, and monthly distribution nationally of commercial and investment property listings.

Climaxing the convention was the Third Annual Awards Banquet where Marion Sargent, of Lincoln, Nebraska, was honored as the HFL Network Realtor of the Year.

Virginia J. Opallo

The Terry Corporation of Virginia, a Virginia Beach-based building firm has announced the appointment of Mrs. Virginia J. Opallo as director of their newly formed Consumers Representative Department, coordinating customer service for all Terry home buyers.

Mrs. Opallo has banking and loan processing experience and more recently worked for Pembroke Realty & Insurance Agency, Inc., in the resale department.

ment; she holds a real estate license. Mrs. Opallo resides at Chesapeake Colony, Virginia Beach, with her husband Emilio Opallo and their three daughters. Mr. Opallo is president of Ceramic Tile Contracting Company, Virginia Beach.

The Realtors' Institute, sponsored by the Virginia Association of Realtors and held at the University of Virginia, is the only school of its kind in the State. It is the second oldest in the country, outranked in length of service only by the North Carolina Institute. Twice annually in July and December - ninety hours of instruction, covering 23 categories of real estate practice, are offered to those persons engaged in the real estate field. Last year more than 800 real estate practitioners attended the Institute, while over 600 attended during the 1970 Sessions. Since the inception of this school of higher learning in 1956, 475 persons have received the GRI accreditation and are entitled to wear a lapel pin to this effect and to display the GRI insignia.

A moderately good crowd of spectators braved cloudy skies and lined the course to cheer the runners on.

They're off! Everyone was bunched together at the start of the six-mile race, but it did not take long for the runners to string out along the course.

Glen Logan Wins first Shamrock Marathon

The runners and the crowds came to watch despite the rain and cloudy skies at the beginning of the Rotary Shamrock Marathon. The marathon and four other races on St. Patrick's Day in Virginia Beach attracted runners from up and down the East Coast.

Glen Logan, a 21 year-old student at Old Dominion University, won the 26-mile, 385-yard marathon. Logan graduated from Princess Anne High School in 1969.

The prize for the oldest contestant went to a 62-year-old retired United States Marine Major. Walter J. Reilly finished last in the field, but it was a close finish as he was edged by Miss Burnis Hicks, a 60 year-old gal from Washington, D.C.

The Shamrock Day races were sponsored by the Virginia Beach Rotary club in cooperation with the Tidewater Strider. It is hoped by the sponsors that the events will become an annual St. Patrick's Day feature.

Glen Logan won the 26-mile marathon event, but he looked in good form after he crossed the finish line.

State champion Sandy Conkwright won her crown on the uneven parallel bars in the State Gymnastics Meet last Saturday.

Sandy Conkwright wins State title in girls'

Sandy Conkwright won the uneven parallel bars competition and a State championship last Saturday. The Cox gymnast was the only Beach girl to place in the State Girls' Gymnastics Meet held in Fairfax's Woodson High School.

Sandy amassed 7.70 points of the bars to win her title. Her closest competitor had 7.35 points. The pretty blond senior also finished sixth in the best all-around competition with good performances on the balance beam, in free exercise, in vaulting, and on the uneven parallel bars.

The win kept the Cox tradition alive. Since the Falcons have been participating in gymnastics, Cox had always had a girl to place in State Meet competition.

A week earlier in the regionals, Sandy won the uneven parallel bars and the best all-around category. She also finished second on the balance beam, third in free floor exercise, and fourth in vaulting.

Another Cox gymnast, Kathy Rineker, finished ninth on the balance beam in the State Meet. Kathy won the regional championship on the balance beam and finished second in floor exercise the week before.

Softball meeting

The reorganizational meeting for the City's Adult Softball League will be held Tuesday, April 3rd, 7:30 p.m. at the Union-Kempsville Stadium on Witchduck Road. Sponsored by the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation, the Adult League will offer the following divisions: Men's Unlimited, Class "A", Duffer, Church, and Women.

All individuals, groups, or organizations interested in entering a team in the 1973 competition are urged to attend this meeting. League play will start about May 7th.

Basketball Invitational tip-off is Friday night

The First Annual Central Bayside Athletic Association Invitational Basketball Tournament opens 6 p.m. Friday evening in the Bayside Junior High School fieldhouse. The tournament runs through most of Saturday and concludes with the championship bracket Sunday.

The March 23rd, 24th, and 25th tourney is made up largely of teams from the Virginia Beach Community League, although a couple of Norfolk teams have entered. No admission will be charged to watch the games, but donations will be accepted to help offset the tourney costs.

The tourney is divided into the Midget and the Intermediate Divisions. Midget play features 10, 11, and 12 year-olds, and the Intermediate teams are made up with 13 and 14 year-old boys.

The Midget Division has the following teams entered: Arrowhead, Cooke, Great Neck, Kempville, Kings Grant, Plaza, Thoroughgood, and W. W. Houston.

Arrowhead, Cooke, Diamond Springs, Great Neck, Kings Grant, the Norfolk Panthers, Plaza, Woodstock, Thoroughgood, and W. W. Houston will play in the Intermediate Division.

Pete Withers named All-Dixie

Pete Withers, a Virginia Wesleyan College sophomore who helped lead the Blue Marlins to their best record in the College's seven year history, has been named to the first slot on the Dixie All-Conference second team.

The six-foot guard from Virginia Beach's Bayside High School was also listed third in the top-ten conference scorers, with a 19.2 per game average. He also finished fifth in conference free throw averages, with an overall average of 80.5 percent. Withers was also first-ranked in tournament competition for his free throw ability, hitting 14 out of 17.

"Pete is a great athlete and competitor," says his coach, Donald Forsyth. Withers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Withers, 4821 Cullen Road, Virginia Beach.

Virginia Wesleyan's overall record this year was 5 wins and 16 losses. In conference play, the Blue Marlins were sixth, with a 4-10 record.

A Lark player tries to keep the ball away from the Neckers competitor. The Neckers won the close contest 27-23.

It's two more points for the Iron Dukes as a Knight attempts to block the shot fails. The Dukes won the game 47-29.

Knights and Neckers win City titles

Two more City champions have been decided in Community League basketball play. During the past week, the Plaza Knights downed the Iron Dukes 47-29 to wrap up the Brookwood Division City championship in the Midget League.

The Great Neck Neckers defeated the Larks 27-23 in the American Division of the Teen Girls League. The win gave the Neckers the American Division Teen Girls City championship.

Playoffs will be continuing this week for City championships in other Community League divisions. Scores for the rest of the League games follow.

Bayside Jr. girls win City gymnastics title

The Bayside Junior High School girls' gymnastics team won the City Junior high title last Tuesday afternoon by beating out Plaza and Virginia Beach in the playoff. The playoff was necessary because the three junior high school teams finished their regular season deadlocked in a tie for first place. Kempville Junior High was not involved in the playoff.

Bayside Junior defeated runner-up Virginia Beach Junior 43.05 to 39.38. Plaza finished third with 39.00 points.

Even though her team finished third, Plaza's Barbi Scarcelli was the biggest winner in the playoffs. Barbi won the tumbling, balance beam, and floor exercise competition. In addition to her three first place wins in the five events, Barbi finished third on the uneven parallel bars.

Bayside girls won the other two events. Linda Lawrence won the vaulting competition, and Sharon Brown was judged best on the uneven parallel bars.

Two other performers placed in two different categories. Teresa Karnitschnig of Virginia Beach Junior High finished second on the balance beam and third in floor exercise. Bayside's Marilee Russell finished second in both floor exercise and in tumbling.

The top three finishers in each event follows.

Joe Canada tells D.C. press about Redskins golf weekend in Beach.

State Senator A. Joseph Canada, Jr. announced the "Redskins Remember Lombardi" golf weekend at a Washington press conference last Wednesday morning. This press conference was later duplicated in Richmond to promote the weekend by the Super Bowl runner-up Redskins.

"Virginia Beach is proud to present the 2nd Annual 'Redskins Remember Lombardi' program set for the week-end of May 11th and 12th," Senator Canada announced.

"All of the proceeds, which are expected to be at least $25,000, will go to the Vincent Lombardi Cancer Research Center at the Georgetown University Medical Center.

"The weekend will begin on Friday evening with a dance at the Virginia Beach Civic Center. At the dance there will be a drawing for each Redskins to round out a golf foursome.

"Last year more than 45 members of the Redskin family were on hand to honor their former coach. This is especially praiseworthy when you realize that they pay their own way to Virginia Beach and this is a purely voluntary program. As a token of appreciation, the owners of the Oceanfront Ramada Inn provide their meals.

"As Larry Brown so aptly said, 'In the fall the fans in Virginia Beach travel 200 miles to watch us play, and now we will travel 200 miles to play with them to honor Coach Lombardi.'

"The program was born a little over a year ago in a conversation between Chris Hanburger and Ed Phillips. Chris discussed the idea with his teammates and their response was far greater than anyone's fondest dreams."

The conference concluded with information concerning where to purchase tickets and how to reserve rooms in Virginia Beach for the weekend. Tickets may be obtained locally from the Virginia Beach Civic Center or by calling the Civic Center at 428-8000.

Beach Borough Little League tryouts reset

Rain cancelled last weekend's Virginia Beach Borough Little League tryouts, but team hopefuls will be able to tryout during the next two Saturdays. The Borough Little League has rescheduled tryouts at their

Fish and game public hearing

The Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries will hold its annual game and fish regulation hearing in Richmond tomorrow morning. The March 23rd meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Commission's conference room at 4010 West Broad Street.

The Commission will hear suggested changes in current hunting and fishing regulations and season and bag limits. Delegations wishing to be heard should select a spokesman and request floor time prior to the hearing's beginning.

The regulations proposed at this hearing will be advertised in localities affected and will be adopted or rejected by the Commission at their May 4th meeting.

field on Harpers Road on Saturday, March 24th and 31st.

Tryouts and registrations times for 15 and 12 year olds will be between 9 and 10 a.m. both days. All 14 and 11 year-olds must report between 10 a.m. and 12 Noon. Boys 13 and 10 years old have their tryouts and registrations between 1:30 and 3 p.m.

All 9 year old boys must report between 3 and 4:30 p.m. There will be no tryouts for 8 year olds, since all boys registering will be placed on farm teams.

Big League hopefuls must register Sunday, March 25th, at the Virginia Beach Junior High School diamond. Registration will be held at 2 p.m. for Big League candidates between 16 and 18 years of age.

The Borough Little League still needs coaches, managers, umpires, groundskeepers, and women's auxiliary members. For information on how you can help the youth of Virginia Beach Borough, contact League president B.R. Hembree at 425-5441 or Women's Auxiliary Chairman Mrs. Geraldine Knapp at 428-1681.

Gardening - - - - - - in Virginia Beach

J. Robert Stiffler
President, Men's Garden Club of Tidewater
Member, Garden Writers Association of America

NOW IS THE TIME TO...

Plant a crape myrtle. Last week, the city of Virginia Beach was planting crape myrtles up and down Shore Drive. The crape myrtle is the city's unofficial (or perhaps it's official) flower. If you have a crape myrtle or two in your lawn, don't be afraid to prune it severely. It can take it; it will thicken up and bloom better.

Set out pansy plants for spring color. They'll bloom in 3-4 weeks and are good for some early blooms to have in your house.

Begin to uncover perennials that have been buried. Carefully remove the mulch so the sun can reach into the crown of the plant.

Clean up leaves and debris that has collected on the lawn, and in flower and shrub borders.

If it's another rainy weekend, spend your time getting your garden tools sharpened up. File the hoe, the spade, your trowel, your clippers.

Your roses should be pruned this month and given their first feeding. Spread a cupful of Nutro Rose Food around each bush.

By J.R. STIFFLER

A friend commented last week that not enough attention had been given to what spring is really all about: planting shrubs and trees. So here goes.

This is the month to do your planting or moving. Many Virginia Beach residents plant all winter - and it can be easily done if you don't mind the weather. Now with some 80 degree days, you need to be getting your shrubs and trees and getting them into the ground.

Here are a few tips:

FROM THE GARDENER'S DESK

The name for this column; why "Clippings"? Every good gardener should always carry a pair of clippers in his pocket; then when you see dead limbs or twigs or plants that need pruning - do it. You'll have a pocket of clippings every time you walk around your yard - but you'll be getting a needed job done. Perhaps this is not a true native Southerners, but did you know that the enormous yellow flowers of zucchini squash are a source of fascination among children, and they are edible? Picked early in the morning and fried in batter is a favorite way to eat the flowers among rural families. PLANTING IN THE RAIN. We used to have a yard man at the Smith-Douglass home office named James who loved to mow the grass in the rain. If it started to rain, you would know you could look outside and James would be riding the tractor, mowing in the rain, and singing. Didn't matter whether the grass needed cutting or not, James always mowed - and sang - in the rain. My neighbors have always laughed at me...no matter where we lived...at planting in the rain. After a few rainy days, I get itchy. My neighbors have planted after you buy them. So it never has mattered whether it was raining or not, if things needed to get in the ground, rain or no rain, I planted. And these many rainy Saturdays of late have made planting in the rain almost a necessity. And you know, I don't think I've ever had a plant die that was planted in the rain. I like natural rainfall on a newly planted shrub a lot better than soaking it with a bucket of water. So don't let the rain postpone your spring activities. You can plant in the rain - and the odds are that the results will be a lot better than if it wasn't raining. The only casualty may be you - for you'll probably be pretty damp when you're finished. But it's a great feeling to have it done - and watch those plants soak up all that rainfall. And it isn't necessary to be able to sing in order to plant in the rain!

Learn to enjoy weeds

There's a new book just published, entitled "How to Enjoy Your Weeds." Written by Audrey Wynne Hatfield and published by Sterling, the author says when you weed your garden, you uproot many a delicious vegetable or remarkable home remedy. Miss Hatfield tells which weeds are nutritious and how to prepare them, which improve the soil or encourage other plants to grow near them. So perhaps we should be enjoying our weeds. If there's no other way, perhaps Miss Hatfield's philosophy will help you. Cost is $3.95.

Greener - and quieter!

The greener your yard is, the quieter it will be. Grass, shrubbery and trees both absorb noise and, according to the Department of Agriculture, can cut traffic noise specifically by as much as 65 percent.

It is tree and shrub-planting time

(1) Buy good plants. That and the size of the hole you put the plant in are the two most important things you do. Go to a reputable garden center and deal with people you know you can depend upon. Advice is also helpful. Many places selling plants don't have a soul within 5 miles who know half as much about planting as you probably do. Remember that the tree or bush will never be any better than the quality you buy - so start right with a good plant.

(2) Dig a hole twice the size of the ball or the root system. Fill it with a mixture of soil and peat moss after you plant and water well. Fertilize lightly with Plant Food Pellets 8-8-8 or a crystalline fertilizer, mixed with the transplant water. This helps the plant survive the shock of transplanting. DO NOT THROW BACK INTO THE HOLE THAT HARD CLAY YOU DUO OUT. Use some peat moss and give the plant half a chance. Be sure to put the bush into the ground at the same level it was previously planted in the growing nursery. You can tell by examining the trunk. The soil will settle, so plant about 1" high, to allow for settling. Many plants die because you set them too deep. In planting camellians, Mrs. Zeima Crockett, one of the best growers in Virginia Beach, usually puts bricks under the plant so it won't settle.

Now is the time to plant for beauty.

Garden Hotline

(questions and answers)

QUESTION: We read your offer for help in the Sun, and we hope you can help with our yard. It's so low, we have a water problem with 6" standing, while we have to run a sump pump under the house. We need to know where to get soil, gravel, sand, etc. Thank you. We visit our Virginia Beach home regularly while we live in Fredericksburg. - Mrs. B.L.W.

ANSWER: Thanks, Mrs. W. It's nice to know the Sun has readers who live in northern Virginia. You asked that your letter not be published and we have used only portions of it because of your residence outside the Virginia Beach area. We hope our telephone call to you with suggestions will help solve your problem.

QUESTION: I read with interest the page concerning gardens and lawns in the March 1 Sun. I have one question - is there any means of killing the clumps of wild onions without using a weed killer for the entire lawn? The wild onion clumps are beginning to take hold and I might have about 100 of them.

The following information may help someone: To get rid of grass, weeds etc., in a driveway, a friend suggested a 50-50 mixture of kerosene and gasoline, lightly sprinkled on all the unwanted greenery. I tried it and it works. Gasoline gets down to the roots and kills the plant and evaporates. The kerosene lingers several days and assures that the roots are dead. About two days later, the unwanted green disappears. - J.T. Brown, 56th St.

ANSWER: I asked Dr. Charles Elstrodt, a member of the Men's Garden Club and Horticulture Specialist at the Experiment Station about the spot treating for onions. He says it is what he recommends when you have only an onion problem. Use a pressure sprayer preferably since you get a better mix than with a hose-end sprayer. Make up the proper mix of material. Two good ones are Nutro Weed Killer or Ortho Weed-B-Gone. Either are available at Virginia Beach Garden Centers. Chuck and I agree that you will probably have to spot spray the onions 2 or 3 times to get a complete kill. It would be smart to fertilize the entire lawn afterwards to help grass fill in the bare spots.

As to your solution for killing weeds in a driveway, that's a good one, Mr. Brown. Thanks for telling us about it. Another method is to use a soil sterilant, available from Garden Centers under several brand names. You can spray the entire driveway. Because it sterilizes the soil, it prevents new weed or grass seed from germinating. In my opinion, nothing looks tackier than weeds or grass in a driveway or brick sidewalk. Use the mixture suggested by Mr. Brown and clean up yours this spring.

Nancy Chevalier weds Thomas Martin

Nancy Paige Chevalier became the bride of Thomas Wayne Martin of March 17 at 2 p.m. at Saint Nicholas Catholic Church with the Rev. Carl J. Naro officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Louis Chevalier Jr. of Virginia Beach. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Thomas Martin of Virginia Beach.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of candlelight peau-de sole with an empire waist of alencon lace and long sleeves of sheer organza with matching lace. The skirt was appliqued in lace and ended in a chapel train. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and carnations centered with a white orchid.

Sharon Leigh Hewett of Myrtle Beach, S.C., served as maid of honor. Mrs. Richard Brandt Deal of Winston-Salem, N.C., was her sister's matron of honor. Their gowns were of silk print in spring colors with a purple ribbon sash. They carried nosegays of mixed spring flowers.

Bridesmaids were Jan Patricia Chevalier of Virginia Beach, sister of the bride; Mrs. Leland F. Miller of Chesapeake; and Mrs. Stephen P. Tignor of Virginia Beach. Their gowns were identical to those of the honor attendants.

Rhonda Michelle Traver, the bridegroom's niece, served as flower girl. Her gown was similar to the bridesmaid. She carried a miniature nosegay of spring flowers. John Traver Jr., nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

Stephen P. Tignor of Virginia Beach served as best man. Ushers were Mark D. Chevalier, brother of the bride; Jay Copeland; Kim G. Hickman; and Donald R. Martin, brother of the groom, all of Virginia Beach.

The bride is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and Princess Anne Business College. The groom is a graduate of First Colonial High School and is currently serving in the U.S. Coast Guard.

After a reception at the Harbour Room, the couple left for a wedding trip to Florida. The will live in Virginia Beach.

Helen Ore

Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Ore of Virginia Beach announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Elizabeth Ore, to M. Keith Glass, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Alfred Glass of Richmond.

Miss Ore is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and attended Old Dominion University. She is employed by WNOR-FM radio.

Her fiancée is a graduate of Parry McCluer High School and is currently attending Old Dominion University while employed by WTID radio.

An April 21 wedding is planned.

Mrs. George Dekker, president of the Sea Sprite Circle, and Mrs. Nancy Kutz, decorations chairman, display their handiwork for the March 31 charity ball.

Mrs. Al Craft and Mrs. William Robertson, members of the Sea Sprite Circle, decorate items for the "March Winds and April Showers" theme of the ball.

Members of the Sea Sprite Circle of the Virginia Beach City Union of Kings Daughters are busily working on decorations to enhance the "March Winds and April Showers" theme of their Seventh Annual Charity Ball to benefit the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Members met recently at the home of Mrs. Nancy Kutz, decorations chairman, to create fanciful kites and umbrellas to decorate the Cavalier Hotel Ballroom, where the ball will be held on March 31.

The first benefit ball was held in January, 1967. Profits from the first and subsequent balls have been given to the

Meatless days will be easier with careful planning

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

The key to surviving the meatless days ahead, and remaining in good standing with meat-loving family and friends, is good planning. And the time to start is now.

The boycott the first week in April will not be the sole responsibility of the housewife. It will affect the bachelor (they resent exorbitant prices, too!) who will find it hard to part with the easily prepared grilled steak. And the career women who will have to find substitutes for the roasts and meat sauces prepared on week-ends for the coming week. And the mothers who will somehow have to persuade the kiddies they can't have their favorite hamburgers, hot dogs or fried chicken.

It can be done, and from the enthusiastic support already displayed in the boycott, it will be done.

But it will take planning. Dust off the cookbooks and the yellowed recipe clippings. Scan them for dishes built around meat substitutes: eggs, cheese, grains, nuts, even vegetables and fruits.

Experiment. Try some of these recipes in the days remaining before the boycott. Those that please can be used as meatless menu basics when the time comes. It's surprising how easily a vegetable casserole becomes a full meal with the addition of hot buttered noodles, scalloped potatoes, or hot German potato salad. Or how complete a meatless rice dish becomes with a colorful salad and hot bread. Or how filling and healthy — a combination of vegetable dishes can be.

Be imaginative. Compile a list of daily menus from the recipes you experiment with. Be sure to include some exciting foreign dishes. Then devise interesting and attractive ways of serving them. Make it fun. Be the "hostess with the mostest". Bring out the candles and flowers for a festive table. Show the food off to its best advantage in appropriate serving dishes. Make it a "something different party" rather than a drab, meatless meal. Everyone will enjoy it more if the cook enjoys it, too.

Don't preach. Lackluster food won't taste better simply because you are fighting to keep the budget in line. The youngsters, especially, won't be sold by this tactic. Keep it light and fun. Use the soft-sell approach — interesting, attractive and tasty dishes will sell themselves.

Getting back to cookbooks, most of them underplay meatless recipes. But there are a few, such as "New Age Vegetarian Cookbook", that will be of great help. This particular book, a 492-page gem, is filled with the most interesting information; everything from the use of herbs to recipes for canning and preserving.

One of the local book stores probably has this book in stock. But if not, write The Rosicrucian Fellowship, P.O. Box 713, Oceanside, Calif. 92054.

Fish is not included in the boycott (increasingly high costs may make the next boycott against fish) so dishes such as deviled crab, shrimp marinara or even paella, without the chicken, can spice up the meatless menus...if you can afford them.

For a fine addition to a cook-book library, look for a copy of "The Complete Fish Cookbook". Authors Dan and Inez Morris not only tell how to cook fish 500 ways, they also explain how to clean and prepare every imaginable species of marine life. Great for fishermen. The book is published by Bobbe-Merrill Co., Inc. of Indianapolis and New York.

If time runs out, or funds run low, perhaps you would enjoy these tried and true favorites:

ORIENTAL MUSHROOM SOUP

1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms
2 cans (10 1/2 oz. ea.) beef broth
2 soup cans of water
3 tbsps. soy sauce
1 cup diagonally sliced celery
1 cup carrots, cut julienne strips
1/2 cup sliced onion rings
1 pkg. (10 oz.) leaf spinach (thaw)
Rinse, slice mushrooms and set aside. In large saucepan heat broth, water and soy sauce. Add celery, carrots and onion. Reduce heat; cover and simmer for 5 minutes. Add spinach and mushrooms. Bring to boiling point; reduce heat. Cover and simmer for 5 minutes or until vegetables are crisp-tender. Serves 6. Great for weight watchers...only 46 calories per serving. Serve it with Chinese noodles and broiled open-faced cheese sandwiches and it's a meal!

BARYANI PILAU (PAKISTANI RICE DISH)

1/2 cup diced onion
1/2 cup seeded, diced tomato
1/2 cup butter
1 cup raw rice
1/4 tsp. ground cloves
1/4 tsp. ground cardamom
1/4 tsp. ground ginger
1/2 tsp. salt
2 1/2 cups water
3 tbsps. dark raisins
1/4 cup cooked green peas
3 tbsps. slivered almonds, blanched
Soak rice one hour in cold water. Fry onions and tomato in butter until onions are golden. Add rice, cook until it colors. Sprinkle in cloves, cardamom, ginger, salt and add water. Stir well. Bring to a boil, lower heat. Cover and simmer about 25 minutes, until water is absorbed. Stir in remaining ingredients, steam briefly. Serves 4.

BLACK BEANS

1 small onion, chopped
1 can black beans
3 tbsps. vinegar
Cook onion in small amount of olive oil until golden. Add beans and vinegar and simmer about 5 minutes. If too thick, dilute sparingly with dry white wine or water. Add salt and fresh ground pepper, if needed. Serve over hot rice with a salad and hot garlic bread. The secret to this basic Spanish dish is vinegar... measure according to taste. Serves 4.

SPINACH-RICE MOLD

1 cup cooked, chopped spinach
1 cup cooked rice
2 eggs, separated
3 tbsps. butter
3 tbsps. flour
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup milk
Paprika & basil, optional
Melt butter in double boiler, blend in flour and salt. Add milk and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Add egg yolks, rice and spinach. Beat egg whites stiff, fold in gently. Turn into buttered ring mold. Bake in 350-degree oven until firm, about 30 minutes. Serves 4.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS DELUXE

1/2 cup butter
2 pkgs. frozen Brussels sprouts
1/4 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
1/4 cup sliced onion
1 tsp. salt, dash of pepper
1 tsp. savory leaves
Melt butter in large skillet. Add sprouts, which have been thawed and halved, and stir in other ingredients. Cover and sauté 2 minutes. Uncover and sauté 3 minutes longer or until sprouts are crisp-tender; stirring or shaking frequently. Serves 6 to 8.

BAKED EGGS

14 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
2 cups grated sharp cheddar cheese
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
3 tbsps. sherry
Salt and pepper to taste
Alternate layers of egg slices with cheese in a 1 1/2 quart baking dish, ending with layer of cheese. Combine soup and sherry and pour over eggs and cheese. Bake at 300 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

until cheese melts and mixture is bubbly. Serves 6.

BROCCOLI CASSEROLE

2 pkgs. frozen chopped broccoli
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup shredded sharp cheese
1/4 cup milk
1 tbsps. dry onion flakes
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
Cook broccoli without salt. Mix with other ingredients, except bread crumbs. Toss crumbs in 1 tbsps. melted butter and sprinkle over top of casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

LIBRARY GIFT — A recent addition to the library collection at Virginia Wesleyan College is "Nixon's Quest for Peace" by Frank van der Linden, veteran White House correspondent. The volume, being accepted by Virginia Wesleyan library director Roland Nicholson (right), was presented to the college by the officers of the Old Dominion Republican Woman's Club. Making the presentation were (from left) Mrs. Thelma Chapman, Mrs. Dorothy Baldwin, Mrs. Evelyn Fleming, president Mrs. Maye Martens, Mrs. Nina Beauchamp and Mrs. Marie Alexander.

SAVING A LIFE — Tom Wisniewski and Mrs. Carol Reamy practice emergency cardio-pulmonary resuscitation on a dummy at the one-night course offered last week at General Hospital of Tidewater. It was co-sponsored by the Tidewater Heart Association. There will be another free course April 11.

Membership drive starts

The annual sustaining membership enrollment for families of scouts and friends of scouting is now on in the local Princess Anne-Virginia Beach (PAVB) Scout District.

More than 18,000 Tidewater boys will enjoy scouting this year under the auspices of the Tidewater Boy Scout Council.

The council is supported financially by the United Communities Fund, the Portsmouth Area United Fund and United Funds in surrounding counties. The Council also receives financial support from the annual enrollment drive.

The Council supports 636 local Cub Scout packs.

Poison Prevention Is More Than Packaging

New Federal law requires child-proof packaging for many products involved in childhood poisonings. To protect your children, ask for this special packaging... use it... and after using, be sure to resecure each safety closure!

However, Remember...

- Children are curious. They want to taste things. They will try to open the best designed safety guards.
- Children will imitate. Take your own medicine out of their sight.
- Children love sweets. Never tell them medicine is "candy." They'll eat it when you're not around.
- Small children can't read warning labels. Store hazardous household products and medicines in separate cabinets. Keep these substances locked up when not in use. Clean out cabinets periodically.
- Children get hungry and thirsty. Keep hazardous products in original containers, never in cups, soft-drink bottles or other food utensils.

'Common Glory' auditions to be held this weekend

Auditions for the 1973 season of "The Common Glory," Virginia's outdoor drama of the American Revolution, will be held in Williamsburg on Saturday, March 24.

Auditions for 70 positions will be held in the Lake Matoaka Amphitheatre, off Jamestown Road, on the campus of the College of William and Mary. Auditions will begin at 9 a.m.

Positions are open for actors, dancers, singers and technicians.

There are 21 speaking roles—17 for men and four for women—in the drama. Applicants should be prepared to give two short readings with one of them from Shakespeare. The acting auditions will be conducted by Howard Scammon, director of the William and Mary Theatre and director of "The Common Glory."

"The Common Glory" is produced by the Jamestown Corp., an educational, non-profit organization, with the cooperation of the College of William and Mary.

This summer "The Common Glory" will be presented from June 18 through Aug. 25 with performances nightly, except Sundays. This will be the 26th season of the patriotic outdoor drama by Paul Green.

STOLEN CLUE — Suzanne McDaniel as Mrs. Piper and Dave Lang as Detective Superintendent Baxler search for a clue which seems to have been stolen during a scene from "Busybody," a three-act mystery-comedy which opens March 30 at the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach and runs on weekends through the month of April.

Rev. Walton is Lenten speaker

The Rev. Macon B. Walton, rector of Christ Episcopal Church in Smithfield and former curate at Galilee Episcopal Church in Virginia Beach, will be the Lenten preacher at St. Francis Episcopal Church, 509 Rosemont Road, on Sunday, March 25, at 7:30 p.m.

Trees and power poles just love to eat kites!

As usual, thousands of young people and those young at heart are taking to the skies with a multitude of kites in all shapes and sizes. And as usual, Charlie Brown's famous "kite-eating tree" is waiting to be fed.

Like any sport though, there are certain safety rules to be followed. Virginia Electric and Power Company has provided diet hints for overly plump kite-eating trees and power poles, along with other safety hints.

1. Always fly your kite far from kite-eating trees and electric power lines.

2. Always avoid busy streets and highways while flying your kite.

3. Always use wood and paper in your kite...not wire or metal.

4. Always keep away from fallen wires.

5. Always fly your kite on days when there is no rain.

6. Always use dry string...not wire or anything metallic.

7. Always fly your kite away from TV and radio antennas.

8. Always call Vepco if your kite gets snagged in a power line. Do not pull the string or climb the poles.

To help keep kite flying safe, Vepco is providing 5,000 posters on kite safety to schools in the area the company serves.

MUSEUM EXPANSION — Sam Clay (left), president of the Virginia Beach Arts Center, receives a first-hand description of the Virginia Museum's new eighth wing, currently under construction in Richmond, from James Brown, the museum's director. The discussion took place during a recent meeting in Richmond of presidents of the Confederation of Virginia Arts Organizations.

Choir starts spring tour

Virginia Wesleyan College's first touring choir will hit the road next month for its debut outside the Tidewater Virginia area. The 33-member choir, which made its first public appearance last December, will begin a three-week long series of concerts on April 8 at the Courtland United Methodist Church in Courtland.

Other performances by the young travelling group will include concerts at Ghent United Methodist Church in Norfolk on April 11, Fairfax United Methodist Church in Fairfax on April 13, Lincoln United Methodist Church in Alexandria on April 15, Charles Wesley United Methodist Church in McLean, also on April 15, and a home concert on April 25 at Virginia Wesleyan College. A concert at McKendree United Methodist Church in Norfolk on April 29 will wrap up the spring tour.

Directing the touring choir is assistant professor of music David Clayton, who is in his first year at Virginia Wesleyan. Clayton is the college's first fulltime music instructor. Prior to coming to Virginia Wesleyan, he taught at Cumberland College in Williamsburg, Kentucky. A native of Union City, Tennessee, he is currently working on a doctoral degree at Florida State University.

SURPLUS SALE GREENHOUSE TYPE STRUCTURE

CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA
BID ITEM NO. 2557

The purpose of this advertisement for taking bids is to obtain a responsible purchaser for a certain structure which has been declared surplus to the needs of the City. The structure consists of galvanized steel members, ventilating mechanisms and some wooden trim, bolted and riveted in place on concrete foundation. The concrete foundation is not to be part of the sale. Although not originally constructed for a greenhouse operation, several parties have shown an interest in purchasing the structure for such a purpose.

The structure is located on the old site of the Virginia Beach sewage treatment plant and may be driven to by car via Baltic Avenue off Laskin Road, turning right off Baltic Avenue between Laskin Road and 27th Street. The premises are open for inspection during normal business days and hours and assistance in visiting the premises may be made by telephone to Mr. Ira L. Fisk 427-4171. Visitors entering the property do so at their own risk and hold the City harmless from any damages to their body and their property which may be sustained.

The City will receive sealed bids for the structure in the office of Purchasing Agent, Room 352 Administration Building, Virginia Beach, Virginia, up to 2:00 P.M. on the date of April 3, 1973, at which place and time will be publicly opened and read aloud. The City reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids, and to dispose of the structure otherwise by any method deemed to be in the best interest of the City. Each bid must be accompanied with a check for Ten (10 percent) Percent of the bid amount payable to Treasurer, City of Virginia Beach. Bid deposits will be returned to unsuccessful bidders in ten (10) days or applied to a credit for account of successful bidder. Successful bidder will be required to pay the balance of Ninety (90 percent) Percent within five (5) days notice of acceptance of bid or forfeit the bid deposit as a penalty to defray the cost of advertising and clerical work. The structure, excluding foundation, must be removed from premises within sixty (60) days notice of acceptance of bid.

Bid forms may be obtained by communicating with office of the Purchasing Agent, City of Virginia Beach.

Sunday a blue day

By LES LEHIGH

A three year old girl's joy turned into gloom Sunday when Virginia's Blue Law prevented her from receiving her birthday gift.

She couldn't understand why her father allowed her to select three story books as her present then he couldn't buy them for her especially when she saw him buy a newspaper that he wanted.

This is only one aspect of the confusion which reigned over Virginia Beach last Sunday as the recently revised Blue Law went into effect.

One father questioned the equality of a law which prevented the Sunday purchase of necessities. He said he was prohibited from purchasing disposable diapers which his 20-month old daughter needed. A woman was completely dismayed when she made a special trip to a grocery store to buy toilet tissue only to be told the Blue Law prohibited its sale on Sunday.

Children failed to understand why dad couldn't buy them a small toy for their enjoyment while he bought a six-pack of beer for himself.

Two women were overheard asking a store manager, "Why do you even stay open on Sunday?" Moments earlier one was forbidden to purchase a pair of hose to replace those which snagged into a run, the other was blocked from buying a roller to complete a painting job in her home.

Still others were confused as to why they could purchase a particular item in one store, when the shop a short distance away refused to sell the same item.

While these appear to be minor inconveniences to shoppers, yet still important to them enforcing the Blue Law had its greatest impact on retail outlets which couldn't open their doors for the first Sunday in many months. These included J.M. Fields, Millers, Kings, Zayres, and J.B. Hunter.

Many shoppers entering stores to purchase desired items were shocked to find signs containing that merchandise roped off, signs on many items stating they were prohibited from sale, and to have restricted items taken from them at checkout counters and replaced on shelves.

Several stores displayed signs giving a partial list of items prohibited from sale. These included jewelry, silver, watches, clocks, luggage, musical instruments, toys, clothing, footwear, cameras, housewares, kitchenware, furniture, furnishings and appliances.

One person expressed the wish that at least one store manager would be arrested for violation of the law to test its legality.

Law enforcement officials say they are striving to allow merchants time to smooth out procedures in handling Sunday sales before issuing citations for violations of the law.

The revised law was aimed at preventing abuse of the practice of the past year which permitted virtually all Sunday sales providing profits were donated to charitable causes.

Beach people are mostly male, young, smart, well-to-do

By T. JAY BRUMBLEY

Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, Portsmouth, and Norfolk. Virginia Beach, along with the City of Williamsburg, has the youngest average age for its total population (23.1 years) of any city in the State.

Across the State, the average age figures out to 28.8 years and 24.2 years in the metropolitan area. The male population is slightly younger than the female. Males average 22.6 years in Virginia Beach, 22.4 in the area and 25.6 in the State. Females average average 24.2 in the City, 23.8 in the area, and 26.0 in the State.

While the State has a larger female population than male, Virginia Beach and the metropolitan area have a larger male population. This, according to the study, can be directly attributed to the large military influence on this area.

Sexually, males make up

52.4 percent of the City's population, 51.9 percent of the area's, and 49.4 percent of the State's. Females comprise 47.6 percent of the City population, 48.1 percent of the area's, and 50.6 of the State.

Mobility is shown by the percentage of households that reported living in a different residence five years before the census was taken. Virginia Beach shows a higher figure than the State or the metropolitan area due to the recent high rate of immigration and because of military transfer policies.

The study showed that 61.8 percent of Virginia Beach's citizens were living in a different residence in 1965 than they were in 1970. The mobility percentage in the area was 54.3 percent and 49.7 percent in the State as a whole.

Work stop to protest moratorium

By KIRT BAUDER

The City Councils of Virginia Beach and Norfolk should plan on an expansion of the council chambers if everything goes according to the plans of the Tidewater Association of Home Builders.

On April 9 and 10 the TAHB plans a work stoppage-protest on the non-settlement of the water moratorium. The group hopes to get the cooperation of all contractors, employees and personnel from related industries to cooperate stopping construction for the two days to attend both city council meetings.

Accurate estimates of the number of protesters who will cooperate and attend the two meetings has not yet been determined but two sources have put out figures of 1,500 and 3,000 people.

Frank Smith told the SUN about the plans for the massive construction protest explaining that the water moratorium: placed - on builders nearly nine months ago, permitting no new water hook-ups, is "crippling the industry" and will have "long-lasting economic effects on both cities."

Smith stressed the economic effects point of the protest explaining that many employees of the construction trade who work in Virginia Beach live elsewhere in the Tidewater area, and that the moratorium has economic effects on both cities.

The water moratorium, Smith explained, slows down the building industry than causes the laying off of construction employees whose payroll total in the homebuilding industry alone is $6 million.

Smith explained that in a study he made the economic force of the home building salaries is about $600 million.

Asked if he was encouraged by the recent developments in the water negotiations between Mayor Cromwell and Norfolk City Manager Robert House, Smith replied that the TAHB has been told "through unofficial City channels that if the water moratorium will be over in a couple of weeks." They even told us they would have a Christmas present for us.

Economics seem to be the point of the two-day work stoppage-protest. Even the new home buyers can't win, according to Smith. A newly constructed home without a water hookup must have a well and that can cost between $400 and $700. Insurance is another economic point that Smith made during the interviewing. Insurance is higher in the area due to lack of fire hydrants and sewer hook-ups.

Expensive areas 'unsanitary'

By LES LEHIGH

Thoroughgood and Birdneck Point, two of the most prestigious areas of the city, have been declared unsanitary by Public Health officials.

This condition is also reported in other areas including Setack, Birdneck Acres, Little Neck Village, and Bayville Park. Authorities say unsanitary conditions have existed in Setack "...for at least 25 years."

The situation has been attributed to septic tanks being the primary means of sewage disposal in Virginia Beach, combined with a number of factors detrimental to proper septic tank operation.

One of the prime factors cited in the faulty septic tank operations in the Thoroughgood area is the use of residential garbage disposal units. Authorities say sewage from garbage disposal units is one of the most difficult for septic tanks to handle. This was also listed as a basis for problems in other areas of the city.

With the exception of the Atlantis Apartments, near the intersection of Birdneck Road and Virginia Beach Boulevard, the primary means of sewage disposal in the Setack area is through septic tanks. The Atlantis complex is served by a sewerage system. This was accomplished by requiring developers to install sewerage lines to the southern side of Virginia Beach Boulevard and connect with existing HRSD sewerage lines.

A majority of Setack residents using septic tanks report sewage frequently backing-up into their homes, standing in yards, and/or runoff from overflowing septic tanks standing in ditches throughout the area.

Officials say these conditions are the result of a combination of factors, such as septic tanks which have been in use for many years, a naturally high water table in the area, and the soil being predominantly clay (which deters proper septic tank operation).

The problem in Setack is increased by the presence of a large number of outdoor toilets still in existence. In discussing the situation with residents it was estimated more than 50 percent of the homes in Setack were not connected to septic tanks and use outdoor toilets.

Conditions have resulted in the denial of new construction permits, and has resulted in a number of people. This stems from the area's inability to support any additional septic tanks, and the lack of any sewerage system to service new structures.

One woman, who has been a lifetime resident of Setack for 33 years, said he wanted to build a home two years ago on land she owned, but the health department would not approve the site for a septic tank. Thus she was unable to build even though she

Marsh fill questioned

The City's Wetlands Board is scheduled to decide next Tuesday whether to permit the filling of marshlands which could affect drainage and flood control.

The property is a half-acre piece of land located on the southwest corner of Virginia Beach Boulevard and Thalia Creek and is owned by Virginia Beach Industrial Park, Inc.

The City's Planning Department has expressed concern that filling the area might curtail or possibly close a major drainage way which currently handles storm runoff from nearby residential developments.

The City's Soil Conservation District Office has said this marshland serves as a flood control storage area and filling it would decrease the size of the storage area, possible creating a flood control problem.

The Wetlands Board during its monthly public hearing deferred action on the permit request pending further study.

Eugene Godfrey, VBIP president, told the Board he needs the permit to dispose of a large amount of material which must be removed from a construction site.

Godfrey told the Board the permit request is in conjunction with planned commercial use of the property initiated nearly five years ago. Records show he obtained a change of zoning on the property from Residential Suburban 3 to Limited Commercial 3 in August 1968.

Closure on way to court

Walter Leveridge, president of the Concerned Citizens for Conservation and Recreation, and many of his supporters plan to drive through the Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge no matter what the consequences.

Speaking at a mass protest rally Sunday afternoon at Sandbridge, Leveridge compared the plight of the Back Bay property owners with the Indians of Wounded Knee, S.D. He said that if a court case did not provide a solution for the property owners he would encourage mass resistance to it and be one of the first to drive through the refuge.

Federal regulations prohibit most people from driving through the 4.3 mile refuge. The Concerned Citizens are not opposed to an alternate route but they are not pleased with one that inconveniences property owners by requiring two hours to bypass the closed beach.

According to Leveridge his organization is very much in favor of the alternate route - without the extreme travel time factor - if property owners are allowed to use the beach until a shorter alternate route is opened.

The Concerned Citizens for Conservation and Recreation will take their case to court Friday where they hope to prove that the beach is a public thoroughfare. Pictured in photo at right are Pungo Councilmen Floyd Waterfield and Leveridge. Congressman G. William Whitestump was guest speaker at the rally.

Act II's $4 extravaganza

Curing wardrobe wearies

By DONNA HENDRICK

It's time for the wardrobe wearies to strike. You know about the wardrobe wearies, of course. They usually strike in the spring when those woolen winter things in the closet start to look so drab.

The only way to cure the wardrobe wearies is to go out and buy some new clothes. But there's sometimes a hitch in shopping plans when wardrobe needs exceed pocket-book limits.

A cure is at hand with thrift shopping and second-hand clothing bargains. Thrift shops offer an excellent way to perk up a wardrobe at little cost. The clothes offered in thrift shops are usually not new, but they're new to you. And nobody will ever know the difference, unless you can't wait to tell someone about the little gem of a dress you picked up for a fraction of its original cost.

A super special wardrobe weary cure will be offered Friday when Act II, with clothes which are "next to new," has its semi-annual $4 sale extravaganza.

Act II, in Princess Anne Plaza, has marked down every winter item in the store to $4. Many of the winter clothes can be worn now until the hot, hot days of summer. Plus the shop is offering its "fabulous fake" jewelry at half price during the special sale.

The sale starts Friday at 10 a.m. and will last until every winter item is sold. Regular store hours on Friday at 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Act II is a non-profit shop run by Women's American ORT, the Organization for Rehabilitation through Training. ORT is the recognized vocational training agency for the Jewish people, operating in 22 countries on five continents.

When a pure sale is made at

Senior citizens to hear Tinnies

George Tinnies, assistant to the city manager, will be the guest speaker at the monthly "hot lunch" meeting of senior citizens on Friday, March 30, at the Virginia Beach Senior Citizen Center, Thalia Lynn Baptist Church, 4382 Virginia Beach Blvd.

Seniors are asked to bring paper plates and utensils for the hot lunch. Activities are planned from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Tidewater Senior Citizens Band will provide entertainment.

ORT VOLUNTEERS model samples of Act II's winter and spring stock. Mrs. Marilyn Rafal (seated) wears a long outfit with white linen skirt, red top and red and white jacket from the spring collection. Her son Adam models a child's spring ensemble. Mrs. Lolly Cohen wears a long black crepe evening dress trimmed with rhinestones. The evening ensemble is one of the $4 sale items.

Act II, besides the nice feeling of finding a real bargain, there's also the extra bonus of knowing your dollars are going toward a charitable cause.

Act II features gently-worn designer clothing. The shop accepts only seasonal, fresh, clean clothing in excellent condition. The clothes are accepted on a consignment basis and many of them have never been worn.

Act II specializes in women's better clothing, such as suits, dresses, coats, hostess outfits and formal wear. The shop also has a small selection of children's clothes.

The $4 sale extravaganza is only for winter stock, but there are also bargains galore for spring. The shop is now stocking up on spring things, many of which can be purchased for half of their original cost.

The shop has a layaway plan for its regular clothing season. However, no layaways are allowed on sale merchandise.

So, beat the wardrobe wearies with some $4 super bargains from Act II. Or stock up on new spring things for half their cost. The special $4 sale will be offered at Act II's Princess Anne Plaza shop only, although Act II also has stores in Norfolk and Newport News.

Or if you'd like to help replenish the spring stock at the shop, clothes are accepted on Mondays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Donors receive 50 percent of the sale price plus the usual tax deduction.

Real Estate Today
BY BUD LAUBACH G.R.I.
LARASAN REALTY CORP.

WHAT GOES WITH HOUSE

Real estate is usually defined as the land and everything attached to it, such as: buildings, trees, shrubs, etc. The buyer normally gets all of the real estate, but none of the owner's personal property. The problem arises when personal property has become a part of the real estate. This is called a fixture and does pass with the real estate.

There are three usual tests which must be satisfied. Has the personal property been permanently annexed to the real estate? Is it intended to become a part of the real estate? And finally, what is the local custom?

Usual fixtures might include: shades, heaters, ranges, screens, storm windows, lighting fixtures, etc.

It is important that the seller spell out specifically in his sales agreement exactly what he intends to give to the buyer as part of the real estate. This will save misunderstanding at the closing, and sometimes save a sale.

Thinking of selling your property? It makes sense to list it with Larasan where you can depend on complete professional service. Many qualified buyers are waiting to buy your property. Service does not stop when we list your property. Call today 340-3030.

A personal law

There was a day when grandmothers frowned on such simple Sunday afternoon activities as sewing. Even the scrawny needlework efforts of children were put aside, though they didn't really understand why.

Parents were more modern. They invited friends over for a game of bridge on Sunday night and allowed their teenagers to enjoy an afternoon movie or polish a rumble-seated car.

These infringements on Sunday were permitted only after family affairs were over because this was family day. A quiet day. Morning church services. Big midday meal. Slow, lazy afternoon. Evening snacks. Charlie McCarthy and Eddie Cantor on the radio. Monday's homework. Early to bed.

It was a special time and a special era. But that has all changed. Families are no longer tied to home because of gas rationing or because nothing in town is open for business on Sunday, but the movie houses and corner drugstores. Busy people demand the necessity of a busy era.

Retail sales on Sunday are a part of today's world. To many it is absolutely necessary to shop on Sunday. To others, it is a violation of their belief. To yet others, it is both a necessity and a violation, but they must compromise.

Virginia's Sunday blue laws are based on religious beliefs, the laws that come from within the heart and the mind. Such beliefs cannot be regulated by legislature. They are too personal.

And even the most devout must see these laws as an affront to personal beliefs, to see the fallacy in legislation that allows one to buy food and beer but prohibits the purchase of other family necessities on Sunday.

It is wrong for this state, and for this city, to continue to legislate morals and religious beliefs. Such controls must come from within the person. Those who strongly believe it is sinful to shop on Sunday will not shop on Sunday. Those who do not believe it is wrong, and those who are forced by circumstances to shop regardless of personal belief, will shop on Sunday.

This should be the control. The only control.

Important week

An important week starts Sunday. It was not proclaimed by the mayor, or signed into law by the governor, or recognized by the President.

It's not an official week. But it affects millions of Americans; in fact, every single American who eats meat.

It's the unofficial, unrecognized Meat Boycott Week. It starts Sunday, April 1, and extends through Saturday, April 7. During that period, Americans are being asked not to buy or eat meat or meat products of any kind.

The idea behind the boycott is to lower fantastically high meat prices. Experts say it won't work, but the people say it will. And whether it works or not, an important message is being heard.

The message is that Americans of all kinds, all races, all economic backgrounds, all geographic locations, all political leanings, are joining for a common cause.

Everyone has to eat. But not everyone can afford to eat meat. That makes people angry. And when people get angry, they're inclined to do something about it.

We feel the anger is justified. We urge everyone—not just housewives, not just consumer advocates, not just the family provider—to observe the boycott. It might not work, but it will certainly show the unknown "they" that meat prices must come down.

Experts say one week isn't enough. The boycott must last three weeks or a month to have any effect. But one week is long enough for the people to be heard. And that's what it's all about: People joining to help each other.

Major votes in Congress

By SONJA HILLOREN
Sun Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes from March 19-23.

HOUSE: Agreed to, 289 for and 101 against, resolution providing staff and operating funds for the controversial House Internal Security Committee.

The vote was an annual attempt to destroy the committee by withholding funds for its operation.

Supporters of the committee said it has conducted valuable investigations of the Black Panther Party, the Students for a Democratic Society, the National Peace Action Coalition and the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice.

Opponents said the "peace" investigations dig up little more than reproductions of documents published by the organizations investigated.

Opponents also said the committee produced only 13 bills, none of which were enacted during the last Congress. They said the committee's jurisdiction over subversion and espionage should be transferred to the House Judiciary Committee.

A vote "for" was a vote to maintain the committee.

A vote "against" was a vote to abolish the committee.

A dusty box reveals a treasure

Dusty old boxes in many an attic have often revealed historical gems in later years.

Such a footnote to history is the letter below. It was discovered by a North Virginia Beach resident, who opened one of those old boxes when she moved not too long ago.

The letter, written in the shaky scrawl of an elderly woman, is a first-person account of the excitement that shook the area when General Lafayette visited here in 1824.

It is, unfortunately, unsigned. She writes:

"In turning over memory's page, my thoughts revert to a bright October morning in the year of 1824.

"The sun rose so gloriously and the azure arched sky looked pure as the Spirit who looked down on the scene. It was the 19th, and the day was set apart to receive our nation's guest at York Town—the illustrious Lafayette, hero of the Revolution, and friend of Washington!

"A party of three, my brother, his wife and myself wended our way to the peninsula from the James, to York Town, where Lafayette was to be received on the very field where the English Don covered before the American eagle.

"When we arrived there, we found the place alive with people, every preparation had been made to render the day a success. (Elizabethan spelling) There was an Amphitheatre erected on the field for the ladies, in the form of a crescent, three tiers in height, each tier computed to seat a thousand ladies. They were filled to overflowing.

"There were volunteer companies from all our principal cities; and the largest crowd of persons I ever saw collected together at one time.

"After 1 o'clock, over 8,000 passengers arrived on two steamers.

"Just as the Columbia touched the City of Richmond, one of those present in large gatherings (a pick pocket) jumped on board the Columbia and seeing a lady with a watch and chain on, proceeded to appropriate it.

"But the captain of our steamer fortunately saw his transaction and felled him on the spot. Then the hue and cry was raised, all along the line as we went on shore. 'Pick pocket about ladies, take care of your watches, jewelry and money.'

"On the ground where Washington and Lafayette fought and congregated was a building of rough planks, called the "hall." The inside was covered with flags of all nations, of course the stars and stripes had a conspicuous place. At the head of the room was an old arm stick chair, that Lafayette occupied on this visit to our country.

"Two frigates, several of our own vessels, numerous steamers and small craft graced the harbor.

"We left York Town about five, and the steamer containing the President immediately awoke us.

"The vessels went through their evolutions, several hands discoursed sweet music.

"The banks of York River were crowded with spectators. The evening sun illuminated the whole and we left for Norfolk much gratified with our trip. We reached Norfolk about 8 o'clock and had the lights of that city to illumine our way home."

Sharon a winner

To the Editor:

Your article in the Sun Thursday, March 22, 1973 concerning the State Gymnasium meet in Fairfax, Va. was incorrect.

The article stated that Sandy Conkright was only Virginia Beach girl to place in the meet. Actually Miss Sharon James of Kempville High School placed fourth on the Uneven Bars and received a medal also.

I do hope that there will be something to that effect in the next edition of the Sun.

If you had read the Virginian Pilot last Sunday you would have known this. Thank you.

Mrs. A. K. Cowan

Overholt Drive

(Editor's note: The Sun regrets that Sharon James' name did not appear in the list of winners. The Virginian Pilot article was read, Miss James' name was noted but the Sun was unable to confirm the win through the Kemp-ville coach and without confirmation was unable to include her as a winner. The Sun did run the name of a Beach girl who placed 9th, which did not appear in the Pilot article. Hopefully Miss James will understand this was not a deliberate oversight. Certainly she deserves recognition for her accomplishment.)

One week not enough

To the Editor:

I enjoyed reading your article concerning the proposed "Meat Boycott" and Mrs. Hall's efforts. In my opinion, one week's boycott of not buying meat will only hurt outlets that sell (meat and meat by-products) to the consumer. One week is not enough! The boycott will have to also reach the wholesaler and distributor!!

Sincerely,

Mrs. C. L. Lits

Property owners have a right

To the Editor:

I am glad you are taking a survey on the matter of beach closure through Back Bay Wildlife Refuge.

I don't own any property there but my son does, and I know other people that also own property and need to use the beach route to get to their property.

I have been down through there lots of times with my son. I have never seen anyone destroy anything or abuse the beach. Also, I would like to know where the wildlife is. The only thing I have ever seen is sea gulls as we drove along the beach.

As for some of the people who write in and say the people who use the beach are wealthy and vandals, I disagree. My son is not wealthy. He is a Navy man and he enjoys the weekend by going down the beach road to his lot or to just relax. His lot is in Carolina but the only way he can get there is by going through the Wildlife Refuge. My son wants to build a house on his lot, but he can't right now, and what would be the use if some people that think they know everything keep trying to close the beach route?

The people that own lots pay for the property and I think they have a right to use the Back Bay Wildlife Refuge to get to their property. I most certainly approve of the Council's decision to intervene on behalf of the citizens to keep Back Bay Wildlife Refuge open to vehicular traffic.

In closing, I would like to say to the people that are trying to close the refuge, I think they could put their time to better use for the letters to the editor you have in the Sun. Also for taking a survey. I didn't see a petition to sign. I would have signed a petition to keep Back Bay Wildlife Refuge open if I had the chance.

Sincerely,

Mrs. A. Hughes

Applan Avenue

Close refuge to traffic

To the Editor:

I do not think the City should intervene in legal action regarding the regulation of vehicular traffic at the Back Bay Wildlife Refuge.

I do not think regulation at Back Bay is the problem of the city. It is the problem of Sandbridge and the people owning property and the Department of Interior.

I agree with the Interior Department and conservationists and think the beach should be closed to improve vehicular traffic. Ida May Emond

Are you sure?

As the car approached the expressway on 22nd Street, my 22-year-old son, who was driving, waved at someone. Rather flirtatiously, I thought to myself. Like any red-blooded American boy, I glanced in the direction of the wave. There standing on the corner hitching a ride, was a person in jeans, sweatshirt, long hair and a fresh young face. Ah, ha, no wonder he was flirty, I chuckled silently.

"Oops," the son suddenly yelled. The hand fell, cut midway in its friendly salute, and crimson edged up his neck, spilling into his now unsmiling face.

"What's the matter?"

"That's a boy," was the shamefaced answer. I took another look. It couldn't be. Yet, there was now a slightly puzzled expression on that fresh young face. And the outstretched thumb was defiantly plunged in a pocket.

"That was a boy?"

An embarrassed mumble. "Yep, sure was."

Then we both began to laugh. And we laughed. When one boy in his 20's can't distinguish another boy in his 20's enough to know not to throw a flirtatious wave, then the situation's getting pretty bad.

That poor kid. Bet he wonders who the two hysterical weirdos were who flashed by, ignoring his outstretched thumb. Perhaps his curiosity will drive him to a mirror. There he may find the answer. In that long, curly mass of dark hair. And that angelic young face. Maybe he learned a valuable lesson...moderation, in most anything, prevents embarrassing problems.

Dismay over surfing laws

To the Editor:

I note with dismay that the author of the measure banning surfing from the steel pier area also manages the hotel adjacent to the threatened surfing area. One would think that being in the proximity, Mr. Gardner would realize that the steel pier area is not only one of the best places for surfing at the beach, but is one within walking distance of many who are too young to drive. A glance out of his window would have shown him that this was a place where many of the Beach's youth spent their summer time, innocently and, on the whole, creatively.

Why then would he propose such a measure? An oft-heard argument asserts that surfers endanger swimmers. This has validity only because the space given surfers by law was so meagre. Mr. Gardner, if he were perceptive, would have noticed that after Camp Pendleton was opened to surfers the crowd at the steel pier thinned considerably. Surfers at the steel pier were a danger only as long as their needs were neglected.

Obviously, Mr. Gardner noticed none of this, but he will be quick to perceive the increase in the youth "hanging about" in front of his hotel. He will note with alarm the increase in the "youth-oriented" establishments — the pinball huts and foot-ball establishments. And he will be convinced of the decadence of modern youth.

Yours sincerely,

Sanford Bragg

Williamstown, Mass.

Slipshod water billing

To the Editor:

I mailed a letter to Hot Line two weeks ago and it has not been printed, so I thought I would see if you people can get some answers for me.

(The letter) concerned the aliphath way that Virginia Beach residents are being billed for the water they use.

This past summer (July, 1972) I received an estimated bill and had been gone on vacation for almost half of the billing period. When I returned, I was informed by Mr. Moore of the water department that the bill was correct as it was based on the same period of consumption for the previous year.

My sewage bill was also incorrect as it is based on the cubic feet of water consumed.

After complaining for nearly a month and refusing to pay the bill, I decided to seek help elsewhere.

Record-breaker

The closure of the Back Bay Wildlife Refuge to vehicular traffic is even more explosive now than it was a year ago when protestors were attempting to keep the wilderness beach open to the public.

The Sun Survey question concerning the closure has drawn an unprecedented response. The final tally was 1,732 and questionnaires, letters and petitions are still coming in.

Of a total only 14 persons voted in favor of keeping the beach closed.

The conservationists and ecologists who have long favored the Dept. of Interior's decision simply failed to rally for their cause. They made an attempt but it was practically lost in the whirlwind response generated by the Concerned Citizens group.

Very few comments came in this week's mail. There were a number of letters but only one or two unsigned comments.

One opponent to opening the beach has this to say, "It is amazing to learn that so many 'concerned citizens' including members of the Virginia Beach City Council are more concerned with keeping the wildlife refuge open as a playground for the beach buggy crowd and other dispersals than in restricting its use in preserving the area in its natural state for the enjoyment of all nature lovers of this and future generations."

The bulk of the response came to the Sun in the form of petitions. The names have been checked for possible duplication and none were found. The petitions and other responses will be turned over to city council for the file.

A reader has suggested a new question which stems from publicity given recently to City Manager Roger Scott's request for an employment contract with city council. Scott asked for a contract that would protect salary, travel expenses for both he and his wife, lengthy termination notice, etc. He also suggested that such contracts be provided the city department heads.

Our thanks to this reader for submitting a question and we urge all readers to do the same so that the Sun Survey can bring before the public the issues that concern the people.

Kindness is her business

By HELEN CRIST

Don't drop in on Mrs. J. W. (Liz) Sills, at her snug red and white hilltop house on 86th Street, unless you're a confirmed animal lover.

You'll be welcomed, barked at, licked with affection and inspected by Sheba, the German shepherd; three black curly-haired Labrador retriever-poodles; Nickie, the bossy Siamese cat; Buffy and Tiggy, the long-haired inquisitive part-Persian felines.

Likely as not, Liz will take you to the pine-paneled dining room, where it's bright and sunny. There, with a turn of the head, you'll look through the window at rolling sand dunes and spreading live oaks. You'll see dozens of birds, of every variety, busily pecking at suet on a table, and at bird feeders suspended from one of the trees.

"I guess I was just born an animal lover," Liz says, recalling a snapshot of herself as a tiny child, with her arms hugging a mongrel dog that she'd felt sorry for and brought home.

Because of this intense devotion to animals, Liz became one of the prime promoters of the SPCA seven years ago.

She's been president of the organization for five years, following a two-year term of Grover Wright. Last week, she was appointed its first executive director.

"I just felt it was time for someone else to be president," she said.

Mrs. George Tinnin replaces her as president. Other officers are Joseph T. Crosswhite, Jr., vice president; Mrs. Charles M. Lovitt, secretary; Mrs. A. J. Henry, treasurer.

Liz says she'd like to see all of her ideas carried out before her retirement, hastening to add that she has no plans in that direction at the moment.

"We're currently working on a total set of ordinances for protection of animals in the City. We need the word 'shelter' in our anti-cruelty laws, for instance. Virginia is one of only a few states that doesn't have it."

She says, too, that the City badly needs standards for pet shops, and particularly for its rental horse stables.

"We're constantly getting complaints, some are authentic, some are not. And when a horse is rented out, it's at the mercy of the one who rides it."

But cruelty convictions in court are non-existent, she says.

"Unfortunately, we haven't had any luck at all in getting them, in spite of pictures and witnesses."

The SPCA doesn't like to take cases to court, and Liz cites its motto: "Make a friend, not an enemy." Very often, cruelty complaints are solved simply by talking with the people involved, she says.

Directly concerned with humane treatment of animals are the humane officers: Mrs. Sills, Ben Bennett, SPCA manager; Elias Guy, in charge of horses, and Mrs. Juanita Pearce.

Also, since the first of the year, Mrs. Brenda Hardt, director of the Humane Education Program of the SPCA, has been speaking in schools, at public and private meetings and to all concerned groups.

So the issue is much before the public.

Another point on which Liz Sills feels strongly, is that the city needs its own veterinarian.

She explains that when an injured animal is picked up, the SPCA will take it to a veterinarian for treatment. If the owner can't be found, the SPCA pays the bill.

"We keep a clinic fund for this, but we think that the City should have its own veterinarian for this purpose."

Another area which causes Mrs. Sills concern is the overpopulation of animals. "I consider it extremely cruel—the birth of millions of unwanted animals. Besides, when they're spayed or neutered they become wonderful pets, and they're not so preoccupied with sex."

The SPCA now has a spaying and neutering clinic under the direction of a local veterinarian. It began operating last July.

She tells of the progress, little by little, of the SPCA since June, 1968, when Russell Hatchett, then city manager, broke ground for the building, in a heavy downpour.

Because the land, at Oceana Blvd. and General Booth Blvd., is so low, the first summer they seemed to be sitting in a pond of green slime, with the flies and mosquitoes enough to try the patience of the most confirmed enthusiasts.

The water and the land still are a problem.

"It's the same way with anyone who owns land down in that area. There is absolutely no percolation—the water table is right at the surface. If we had 60 septic tanks they wouldn't work really."

The SPCA has dry wells. It now pumps surface water out into a ditch which the City Highway Department has said it will deepen, widen and clear.

"Our only real solution is to have sewage and city water," Liz says.

Their water is potable, and not harmful to the pets, but it turns cups black, and the dog dishes never look clean, even though they're sterilized.

So it's certain that as long as Liz Sills is in the area, she'll fight the battle for the animals.

"Kindness is our business," she says. "We depend upon the public to keep us advised of any animal cruelty. And it's because of wonderful public support that we've gotten as far as we have."

The next step is to erect another building for storage. They're discussing plans for that with a contractor this week.

After that, there will no doubt be more steps in the growth of the SPCA. And it's difficult to imagine that Liz Sills will not be there to fight for it and for all the other causes in which she's involved.

A young man once said to her: "Why are you so contented? Why are you always smiling?"

She told him: "I would imagine it's because I'm doing what I think is important." Her life is one of simplicity, with a sense of direction.

Further, she says: "At my age, I can afford to discard the non-essentials and get down to the nitty-gritty business of living."

A HAPPY MOMENT — Men of the last Virginia Beach based naval units deployed to Vietnam were reunited with their families this week. Former POW Cmdr. Eugene B. (Red) McDaniel greeted pilots of his former unit Squadron VA-35 as they returned, along with Squadron VA-74, to Oceana Naval Air Station. The smiles on the faces of the father and son reflect the joy of enlisted men rejoining their families after serving on the USS America in support of the squadrons.

Land Use questioned

Does CZO violate Code?

"The approach in the CZO conflicts with State law which says invested rights shall not be impaired. And this is what the CZO would do."

Grover Wright, Innkeepers Association Attorney, made this statement to the Planning Commission during a public hearing on the proposed Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance (CZO) and accompanying maps, and review of the Commission's recommended revision of the documents.

To strengthen this contention Wright referred to State law provisions indicating, "The key is use of land, so long as that use is continued. It is not the intent that use of non-conforming property be changed."

The question arose in a discussion of CZO provisions for density in H-2 Resort Hotel Districts, which indicated a number of buildings would become non-conforming under this provision and in the event of their accidental destruction they could not be rebuilt to their original design. Examples cited included the Holiday Inn, Ramada Inn and Chesapeake House.

Reflecting that two these structures are already complete, while the third is still under construction Commission Chairman J. Harry Mote said, "I would hate to see brand new buildings become non-conforming, after approved by Council, even before they are built." Mote suggested that prior to the CZO's adoption, "It should be made compatible with State law."

Wright's contention the CZO violates the State Code through proposed use of land apparently refers to Code regulations governing preparation of comprehensive zoning plans. These provide "...the local commission shall investigate such matters as...characteristics and conditions of existing development."

Other matters to be considered, according to the Code, include "...existing development...use of land...trends of growth or changes, natural site characteristics, population densities...existing community facilities."

Before the proposed CZO and accompanying maps can be implemented, after Planning Commission approval, the material will be subjected to review by the City Council and require that body's option.

First grade, kindergarten registration

Public school registration for all kindergarten and first grade students will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. on April 5, 6, and 7 in all Virginia Beach elementary schools except Kemps Landing and Bettie F. Williams.

To be eligible for enrollment in kindergarten, a child must be 5 years old on or before November 1, 1973. The first grade age requirement is 6 years old on or before October 1, 1973. Proof of the child's birth date is required.

A special presentation will be offered in conjunction with the registration to acquaint parents and students with the kindergarten and first grade programs and the school facilities. Immunization and physical examination requirements will also be explained at this time.

Little Neck may lose 2 schools fire station

Little Neck area resident have charged that the proposed Comprehensive

reportedly had obtained financing to construct the home. At this point, she said, her family of five had to move into an apartment, where payments were higher than those required to finance the home she attempted to build. She said she re-applied for a construction permit again last year, and was again rejected on the basis of soil tests being unfavorable for a septic tank. After living in the apartment for two years she says she had to leave Seateck in order to provide a home for her family, and bought a house in the Atlantic Park area. Three other residents also told of attempts to build on their property, but have been denied building permits for the past three years on the basis the area will not support any additional septic tanks. Attempts were made in 1969 to have the city install sewerage lines in Seateck through a petition signed by 75 per-cent of the residents saying they would agree to connect their homes to the system when installed. They contended however this was denied by the city on grounds the majority of petitioners were not in fact property owners, whose agreement was required. Similar attempts in 1971 to obtain sewerage lines again reportedly failed on the same grounds. Health officials attribute the unsanitary conditions in Little Neck Village to a predominance of clay in the soil, which again results in faulty septic tank operation and creates hazardous conditions. Residents say they have been attempting to have sewerage lines brought into their area for over two years. They also report sewage backing-up into their homes, standing in yards, and overflowing into ditches behind their property. One resident says she has continually spread sand over the lot to attempt to create dry land, but even this was unsuccessful.

One resident of the area, who indicates she is echoing feelings of neighbors, classifies the situation as being critical. She recently renewed requests for sewerage system in Little Neck Village in a letter to the City describing the situation at her home.

She said, "Can you imagine having three children and not being able to wash any clothes. Thank God the laundromats can help to relieve this part some. Of course, this can be expensive plus the mental agony it cause the woman of the house to have a washer that she can't use. The washing is only one of the smaller problems. Can you imagine not being able to take a bath or let your children take a bath. Most especially, since they have to play in yards that are standing in raw sewage and water. Now try to imagine—one more large problem with three children and two adults—try telling your child he can't use the commode or if he does to make sure he doesn't flush it. Then once more try to imagine what a mother goes through when the small one forgets and flushes the toilet. Then the bucket brigade begins as you bail out the shower as fast as you can to try to save your bathroom carpet."

Water rests on one point

Long years of 'deadlocked negotiations on a water contract between Virginia Beach and Norfolk apparently now hinge on settling a lone issue. A system of price escalation permitted Norfolk in supplying water to Virginia Beach during the 20 year contract period.

The latest proposal was arrived at Monday by an ad hoc committee, comprised of Mayor Robert B. Cranwell, Jr., Vice-Mayor F. Reid Ervin and Councilman Dr. Clarence A. Holland, to assist City Manager Robert M. Scott in the continuing negotiations with Norfolk.

Discussing the status of the negotiations Scott said, "All that remains now is to get it (the contract proposal) in shape and let the Mayor's committee review it to see if it's in line with what they want, then permit the full City Council to vote on it." Scott indicated he hoped this could be accomplished during next Monday's regular Council meeting. The financial and legal aspects of the proposal are being reviewed to finalize the offer for Council's consideration.

Virginia Beach proposes an escalation clause permitting Norfolk to increase the price of water supplied the resort city at a rate comparable to any inflationary increase in the cost of capital improvements.

This counters Norfolk's proposal of a half-cent water price increase for each one-point increase in the cost-of-living index.

With the exception of this escalation clause the proposal basically agrees with the latest proposal from Norfolk. Those points agreed upon include a bulk rate, Virginia Beach purchasing all water lines and meters in their sort city, and a "buy out" provision.

Virginia Beach would purchase water from Norfolk at a flat bulk rate of 48¢ per 1,000 gallons for resale to its consumers. This rate would be subject to adjustment after the initial three or five years of the contract period.

The "buy out" clause would permit Virginia Beach to be released from the remaining contract period, at a price equitable to Norfolk, should a regional water authority become operational before the expiration of the 20-year contract.

Septic tank owner protection advances

Steps are being taken to protect prospective land purchasers in areas where sewage is unavailable from being prohibited planned use of land through denial of septic tank permits.

City Councilman John A. Baum Monday won approval of a requested ordinance requiring Health Department certification of land for septic tanks prior to the properties sub-division and/or sale.

The move came after Baum cited a number of cases where such permit denials occurred, and his questioning why septic tanks were being denied on property in Blackwater while such permits were being granted on similar land in nearby Chesapeake.

City health officials earlier had contended the denials were based on tests which showed the land, particularly large tracts of property, was "marginal" in ability to percolate properly for safe septic tank operation.

In explaining the present policy on septic tanks Vernon Watts, City Sanitation Supervisor, told Council, "Marginal land would be land that had proper drainage and as much as 12 inches of soil above the water table an without mottling in that soil. To this soil we would add sand (2-3 feet) in the area of drainfield and under the house. Also, three acres of land would be required for marginal soils before we could approve for septic tanks."

Watts pointed out "this three acre policy was a ruling of the State Health Commissioner". He also pointed out the City would test soil for Blackwater land owners at no expense to them.

Study of people

surveyed. One is the average number of years of school completed by those who are age 25 or over. The other is the percentage of the population 25 and over who have completed four or more years of college.

Virginia Beach ranks higher in both of these educational measures than either the area or the State. Virginia Beach residents completed an average 12.4 years of school, but area residents had completed only 11.8 years and State residents 11.7 years. In Virginia Beach, 13.7 percent of the citizens completed four or more years of college, but only 9.3 percent of the area residents and 12.3 percent of the State residents had completed at least four years of higher education.

The census classified occupations into some twenty categories, which, for the purpose of the study, were combined into four main groups. They are the "white collar," "blue collar," agricultural, and service worker groups. Military personnel are not included in these classifications.

The residents of Virginia Beach are shown to be in predominantly "white collar" occupations. Virginia Beach found 61.3 percent of its residents employed in white collar jobs, 25.9 percent in blue collar jobs, 11.9 percent in service jobs, and just .9 percent in agricultural work.

The State had 41.7 percent of its resident working in white collar positions, 47.3 percent in blue collar positions, 4.0 percent in agricultural positions, and 7.0 percent in service positions.

The metropolitan area showed 50.4 percent employed as white collar workers, 34.1 percent as blue collar workers, .5 percent as agricultural workers, and 14.7 percent as service workers. The average family income is that reported for the year 1969. Virginia Beach had a higher family income than either the State or the metropolitan area. The average family income for Virginia Beach was $10,300 per family, while the State average was $9,000 and the area average was $8,700.

City files for road funding

The State has opened the avenue again for highway assistance funds according to a report presented to City Council by City Manager Roger Scott on Monday. Virginia Beach is hoping to take advantage of the fund availability and has filed a request for funds to improve three road projects.

Scott is requesting that the State Department of Highways and the Federal Bureau of Roads accept for urban assistance grants projects that would improve Great Neck, Witchduck, and Newtown roads.

The State requested in 1972 that the City hold off on asking for urban assistance highway funds until further notice. The City was recently informed that the State will now proceed to implement the most urgently needed projects.

Task Force helps vets

The second anniversary of the founding of the Virginia Beach Jobs for Veterans Task Force was observed March 22 with a luncheon meeting of the Task Force addressed by Irving Feltz, member of the National Committee, Jobs for Veterans, and Veterans Administration representative.

The Task Force announced that it intends to proceed with the Jobs for Veterans Campaign, noting President Nixon's recent statement, "There is a job for every veteran...who wants a job" and adding that this is especially true in Virginia Beach.

WOODBERRY FOREST APTS. RESORT LIVING AT LOW, LOW COST

Imagine living just minutes away from the beach, but without the expense; in your own private, spacious, beautifully landscaped apartment. Woodberry Forest Apartments offer you just that.

Opened in August, 1972, this 91-unit community on a lovely wooded site combines privacy with convenience in large maintenance-free 1- and 2-bedroom apartments of unique, modern design. And the setting is exquisite—tall trees provide a quiet, cool, shady, serene atmosphere.

For the outdoors enthusiast, swimming, fishing, surfing are within walking distance. And for outdoor living at home, you have your own large private balcony or patio with storage room, outdoor recreation area away from streets and parking, a recreation room with kitchen and bar, and even a private swimming pool! All this and lots of parking space, too.

And when you have to go inside, your air conditioned, wall-to-wall carpeted home allows you comfort and convenience too, with bright spacious rooms with large windows, and ample closet and storage space (including walk-in closets with shelves). All living and dining rooms face private landscaped area. There are large baths with ceramic tile around tubs, (2 full baths in the 2-bedroom unit). Extra conveniences include a Master Antenna for excellent UHF-VHF reception, furnished drapery rods for windows and sliding glass doors, and a laundry room on the premises.

The most outstanding feature is the large, bright kitchen with built-in breakfast-bar counter. Included are dishwasher, garbage disposal, electric range and hood, and double-door, frost-free refrigerator; and plenty of cupboard and counter space.

The large spacious rooms at Woodberry Forest Apts. lend to decorating of all styles.

All beaches, shopping, churches, schools and buses are within minutes of this most convenient location...916 S. Oriole Drive, just off Laskin Rd. Starting at $170 per month, rent includes gas for heating, hot water and cooking.

Woodberry Forest Apartments are managed by Goodman-Segar-Hogan. Stop by and see for yourself, or phone 425-0687; Resident Manager Mrs. Anne Picard or Leasing and Management Specialist Mrs. Eileen J. Casteel will be glad to help you make Woodberry Forest Apartments home for you and your family.

Community league sports keep growing and growing

What has eight eyes, eight arms, eight legs, four mouths, lives under the bleachers of a Virginia Beach stadium, and engulfs at least 9,330 athletes in a single season?

The answer may surprise you to this riddle, but the correct answer is the Athletic Office of the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation. Working out of their office under the bleachers of Union-Kampville Stadium on Witchduck Road, the four-man Athletic Office coordinated athletic programs in 1972 that at least 9,330 Beach residents participated in.

It is not really a four-man office. In reality, the Athletic Office is made up of three full-time men and one part-time secretary. Ned Cheely, the City's Athletic Director, heads the group, which includes Sports Supervisors Butch Grinstead and Reuben Lebo. Miss Pamela Harris is the secretary.

To say that the group keeps busy is an understatement. Not only does the office schedule thousands of games during the year, but they also have to work in make-up games, keep scores on each game, answer questions from the many team coaches, hold rules meetings, register players, and fight the never-ending battle of finding playing space to handle the number of teams that just keep on growing each year.

Playing space is becoming more of a problem every season. Outside facilities, meaning football fields and baseball diamonds, have not reached a critical point, but the space situation has become critical in indoor sports such as basketball. This is mainly because it is easier to convert an open field into a football, softball, or baseball field than it is to build a fieldhouse for basketball.

The office estimates that it could not handle another 35 basketball teams. There were 246 cage teams in the Community League this year, 199 youth teams and 47 adult teams, an increase of 38 teams over the 1971 season. It is more of a space problem than a budget one.

The office has not had to turn down teams yet. Space has always been available somewhere. But the mushrooming growth of Beach residents is felt in the recreation program just as gravely as it is felt in water, sewerage and other areas.

"If we had to turn down teams," Athletic Director Ned Cheely pondered, "it would have to be in the adult programs. Although the programs are as important to the adults as they are to the youth of the City, I don't see how we can turn down any children. The adults would be able to understand why there was no space for them to play on more readily than could the children. The children's programs would have to come first, but we are hoping the situation won't become that critical."

Some of the space problems could be resolved by more use of the present space in the near future. This seems to indicate that no teams would have to be barred from League play for the next couple of seasons. To better utilize the existing space, Recreation League games could be played on Sunday, in the elementary school fieldhouses after school hours in the afternoons, or possibly new school field houses and the proposed community center in the Princess Anne Plaza area could be constructed.

The number of teams in the leagues, the number of games scheduled, and the number of people participating in the athletic programs is staggering. At least 9,330 Beachites were on various League teams last year.

Basketball edged baseball and softball for the greatest

Although he is usually surrounded by a mountain of paperwork, City Athletic Director Ned Cheely always finds time to help a caller solve a problem.

amount of participation. Playerwise, not counting managers and other team personnel, 3,660 people were on basketball teams and 3,860 were on baseball and softball teams.

There were 199 youth basketball teams this past season. The largest division was the Midget Division with its 76 teams. There were 48 Intermediate, 24 Junior, 21 Pre-Teen, 17 Teen Girls, and 14 Senior teams. On the adult side, there were 43 teams scheduled, including 26 Unlimited, 10 Duffer, 7 Church, and 4 Women's teams.

To picture the basketball participation growth in 1972 over 1971, youth teams increased from 165 to 199 and adult teams jumped from 43 to 47. This increase of 38 teams represents 570 more residents participating in basketball.

The growth in baseball and softball was just as dramatic. In 1971 there were 153 teams, an increase of 30 teams over the previous year. The number of teams increased by 30 again for 1972, with 283 teams taking to the diamonds last summer. The 1972 records showed 109 youth teams and 74 adult teams, which represents 3,660 players.

To accommodate these 283 teams, the Athletic Office personnel scheduled 1,283 games in a 10-week period. An estimated 128,000 fans attended the games.

Growth in football has not been quite so dramatic, largely because it is quite an expensive proposition to field a football team. In 1972, 72 teams participated in league play. There were 30 90-pound teams, 26 110-pound teams, 6 125-pound teams, and 10 adult teams, representing a total of 1,500 players.

Minor sports also experienced a great deal of growth. There were 12 soccer teams in 1972 compared to 9 a year earlier. Volleyball teams jumped from 12 in 1971 to 16 in 1972.

Community League cage season closes

The championship playoffs have ended, and the Virginia Beach Community Basketball League participants can hang their sneakers up until next fall. In the playoff action, six more City champions were crowned last week.

The Cooke Rams downed the Plaza Demons 56-50 to win the Intermediate championship. Woodstock's Ball Hawks beat the Arrowhead Ducks 66-55 for the Senior title. In the Pre-Teen Division, Creeds' Country Cousins nosed Plaza's Patriots 17-16 for the division crown. Aragona's Spartans bombed the King's Grant Chiefs 63-43 for the Junior title. The Piledrivers edged the Bucks 76-70 to win the Adult Division championship. First Presbyterian outscored Aragona Church of Christ 45-39 to win the Church Division crown.

The other division titles were decided in earlier action. A complete season recap of division champions and league champions follows.

CAROL ZIEGLER

Ziegler wins bowling title for Va. Tech

Carol (Landy) Ziegler will represent Virginia Tech during an international collegiate bowling meet April 9th through 17th in Las Vegas, Nevada. The 18-year-old Virginia Beach girl is a health and physical education major at Tech and plans to teach physical education after graduation.

Miss Ziegler was one of the two all-events champions during the Region Five competition at the annual Association of College Unions-International (ACUI) recently in Knoxville, Tennessee. She was the all-events winner in bowling competition.

The Virginia Beach freshman competed with 398 participants from 34 colleges in the five-state region, which includes Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, and North and South Carolina. Virginia Tech was the overall winner with a total of 38 points, nine points ahead of runner-up University of Tennessee.

Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Ziegler of 644 Liberty Bell Road.

Sports Supervisor Butch Grimstead proves that with all the work the department has there are times to enjoy a funny incident that happened at one of the games.

Community leagues

enough work for these four people, the Athletic Office also helps in the running of various tennis and badminton programs. Much of the tennis work is in the form of clinics and tournaments and in assisting the Tennis Patrons Association in developing various youth net programs.

Another important function of the Athletic Office is often forgotten, yet it is just as important as the rest. The department is responsible for preparing the football fields and the ball diamonds prior to game time. Of course, other City employees do the actual lining of the fields, but the Athletic Office must coordinate all of the work.

It is hard to really judge the work these people are doing if you have not been exposed to other City athletic programs around the country. People moving into the City are amazed at the scope of Virginia Beach's community league programs. Most cities of our size do not even begin to have the number of teams found here.

Most cities place a limit on the number of teams participating in their community sports programs, sort of a first-come, first-served basis. This is not being done in Virginia Beach. In fact, it will not be done as long as people like Ned Cheely, Butch Grimstead, and Reuben Lebo are running the program. Not as long as there is space available, that is.

Lack of space is the only thing that will stymie the growth of the mushrooming Virginia Beach athletic program. Players can rest assured that the Office will do everything in its power to find every floor big enough to schedule a basketball game.

Their goal in the past has been to find space for every team that enters the league, not to limit the number of teams to the most readily available space. This policy will continue in the future.

P.A. tennis team loses first match

The Princess Anne Cavalier net team lost their opening match of the season to Craddock by a 6-2 score. The Cavaliers managed to win just two singles victories.

SINGLES — Cooke (C) d. Hunter 6-4, 4-6, 6-4; Stenzel (C) d. Callan 2-6, 6-2, 6-4; Sellers (C) d. Self 9-7, 6-2; Rice (C) d. Kermer 6-1, 7-5; Plako (PA) d. Bogler 2-6, 6-3; and Douer (PA) d. Dorn 6-4, 6-2.

DOUBLES — Sellers and Bogler (C) d. Self and Plako 8-2; and Rice and Dorn (C) d. Kermer and Douer 8-4.

Eubank played in 26 of ODU's 28 games and finished with 213 points and 139 rebounds. He was the team's fifth-leading scorer in both points, 213, and in the per-game average, 8.2 points. In rebounding, his 139 rebounds and his 5.3 per-game average were good for third place.

The 6'4" sophomore also was third in assists, with 35. He hit 85 of his 174 field goal attempts for a 49.1 percent accuracy and 43 of 57 free throw attempts for a 73.7 percent accuracy. In accuracy, Eubank ranked second on the team in the field goal department and third in free throw attempts.

Eubank led all ODU scorers in the 112-94 win over St. Francis and played significant roles in the other 19 victories.

Another Beach player, Ricky Michaelson played in 17 ODU games this season before being dropped from the team for academic reasons. The team's most accurate shooter, Michaelson hit 58.1 percent of his field goal attempts for 378 points, an average of 22.2 points per game.

P.A. golf team unbeaten

After two outings, the Princess Anne golf team is undefeated. Some people have called this year's Cavalier golf team the best ever assembled in the State. Their first two games would indicate these observers may be correct.

The Cavaliers are led this year by Alan and Curtis Strange, Phil Stewart, and Richard Tucker. They opened their first match last Thursday against Kecoughtan, won it, and set a new State record. The Cavaliers easily disposed of Kecoughtan 281-339. The 281 stroke total bettered the old State record by four strokes, the previous mark being 285.

Phil Stewart was the medalist in the Kecoughtan win with a 68, four under par. Alan Strange shot a two-under par 70. Richard Tucker posted a one-under par 71, and Curtis Strange finished with a par 72. Princess Anne won a three-way match last Monday, 65 strokes better than runner-up Granby. Princess Anne finished with 292 strokes, Granby had 357, and Craddock, had 416.

Alan Strange was the medalist for the match with an even par 72. Curtis Strange and Richard Tucker finished with 73 cards, and Phil Stewart shot a 74. Both matches were played at Red Wing Golf Course.

Larry Ambrose wins in junior moto-cross class

Beach bikers did not do as well this week at the Mid-East Moto-Cross Track. Last time around, the Virginia Beach riders dominated the events, but last Sunday only a handful were among the top finishers.

Larry Ambrose was the only class winner from the Beach group. Ambrose won the junior crosser competition, sweeping all three motos.

Mickey Boone of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, was Sunday's big winner. He won eight of the nine motos and claimed first place in the 100cc, 175cc, and 250cc classes.

In the 100cc class, Jim Sandloop of Virginia Beach placed second overall. Jay Kaufman entered the 100cc event with his 75cc mini-bike and finished fifth overall, proving that consistency pays.

Bruce Lember entered the final moto of the open class tied with South Boston's Virgil Slagle. Slagle won, Lember finished second, and Tom Lassen finished fifth. Lassen and Lember are from Virginia Beach.

The next moto at Mid-East will be held on April 8th. A list of all finishers follows, with Beach riders capitalized.

Adult physical fitness program begins Monday

The Spring session of the Adult Physical Fitness Program will begin April 2nd at seven school sites around Virginia Beach. The 10-week program is sponsored by the Virginia Beach Parks and Recreation Department and is offered free of charge for all Beach residents.

Running until June 7th, the program gives adults the opportunity to exercise and to participate in sports such as basketball, volleyball, tennis, trampoline, weight lifting, and ladies' trimnastics. All participants must be 18 years of age and over.

Fitness centers will be located at the following schools: Cox, First Colonial, Princess Anne, Kempsville, and Kellam high schools, and at Plaza and Bayside junior high schools. The school fieldhouses will be open Monday and Thursday nights from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. for the fitness program.

Chiefs divide first two baseball games

Jimmy Moore and Frank Welch split mound duties and held Norview to three hits as the defending State champion Kempsville Chiefs opened their 1973 campaign last Tuesday with a 2-1 win. Moore helped his own cause and picked up the win when he singled in the winning run in the third inning.

Both Kempsville runs came in the third inning. Catcher Jerry Crane singled and then scored the first run for the Chiefs when Frank Welch tripled. Norview picked up one run in the first inning, and the Crane fun tied the game at one-all. Welch then scored the winning run when Moore singled him in from third.

The Kempsville record was evened at one win and one loss for the season on Friday when they were handed only their second loss in two years. The Norfolk Catholic Crusaders scored four runs in a big fifth inning and won the game 6-3. The final inning was not played due to darkness.

The Chiefs were held to just three hits. Frank Welch was tagged with the loss for Kempsville.

Kempsville netters win

Kempsville's netters opened their 1973 season with a 5-3 win over Wilson last Tuesday.

Swimmers needed

The W.W. Houston Boys' Club is presently recruiting members for its Marlin Swim Team for the 1973 swim season. The team will compete in AAU meets, Boys' Club meets, and local swim meets.

Any boys between the ages of seven and sixteen who are interested in joining the team are asked to call the Boys' Club for further information. The Club is located at 3401 Azalea Garden Road in Norfolk, and the phone number is 855-8908.

afternoon. Wilson is the defending champion of the Southeastern District.

The odd score resulted because the number two doubles match was rained out. Kempsville was ahead at the time the match was called. SINGLES — Minschke (K) d. Sumner 6-4, 6-0; Kozak (W) d. Meadows 6-4, 8-5; Hurwitz (W) d. Skaltsounis 6-4, 6-0; Hara (K) d. Rivin 7-5, 6-1; McNulty (K) d. Silverstein 6-0, 6-1; and Stavish (K) d. Piland 1-6, 6-3.

DOUBLES — Sumner and Kizak (W) d. Minschke and Skaltsounis 6-3, 7-5; McNulty and Stavish (K) d. Silverstein and Piland 6-1, 6-2.

F.C. loses net opener

First Colonial dropped its opening tennis match of the season to a strong Norfolk Catholic team. The Crusaders blanked the Patriots 9-0.

MICROCLIMATE: What it's all about!

If you're an avid gardener, you've read more about microclimates in recent years. Even if you're not, you'll be reading more about it this year and in the future.

Here in Virginia Beach, we have a microclimate because of the influence of the ocean on our weather. The technical definition for microclimate is "an area with somewhat different climatic conditions from a surrounding area."

Seashore Park is a good example of microclimate. The Spanish moss and other tropical vegetation found there is unusual because by all laws of nature, it's too far north for it to be growing at Virginia Beach.

You can create your own microclimate in a tiny area of your garden. Such a location may offer a place to grow plants not normally hardy for this area—or it may subject plants to undesirably extreme conditions. Elements of a microclimate include shade, exposure, moisture and air movement.

Two examples might be the gerbera daisy and eucalyptus. Neither are quite hardy enough for this area. After replacing two cecropia plants planted by a local nursery, we both gave up. But by selecting an area that is more tropical than normal, you can successfully grow both. The gerbera is primarily California grown, and you'll see it in arrangements coming from your florist right now.

A DOZEN GLAD BULBS — the best bargain bouquet around.

There is no easier flower to grow for summer bouquets than the gladiolus. Any sunny place will do — don't plant them for ornamental value in the lawn — for they fall over and can be ugly unless you plan to cut them for bouquets. But when you pay $6 a dozen to buy fresh cut glads — why not plant a dozen around your home this year? There are some beautiful new varieties — ruffled, dwarf, double — and in all shades from lavender to gold. Plant them deep enough — 4 to 6 inches and about 10" apart. This means in any area about 5 feet x 2 feet, in full sun, you can have a dozen glads. Tait's and Coleman's always have the newest varieties; if you can't find what you want, P. De Jager & Sons, South Hamilton, Mass., is one of the best mail order sources on the East Coast. Wherever you shop, your nearby garden store should have a good selection of the most easily grown glads.

Useful Terms

Are you unclear what the label means when purchasing lawnseed, or what certain terms signify when following lawn care advisories?

These definitions may help. Biodegradable: decomposing readily after use, as with certain pesticides.

COARSE KIND: less attractive grasses grouped secondarily on the lawnseed label.

Cool-season grass: lawngrass adapted to more northerly climates, most used from the border states northward (especially bentgrass, bluegrass, fescue and perennial ryegrass).

Crop (in seed): extraneous seeds other than weeds carried in purchased seed.

Fine-textured: attractive lawn-grasses given primary listing on seed labels.

Germination: ability of seed to sprout.

Hybrid: progeny from the crossing of two distinct genetic types.

Major nutrients: nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, the primary components of a lawn fertilizer.

pH: a numerical indication of soil acidity-alkalinity, in which 7 is neutral; less than 7, acid (often needing lime) more than 7, alkaline.

Rhizome: an underground stem in species such as Kentucky bluegrass and fine fescue which enable the plant to spread and form sod well. Slow-release: term applied to lawn fertilizers that liberate nitrogen slowly over a span of time; typically contain ureaform.

Thatch: residues at the base of sod, mostly lignous sheaths, stems and roots. Ureaform: a special polymer of urea and formaldehyde that decomposes slowly releasing nitrogen at a steady pace. Weed: any plant growing where unwanted, but by law certain agricultural pests (seeds of which are sometimes carried in seed for lawns and other purposes).

Services Professional.

Not Personal

PRESTBURY, England — When Roy Sheldon advertised a free-lance gardening service, he received more replies than he expected — most of them from women who wanted something besides a gardener, according to a report from United Press International.

Sheldon's ad read: "Man wants work. Ring any time. Will do anything in the garden."

The trouble arose when his card, placed on a town bulletin board, slipped behind another card and hid the words "in the garden."

It did not take long for Sheldon's wife to receive the first of many calls.

"When I got the first one, I nearly passed out," she said. "It was so embarrassing when she came right out and said what she wanted his services for."

Sheldon quickly removed his ad. "This is not the kind of work I had in mind at all," he said.

This is the month to fertilize your shrubs

By J.R. STIFFLER

Despite temperatures in the 30's last week in Virginia Beach, spring is officially here, which means it's time to fertilize and spray your shrubs before spring growth begins.

A plant cannot survive without food. It's just like a human being. It requires medicine in the form of sprays to ward off diseases and insects. Sometimes it makes one wonder, the way the human race buys and uses medicine today - what do we expect from our plants when we give them none of the same favored treatment?

Get a special acid fertilizer for your azaleas and camellias. Also your gardenias, holly and boxwood. All these special plants require a special acid plant food. Azaleas should be fertilized now before they bloom and again afterward. The same applies to camellias.

For other acid loving plants, fertilize them now before warm weather arrives. And do it carefully. Don't follow the old adage that if a little is good, a lot is better. Azaleas have shallow roots; too much fertilizer can injure them. On these tender plants, there is no danger if you read and follow the directions. Water in the fertilizer to help it go to work.

For your other shrubs, both deciduous (which means they shed their leaves) and evergreen, use a special shrub fertilizer or 6-6-4 Plant Food Pellets are satisfactory. The normal rule is a cupful of fertilizer scattered within the drip line (the outer edge of the branches) under the bush, for shrubs up to two feet in height. For every foot of height over two feet, use another cupful of fertilizer.

If we're in a dry spell (which we haven't had for a long while in Virginia Beach), water in. Normally, the next rain will take the plant food down around the roots where it can go to work.

Try a systemic. Systemic means that the insect killer enters the plant through its roots and is transferred internally. You apply the systemic control around the plant; it goes into the roots and moves up through the plant and provides internal control. When a sucking insect attacks the plant, the systemic insecticide within the veins of the shrub, kills the insect. Sounds like magic, doesn't it, and it almost is.

You can buy systemic granules to put around your shrubs - or there is a systemic insect control and fertilizer combination available at your favorite garden center. Call those you see on this page and they'll have what you need. Nurserymen in Georgia report good results on azaleas with systemic insect control. One nurseryman says he has had no lace bugs or other insects and his plants have a healthier, greener appearance. Professional nurserymen believe they get a healthier azalea by using systemic insect control - so try it. It's safe - since the pesticide is inside the plant - and it works.

Be sure to fertilize your shrubs this spring. Give them the same chance to survive that you give yourself. At the price of groceries today, you'll find you can feed your shrubs for a lot less than you can feed yourself. You'll be rewarded with greener, healthier, faster-growing, more beautiful plants.

Time to Fertilize Your Shrubs

This is the Rhea Walker home at the end of Duke of Windsor Road on Linkhorn Bay, where the annual fertilization of azaleas and evergreens has begun.

FROM THE GARDENER'S DESK

I was in Philadelphia last Monday and attended the Philadelphia Flower and Garden Show that night. Our own Fred Heutte was one of the judges. It is truly a magnificent show. The Philadelphia Bulletin describes it as "an eight-day floral extravaganza...an explosion of color, spread over 3 acres of the massive auditorium...dazzling. The ingenuity and effort put into the exhibits, amateur as well as professional, are extraordinary. The scope, the enthusiasm, the beauty are overwhelming...the largest enterprise of its kind in the East, and people who know say it's the best anywhere...a spectacle that should not be missed by anyone." With all that, we agree 100 percent. It's a beautiful beyond description; that's why I preferred to use the description of the Bulletin. Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Horticulture Society, Executive Director Ernesta Ballard told our group of garden writers that the show has 100-110,000 visitors every year, an annual budget of $250,000 and must be self-supporting. It's worth a trip from Virginia Beach to see. Check with your travel agency next February and get the dates for early March. You'll not regret it....WHY DON'T THEY - mark lawnmower settings with height of grass cut rather than all these medium, short, tall, etc.? Every bit of information from the technical turf colleges, grass-growing experts, etc. gives advice in terms of how high the grass should be cut - but I've yet to see the first lawn mower that has any markings to tell you when you make an adjustment in mowing height so to how tall you are cutting the grass....STRANGE, ISN'T IT that the holly tree sheds in the spring? While most other plant life is coming into life.

GROW TURNIPS FAST

Then plant them between the runways at a jet airport. A team of physicists and biologists from a southern university subjected turnip seed to the kind of noise you might expect if you stood 100 feet from a 737 jet, according to the Smithsonian, and found that wet turnip seeds germinated far faster than those coddled in a quiet environment. So far, there's no evidence to indicate that people who eat these turnips may tend to grow deaf!

'NAKED' SEED

A new pumpkin variety that has hull-less seed is appropriately named, "Lady Godiva." People who enjoy eating pumpkin seed should find these "naked" seed a real convenience. They won't have to shell them.

NOW IS THE TIME TO...

Just about the last week you can put on crabgrass preventer. The rule-of-thumb is to apply crab grass controls before the forsythia blooms fall in the spring. Forsythia is now in full bloom - so time is short to get your crabgrass preventer applied if you need it.

Make plans to spray your plantings regularly. Six or seven sprayings per year are recommended to control the many insects and diseases we have around us. If you don't have the time to do it, contact a spray service. Then you know it will get done - and it costs less than you think.

If you have regrass, begin to mow often and close, so the Bermuda underneath can get the sun and begin to revive for spring. Use a grass catcher and put the clippings on a compost pile or use them as mulch. They're better removed from the lawn. Don't let your eye get too tall! Mow it often.

Buy a trowel. It's the second handiest thing you can own - next to clippers. And always have it in your hip pocket - to dig up a weed... transplant a flower... move a clump of grass into a bare spot. Carry always.

Continue to prune. This March-April period is the ideal time to prune in Virginia Beach. And don't be afraid to really cut down some of those over-tall shrubs. Fertilize them good - and they'll come back - and be the right proportion. Trim down those overgrown shrubs now - let your house be seen again!

Plant some perennials for a spot of permanent color around your house. Garden centers have gailardia, phlox, columbine - and other perennials that grow well in this area.

Plant a row of spinach - or a second row of radishes, lettuce or green onions. Also bush or pole beans.

QUESTION: What can I plant next to my air conditioner to help hide it. The plant must be able to stand the hot air the unit throws out. - Mrs. J.M., Wellington Woods.

ANSWER: - Try oleanders; they can stand most anything. In extreme winters, they may freeze down in Virginia Beach's climate, but they'll come back from the roots. Robbins Nursery usually carries them, but have none now. They say they'll have some later. Call Coleman's; they may have them in stock. If you can't find oleanders and want to plant at once, you can QUESTION: - I live in Chesapeake Connoy, and my waterfroot is not the most attractive. I don't want to cut it down to bulkhead, but I can plant along the water to hide some of the marshy look? - Don J.

ANSWER: - Many of us have a similar problem. Anything you plant there must be able to stand salt water and high winds. Fred Heutte is doing some experimenting on this very subject. We do know that cannot be used. I have them planted in a similar spot at my own home. Ligustrum will also live in that area, but will not grow very fast.

Alta Elaine Ward weds Charles Schwalier II

Alta Elaine Ward became the bride of Ens. Charles Dale Schwalier II on March 24 at 4 p.m. at the Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base Chapel in a military wedding ceremony with Chaplain Dale Grubbs officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Cmdr. and Mrs. Robert B. Ward of Virginia Beach. The bridegroom is the son of Col. and Mrs. Charles Dale Schwalier of Tampa, Fla.

The bride was given away by her father. She wore a gown of bridal white chantilly lace in the traditional Victorian style. The softly gathered A-line skirt was ruffled and scalloped at the hem and matching lace ruffles trimmed the fitted empire bodice and high neckline. Wide bell-shaped sleeves echoed the width of the ruffled hem. A matching cathedral length mantilla of white illusion edged with scalloped chantilly lace completed the ensemble. She carried a cascade of miniature white carnations and baby's breath.

Sharon Kay Ward, sister of the bride, and Janet Cook of Atlanta, cousin of the bride.

The bridal attendants wore floor-length gowns of maize organza accented with white lace. The wide A-line organza skirts and taffeta underskirts fell from the fitted lace empire bodices, complementing the lines and style of the bridal gown. The attendants' ensembles were completed with matching maize organza triple dori bows holding puffs of pastel illusion. They carried cascades of yellow miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Capt. Terry J. Schwalier of Columbus, Miss., served as the bride's best man. Ushers were Lt. jg Paul Vogel of Virginia Beach, Ens. David Hearing of Norfolk, Ens. Ronald Newlan of Virginia Beach, Lt. jg Robert Agnor of Norfolk and Lt. Charles Stout of Virginia Beach. Lt. jg Perry Dowd was featured as soloist.

After a reception at the Little Creek Officers' Club, the couple left on a wedding trip to Disney World in Florida. They will reside in Pensacola.

Mrs. Raymond Anthony Roenker Jr.

Miss Roxanna Hoffman weds Brooks Bergner

The marriage of Roxanna Hoffman and Ens. Brooks Bergner took place on March 24 at 2 p.m. at St. Marks Episcopal Church in Cheyenne, Wyo., with the Rev. Eugene Todd officiating, assisted by the Rev. Clyde Whitney.

Miss Hoffman is the stepdaughter of Mrs. Elwin Dean Hoffman and daughter of the late Elwin Dean Hoffman of Cheyenne.

Ensign Bergner is the son of Capt. and Mrs. Robert B. Bergner of Virginia Beach. The bride was escorted given away by Mrs. Hoffman's father, Earl Lound of Scottsbluff, Neb. Mrs. Steven T. Wrightson of Chestertown, Md., sister of the groom, was matron of honor. Suzanne Moran of Cheyenne and Tracy Calkins of Denver were bridesmaids.

Steven Tylor Wrightson, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were James J. Moran and Jeffery Ketcham of Cheyenne, Harold Simmons of Winter Park, Colo., and Andrew Pleiss of Milwaukee.

The bride is in her junior year at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colo. The bridegroom is a graduate of Washington College, Chestertown, Md., and is in the U.S. Navy, attending the Air Intelligence Training School, Lowry AFB, Denver.

A reception was given at the Hatching Post Inn, Cheyenne. The couple will reside in Aurora, Colo.

Michele Marie Clifton weds Raymond Roenker

Chapel in the Pines, Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, was the setting for the March 24 wedding of Michele Marie Clifton and Raymond Anthony Roenker Jr. Father Edward L. Richardson officiated at the nuptial mass.

The bride is the daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Claremont John Clifton (USN, Ret.) of Virginia Beach. The bridegroom is the son of Chief and Mrs. Raymond Anthony Roenker of Virginia Beach.

The bride was given away by her father. She wore her mother's wedding gown of antique satin with lace inset at the neckline. The gown's cathedral length train was of satin. A fingertip length veil of ivory illusion fell from a headpiece of antique lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade of roses with an orchid center.

at the necklines and ivory satin cuffs.

Gail Maureen Clifton served as her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Martha G. Holley, Cynthia A. Ahles, Patricia L. Roenker, sister of the groom, and Cathy L. Gaskins, all of Virginia Beach. Sandra A. Clifton, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. The attendants carried bouquets of blue-tipped carnation nosegays while the honor attendant carried bouquets of blue-tipped carnation nosegays while the honor attendant carried bouquets of blue-tipped carnation nosegays.

Joseph A. Roenker of Virginia Beach served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Robert W. Holley, Gerard A. Ahles, Howard A. Stout, uncle of the groom, and Claremont J. Clifton Jr., brother of the bride, all of Virginia Beach. Timothy A. Roenker, brother of the groom, served as junior usher, and Steven M. Roenker, the groom's brother, served as ring bearer.

The bride is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and is currently attending Old Dominion University while employed by Sears, Roebuck and Co. The groom is a graduate of Princess Anne High School, the College of the Albemarle and is currently attending Old Dominion University while employed by Norfolk Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. A reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. After a wedding trip to Williamsburg, the couple will reside in Norfolk.

Linda Lou Beane to wed Casper Pierce Warren, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Everett Beane of Norfolk announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Lou Beane of Virginia Beach, to Casper Pierce Warren Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Casper Pierce Warren Sr. of Norfolk.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Norview High School and an honor graduate of Old Dominion University. She is presently employed by The Virginia Beach Public Schools as an English teacher at Kempsville High School. Her fiancée is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute. He is employed by Life of Virginia Insurance Company.

A June 16 wedding is planned.

'Generation' to open at Cavalier Playhouse

"You gotta have a gimmick," say show business veterans.

The Cavalier Dinner Playhouse has come up with a gimmick to help promote its new production, "Generation," a comedy about the generation gap in one family.

"Generation" opens Wednesday, April 4, and is scheduled to run through the first of May.

plays a successful advertising executive who visits New York to meet the young man his daughter has suddenly married.

To promote interest in "Generation," the management of the Cavalier Dinner Playhouse is offering five pairs of complimentary tickets for dinner and theatre to see "1776," the next production, to patrons who, after seeing "Generation," write in less than 100 words the best definition of the so-called "generation gap."

The above mentioned suspect is wanted for observation. It has been discovered he's afflicted with a bad case of the "FRIENDLYS" and he is highly contagious. We believe him to be the assistant loan officer and manager of the newest PEOPLE'S BANK OF VA. BEACH office at 6213 Indian River Road.

Be on the lookout, too, for a trailer believed to be the temporary headquarters of the suspect. This is also the first indication that a permanent office of PEOPLE'S BANK is to be constructed at aforementioned location. It will, in all probability, be visited frequently by people.

The Bank in question has a reputation for offering such enticements as:

REALLY FREE CHECKING

CONVENIENT BANKING HOURS

9:00 - 5:00 daily

9:00 - 6:00 Friday

Drive-In 8:30 Daily

PERSONALIZED DESIGN-A-CHECK

If you have any questions concerning said bank or suspect, phone 425-5077... or check out that trailer on Indian River Road. If someone should walk up to you and shake your hand, you are probably face-to-face with the suspect and, therefore, exposed to the "FRIENDLYS." In that case, you're beyond hope. Better smile.
